

Survey of Housing Problems in Flood Area Carried Out

Washington—(U.P.)—Raymond M. Foley, Housing and Home Finance administrator, has ordered a survey of housing problems confronting homeless flood victims in the Missouri and Mississippi River valleys.

Foley, who is coordinator of federal flood relief, said current reports "indicate that homeless flood families are all cared for at present."

To Determine Needs

The survey, he said, will determine long-range needs for replacement or rehabilitation of flood-damaged housing, and whether any stop-gap accommodations may be needed for families unable to return to their homes within a reasonable period.

In another move to speed federal relief to flood victims, President Truman Thursday signed emergency legislation providing an extra $25,000,000 for assistance in the flood-stricken Missouri River valley. The appropriation boosted the amount available in the president's disaster fund to $31,700,000.

Missouri Funds Allocated

Mr. Truman also allocated another $350,000 from the disaster fund for rehabilitation in Missouri and Kansas. Missouri's share was $250,000 and four Kansas counties—Doniphan, Atchison, Leavenworth and Wyandotte—were allocated a total of $100,000.

Giftware On Display At Remodeled Shop

Giftware from all over the world will be on display tomorrow when Mr. and Mrs. Al Floyd reopen their Crater Gift Shop in new quarters at 105 West Main street. The shop, which the Floyds have operated for one year, was formerly located on East Main.

The salesroom has been remodeled during the past two months. Ease of inspection and selection has been the goal in the arrangement of display shelves on three walls. A wrapping room at the rear is arranged for quick packaging. A large new stock of glassware has just been unpacked for the opening.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd, who live at 505 South Keenway drive, have been in business in Medford since 1950 and for many years before that he was associated with several local automobile firms.

As We Live

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, PH.D.

WHAT GIRL IS SATISFIED WITH HER GOOD LOOKS?

No one is perfect. We all have some physical feature that is too big or too little to fit in with our other features. If we allowed ourselves to be concerned about this matter, it could make us very unhappy. That is what is happening to this young girl who writes:

(Q) "I am 17 years old and have a rather long nose for my age. I am very conscious of this. I think what makes me especially conscious is that I have had boy friends and other folks say things to me about it. When I am at school or go out in public, I imagine everyone is looking at my nose and making remarks about it. Is there any way I can overcome this complex?"

(A) Of course you can overcome this complex if you can convince yourself that you are not the only person in the world who has some feature that is out of proportion. Then, when you have been successful in getting a more wholesome point of view about the whole matter, forget about it. It's rude and unkind of people to comment on your nose. I am surprised that boys who are old enough to go out on dates with girls would not have better manners. As for adults, it is inexcusable for them to do or say anything to embarrass a young girl. Naturally, these comments make you self-conscious about your nose but think about the rudeness of the people who made the comments and that will help you to forget about your nose.

At puberty, or the time of sexual maturing, it is quite usual for the nose to reach its mature stage of development sooner than the other features of the face. And, as physical growth of girls who mature at the average of 13 to 14 years is just about complete at your age, it may be that you are a bit slower than average. If this is the case, you may discover in a year or so that your nose does not seem proportionally too big after all. There are hair styles that help to make large noses seem smaller than they are. Go to a good hair stylist and have him experiment with different hair styles on you to see if he can find one that will camouflage the size of your nose. This will go a long way to curing you of the complex you now have. Elizabeth Hurlock is a consulting psychologist. Write her in care of this newspaper for free advice.

Students Object to McCarthy as Speaker

Evanston, Ill.—(U.P.)—A group of students said Friday they boycotted the opening session of a mock political convention at Northwestern University because Sen. Joseph McCarthy was to give the keynote address.

The students, chosen to represent "Louisiana" at the make-believe political get-together, said they did not approve of the Wisconsin Republican's selection as the keynote. The "South Carolina" body joined the group in its disapproval, but they said they would be on hand.

McCarthy was scheduled to speak in the University gymnasium Friday night to get activity underway. Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., Sen. Wayne Morse, R-Ore., and Harold E. Stassen will address the convention Saturday.

Taft's Cabinet Would Contain Southerner

Little Rock, Ark.—(U.P.)—Sen. Robert A. Taft moved to bolster his support in Dixie Friday with his promise to appoint a Southern Democrat to his Cabinet if elected president.

The Ohio senator arrived here to lay his bid for the Republican nomination before Arkansas' two-day GOP convention. He is scheduled to make the keynote address at the meeting, which will name four delegates-at-large for the state's 11-member delegation to the coming National Convention.

Lovelorn Youth Foiled in Try To End It All

Miami, Fla.—(U.P.)—A burly fireman snatched a lovelorn youth from an 11th story hotel ledge here after he had turned a deaf ear to the pleas of a pretty girl and a priest.

James Vickery, 22, Atlanta, lingered for two hours and 20 minutes on his dizzy perch Thursday, threatening to jump to his death because "I want my girl."

Seen On Television

Big John Lundstedt of the fire department rescue squad prevented a tragic ending to the real-life television drama seen by thousands of South Floridians. Lundstedt caught the red-haired youth off guard, lunged over the roof railing and grabbed him. Four firemen pulled the pair to safety. A Catholic priest, the Rev. D. Cronin, and Marjorie Kojac, a pretty blonde who lived with the youth's girl friend, had pleaded with Vickery to come off the ledge. He refused.

