Your Health and Its Care

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Readers should address inquiries to: William Brady, 265 El Camino, Beverly Hills, Cal.

SO CHILDBIRTH IS NOT QUITE PROPER

Dr. Brady

A year ago a girl of the golden west who evidently has something which too many of her sisters lack, told us how she had her baby in the family car, attended only by her husband. They were forty miles from the doctor. "The doctor couldn't come to take care of me at home because a ranch house lacks necessary facilities . . . We never batted an eye when the doctor charged his flat rate, $150, just as though he delivered me." Evidently the doctor called after a decent interval to collect.

The idea of a ranch house lacking necessary facilities irks me as much as the trick specialists' excuse for excluding the prospective father from sharing the great miracle with his wife. They say he might bring infection into the delivery room. Both of these ideas are without foundation in fact, as any physician with experience in hospital and in private practice knows.

As I have said repeatedly, the place for a man is at his wife's side when their baby is being born. But I hope no nincompoop will make a nuisance of himself by raising a disturbance when or if doctors, nurses or hospital authorities refuse to admit him to the delivery room. The time to decide whether the prospective father shall attend his wife when he and she choose is when you engage the physician. If the physician is anything less than frank about it, have no dealings with him or her. That's my advice.

I am irked by reports of the peuliar behavior of doctors and hospital managers toward the peasants who come bowing and scraping, but I am saddened when I get a letter from a prospective mother or a mother who informs me that it isn't quite proper for a husband to witness childbirth. That is, I'm sad up to the word "witness," and that provokes me again. Childbirth isn't a peep-show. It's a miracle, and in my opinion there's something seriously wrong with a marriage when one partner thinks it is not "proper" for the other to share in the miracle. By the same token I contend that such a strange attitude towards childbirth is a large factor of divorce in Yankeeland.

The wholesome, the happy, the sensible and, believe me, the eminently proper way for potential or prospective parents to prepare for the great miracle is hand in hand, together, from the first glimmering that they are to be blessed right through the joys and sorrows, the worries, fears and anxieties to the moment when they hear the sweetest music in this world, the first cry of their own baby. The man who has missed that thrill hasn't lived. The woman who doesn't want her husband to share the miracle with her hasn't loved.

The expectant father should know as much as his wife does about prenatal care. In order to encourage young married people to approach the great adventure hand in hand I'll send any married woman a complimentary copy of the booklet Preparing for Maternity if she provides stamped, self-addressed envelope and asks for the booklet within this month. If the couple will study this booklet together they will get at least a good start towards a happy life.

'Gadget of Month,' New Safety Razor, Reported by Club

Los Angeles — (U.P.) — The "Gadget of the Month Club," which inspects more than 40,000 "unusual" inventions each year, now reveals its current selection — an improved safety razor.

Club director Don L. Davis, who calls himself "Mr. Gadget" because he claims to see more gadgets every year than any other man in the world, said the razor is the first new idea since Gillette produced his some 40 years ago.

It was invented by a Portland, Ore., cement finisher, Gunner Petersen.

Can't Cut Self

The razor, called Firmblade, is so designed, "Mr. Gadget" said, a person cannot cut himself, it is curved to the contour of the face, it cannot clog, and the user can get twice as many shaves from a blade as with an ordinary razor.

The "Gadget of the Month Club" was started in 1943 by Mary Lou Moffitt, a farmer's daughter from Newton, Ia. Today it is owned by 23 manufacturers. Function of the club is to place new products into the hands of selected consumers before they are put on the market, thus creating advance consumer demand, Davis said.

Many Join

More than 350,000 club members in the U.S., Australia, Canada, Great Britain and South Africa are the selected consumers. They pay $12 a year and receive 12 new products each year, Davis said.

The club selects one gadget each month from more than 3,000 submitted. The selected gadget is patented, tested, manufactured, sampled, distributed, marketed and merchandised, he said.

The inventor gets up to 10 per cent on each one sold for the life of the patent, 17 years.

Same in Past

Some of the gadgets boosted by the club in the past include a lifetime bottle closure which will "never wear out," a golf tee which prevents hooking or slicing, cakeform dentifrice, and a typewriter gadget which will make up to five copies without any carbon paper.

"We simply watch for the unusual ideas," said Davis, "like the idea of putting hot chocolate on ice cream."

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Misguided Prospective Mother

Read of researches suggesting that Oxygen deficit might have something to do with mongolism. Then your instructive articles about the effects of acetanilid and other coaltar analgesics on the oxygen-carrying function of the red corpuscles raised the question whether use of such pain-killers by an expectant mother might not induce oxygen lack and . . . (Mrs. P. C. M.)

Answer — Your reasoning is sound enough. I don't know what may cause or predispose to so-called Mongolian idiocy, but I do know that the use of even occasional doses of such dope is especially dangerous for the prospective mother and her unborn child. Read the chapter on the abuse of analgesic (ache or pain numbing) drugs in the booklet on heart and artery troubles—C. V. D. Or the section in the pamphlet WHY HAVE HEADACHE? about Acetanilid addiction. For the pamphlet send stamped, self-addressed envelope. If you want the booklet also, inclose 25c for it.

We accept the Water Department's apology for giving the erroneous impression about watering instructions.

Just the same, we have it on reliable authority that water will be just as wet this year, if not more so, everything considered equal.

Rare Philodendron Blossom Displayed

Victor Milnes, 15 North Groveland avenue, last week brought to The Mail Tribune office a blossom from the Milnes' philodendron plant, hastatum variety. The blossom is considered a rarity since it is unusual for a cultivated philodendron plant to bloom, they have been told.

They purchased the plant about a year ago when it was about three feet tall. It now measures about six feet in height.

The blossom generally is similar in shape to a calla lily. The stamen is especially large and is white. It is said to be edible and similar in taste to bread fruit. The inside of the calla-like blossom is deep rust in color and the outer side is greenish. The blossoms open at night and close again the next evening taking 24 hours from the time it begins to open until it closes.

The blossom which Milnes brought is the 9th blossom produced on the plant. The first one appeared about January 1. In observing the blossoms after they close, they found that the deep rust color is absorbed by the stamen.

STRIKE ENDS

Renton, Wash. — (U.P.) — Some 1,000 workers were to return to work at the Pacific Car and Foundry company Monday after Local 79 of the AFL Machinists union voted to remove pickets from the plant.

Natural Rubber Bans Ended by Government

Washington — (U.P.) — The government announced Saturday that controls on natural rubber, in effect for 11 years, will be lifted Monday because supplies of both natural and synthetic are ample for all civilian and military purposes.

Henry H. Fowler, administrator of the National Production authority, said all restrictions on natural rubber will cease with the exception of pale and sole crepes which are still scarce.

They said the order will provide "relatively free competition" between natural and synthetic rubber in the United States.

Columbus, O. —(U.P.)— Harold Stassen said here Saturday that he would not tell his delegates how to vote if he is unable to win the Republican presidential nomination.

The Marine Exchange of San Francisco maintains lookout stations at the foot of Hyde street and at Point Lobos.
