Episcopal Minister Here Named Dean Of Convocation

The Rev. George R. V. Bolster, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church in Medford, was elected dean of the southern convocation of the church's diocese of Oregon, at the closing sessions of the 64th annual convention of the diocese held in Portland this week.

He succeeds the Rev. A. H. MacDonnell, Ashland, in the post, which is largely an administrative one, and is for the area south of Roseburg.

Mr. Bolster also was named an alternate delegate to the provincial synod, which will be held in Boise, Idaho, May 6 to 8.

The convention voted to recommend the formation of a ninth province for the church, to include the dioceses of Oregon, Montana and Olympia, and the missionary districts of Eastern Oregon, Spokane, Idaho and Alaska. Oregon now is in the eighth province, which includes much of the western part of the United States.

In other action, the convention established a minimum stipend for missionary priests of $2,500 for single men and $3,000 for married men, and also voted to oppose a proposal that retired bishops would no longer have a vote in the church's house of bishops. This, and the recommendation on a new province will be presented to the triennial convention of the Episcopal church, to meet in Boston next September.