Ordered To Hospital.

Pale and glassy-eyed, Vickery was carried to Jackson Memorial Hospital for an examination by doctors, who ordered him taken to Miami Retreat, a mental institution.

Police indicated no charges would be filed against Vickery, but they said they would question him. Vickery told officers he had a "fuss" with his girl friend, a Mrs. Lois Ware, an Atlanta woman who had come here to work as a waitress. She left for Key West after the quarrel, police said.

Heavy Rains Kill Seven in France

Menton, France.—(U.P.)—Landslides caused by torrential rains killed at least seven persons in this picturesque Riviera resort, authorities said Friday.

The town of 18,000 population was filled with American, British, French and Italian tourists. None of the visitors was known to be among the casualties.

The Grange

Sams Valley Grange was opened April 19 by Master Ralph James with all available seats filled by the 135 members present. This was traveling lecture night with Gold Hill in charge of the lecture hour. All Jackson county Granges were represented except four. Gold Hill had the largest attendance.

Henry Conger, Central Point Grange, reporting on agriculture, stated that the cattle market was down locally, he thought, because of the lack and high price of hay in the valley. George Loftin reported on roads, and the new safety posts installed on the Sams Valley intersection on Highway 234. Visiting Grangers giving informative talks were State Overseer William Howes, State Deputy Roscoe Roberts and Pomona Grange Master Herbert Carlton. Visiting Grange masters speaking briefly were Eda Torrence from Upper Rogue Grange and Claude Close of Shady Cove. Flower decorations were in charge of Dorothy Koellner.

Next meeting will be Saturday, May 3. The men will have charge of the program. Sams Valley school will have exhibits at the display table.

Gold Hill Grange
Gold Hill Grange H.E.C. met April 23 with three brothers present for lunch. Visitors were Nora Bailey and Lester Dusenberry. A birthday cake was presented to Lilly McKay. Others with birthdays this month who were remembered were Selma Kelly and Jeanne Densmore. Members were happy to have the Orel Dahls out for a meeting as it's been a long time since they were able to attend.

Nina Dusenberry announced the rummage sale to be held April 28 and 29 at K. P. hall in Medford.

Plans were discussed for the program H.E.C. is put on at the last Grange meeting in May and for the next meeting, May 1 when first and second degrees are to be given. Members are asked to bring sandwiches. Other Granges are invited to bring candidates.

Lena Laricks announced that the V.F.W. would be glad to present a flag to the Juvenile Grange. She also thanked the H.E.C. for granting use of the kitchen to the V.F.W. which will hold their installation in the Grange hall on April 27. It was decided to make a chart of the birthdays of all members.

Lions Broom Sale Scheduled Saturday

Three types of brooms, all made by blind persons living in the state, will be conducted at several downtown locations in Medford tomorrow by the Medford Lions club.

Forty-two members of the club, under the direction of Hilary Meyer, will conduct the sale, which is an annual event.

Floor brooms, whisk brooms and children's brooms will be featured. They are manufactured at a state-sponsored school and factory in Portland. Proceeds from the sale will be divided with the local blind factory agent here, and the club's portion will be devoted to the club's blind aid program.

Those unable to be downtown to buy brooms may telephone 2-7194 for delivery.

19 Students Take Draft Examination

Ashland—Nineteen students took the Selective Service college qualification test yesterday at Southern Oregon college. Dr. John A. Schulz, director of the testing bureau, administered the examination.

Several of the group were Oregon Technical institute undergraduates, Dr. Schulz reported. The Rev. James Jondrow acted as security agent as provided by government regulation.

Attainment of high standards in the tests are favored by local Selective Service boards in determining deferment policies for students.

Car Destroyed Today In One-Vehicle Crash

A one-car accident which virtually destroyed the vehicle occurred near Miller's Gulch, on Highway 99 close to Rogue River, early today, according to state police. The driver, who said he was blinded by oncoming headlights, was uninjured. Police said that the sedan,

School Principals' Annual Conference Saturday at SOC

Ashland—Seventy-five elementary school principals from five southern Oregon counties will meet at Lincoln Laboratory school in Ashland tomorrow for their 15th annual conference. "The Elementary School Library in Action" will be the theme of the session.

Rex Putnam, superintendent of public instruction, and Miss Mathilda Giles, Salem, president of the Oregon Elementary Principals association will be guest speakers at a noon luncheon. A Lincoln school choral group will also entertain.

Major address of the afternoon will be given by Dr. John D. E. McAuley, associate professor of education at Southern Oregon college. He will describe the function of the teacher's college

FAMINE HARDSHIP

Bombay, India—(U.P.)—An estimated 6,000,000 residents of the Rayalseema area of Madras State were reported Friday to be suffering severe hardship in the worst drought and famine yet known there.

in elementary library training. Review Set

The morning meeting will open with a review of the library theme presented by Ivan W. Ickes, Corvallis, state study chairman and Miss Myrtle Funkhouser, SOC librarian. Robert Sharyon, Laneview, will preside at a panel discussion concerning purposes and objectives of elementary school libraries.

Stanley J. Tooke, Lakeview, is president of the Southern Oregon Elementary Schools Principals association, Lowell Kaup, Klamath Falls, is vice president and Elmer Johnson, Paisley, secretary. The Ashland meeting is sponsored jointly by the Oregon Education association and the state department of education.
