Phyllis Corliss To Be Presented In Song Recital

Miss Phyllis Corliss of Medford and Miss Jean Clawson of Portland will be presented in joint recital Tuesday evening, April 22, by the voice department of Marylhurst college. The recital will be a public event in St. John's hall, Oregon City. Miss Corliss, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Corliss, 938 South Holly street, makes her home in Oregon City during the college year. Both young artists are sophomores at Marylhurst.

Miss Corliss has prepared three groups of songs, and Miss Clawson has two groups. The sopranos will also appear in two duets, singing strophes from Pergolesi's "Stabat Mater" as their opening number and closing the program with Saint-Saens' "Bolero."

For her first group Miss Corliss has chosen "Si tu le veux" by Knechtlin, "Ici-bas" by Faure, and "Bonjour Suson" by Delibes. Her second group consists of two folk songs in modern arrangement by Benjamin Britten: "O Can Ye Sew Cushions?" (Scottish) and "The Ash Grove" (Welsh). Her finale is from Haydn's "The Creation," when she sings the recitative, "And God said: 'Let the Waters,'" and the air, "On Mighty Pens." Strings and flute accompany the Haydn numbers.

Miss Clawson is to sing three Irish songs in arrangements by Beethoven and compositions by Sarti, Auber, Grieg and Kingsley. Assisting on the program are the Misses Myrtle Stangl and Betty Jean Weber, pianists, and the Marylhurst String Ensemble.
