Roosevelt Students Visit City Airport

Students of the third and sixth grades at Roosevelt grade school were taken on a tour of the Medford municipal airport this week by Principal John Childers.

At the airport they were shown through the weather bureau by Bob Church, meteorologist in charge, went through a DC-3 passenger airplane, and were shown through the United Air lines building.

Throughout the nineteenth century the British bought more goods from foreigners than they sold. Income from investments abroad was the main credit item that offset Britain's deficit of exports, for Britain was investment banker to the world.

Impatience of Home Folks Weakness in Truce Talks

Clinton, N. Y.—(U.P.)—The impatience of the people back home is the greatest weakness of the United Nations in the Korean truce talks, according to one of the American interpreters at the Panmunjom meetings.

Army Lt. Richard F. Underwood, writing in the Hamilton College Alumni Review, said that "if there is one thing we lack, it is patience." Underwood explained:

"The foremost reason for this is that the Communists do not care about public opinion. On the other hand, the strength of the UN, both moral and physical, is in direct proportion to the strength and will of the people behind it.

Leaders Hard Pressed

"When they become impatient, their leaders are hard pressed to achieve 'results'."

Underwood, who like his brother, Navy Lt. Horace G. Underwood, is an interpreter for the UN truce team, is one of four Underwood brothers who attended Hamilton college here.

The pair speak Korean like natives, having been born and educated at Seoul, where their father has been president of Chosen Christian University for several years.

The two brothers believe there will not be a "peace at any price" in Korea. The article continued:

"We are trying to bring about a fair and equitable military armistice, and of course we all know that the reputation and future of the UN, and the safety of our forces here, depends on our actions.

"The delegates are daily faced with the delicate problem of what it will cost?—In money, bullets and the lives of our men at the front."

One thing the UN representatives are getting, Underwood wrote, is experience in dealing with "these people who have absolutely none of the basic principles we expect to find in men."

Underwood went on in detail to explain the daily routine with the Reds and sums up his article with this warning:

"The Communists base their plans on the 'fickleness' and 'peacefulness' of the democratic nations and the UN, and believe they can outlast us in patience. It is up to every one of us to prove that we can be just a little more patient, more firm, more resolute than they are."

JURY ADJOURNS

Jackson county's newly-convened grand jury has adjourned

"indefinitely," according to District Attorney Paul Haviland. Last Friday, the old jury returned five secret indictments and one charging Paul Raymond Scofield, Lake hotel, with larceny from a store building. The jury will reconvene again only at its own request or by request of the district attorney's office.

Vietminhs Use Human Sea Tactics Against Opponents

Hong Kong — (U.P.) — "Human sea" tactics are being copied by the Vietminh rebels against the French in Indo-China, deputy Premier Pham Van Dong of the "Vietnam People's Republic" indicated in a report to his cabinet.

The principle is to hurl wave after wave of men against fortified positions without regard for losses until the positions are overwhelmed.

It was used with deadly effectiveness by Chinese Communists in swamping Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists out of the mainland, and was again used in Korea. It is essentially a contest of manpower.

The Chinese Communist New China News Agency quoted the Vietminh deputy premier as saying in his report that large-scale attacks launched by Ho Chi-minh's men in 1951 revealed "the enemy's main weakness—manpower shortage."

He said: "This weakness causes the enemy to expose one place by massing troops to attack others. European and African and other crack regiments of the French colonialist army are thinned out day after day. They have to be replaced by 'puppet' troops, but this is like drinking poison to quench one's thirst."

According to the New China News Agency, Pham Van Dong said the Vietminh Communists are meeting with "new difficulties" in their fight against the French. One of the difficulties was listed as the "increasing aid given by American imperialism to the French aggressors."

He also claimed "shining victories" in 1951. They were, he said, the founding of the Vietnam (labor) party, the merging of the Vietminh and Lien-Viet fronts and a series of "victorious offensive battles."

Another "shining victory" was the lending of summer rice and the payment of the agricultural tax to the government by the people, he added.

Local Underwriters To Attend Conclave

Members of the Rogue Valley Life Underwriters association, headed by President Howard T. Dean and Secretary John A. Carter, will attend the 20th annual Oregon-Columbia Sales congress Friday, April 25, in Portland, it was announced today.

Others expecting to take part in the meeting from this area are Mrs. Sofia E. Hall, James Ryan and Joe Crick, all representing the Provident Life of North Dakota company, and Virgil Wilkes and Matt Thome, of the State Farm company.

Featured speakers at the meeting will include national officials of several life insurance firms. Theme of the event is "Sales-Service-Security."

A spatter-guard has been marketed, reports The American Magazine, which prevents grease from marring walls above kitchen stoves. A shade pulls down and catches grease-splatterings. It can be wiped clean and rolled up out of sight in a jiffy.
