Women Increase Political Activity As Election Nears

As the primary and general elections draw closer in this presidential election year, political activity of women in Medford and the valley increases daily. This includes not only the party activity of Democrats and Republicans, but the non-partisan efforts of the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Edward C. Kelly, chairman of Jackson County Democratic Central committee, and Mrs. Curtis L. Hopkins, who holds the chairmanship of Jackson County Republican Central committee, pointed out the great responsibility which women should feel in politics in statements issued last week.

"Give today's woman worker a precinct map and the borders melt into a circle," Mrs. Kelly said. "In her restricted precinct she covers the nation. She covers the world. Her share of the world's problems are there, in the precinct, for her to solve."

"Woman's stake in good government has never been greater, nor the need for her help more insistent. The welfare of her children, of the aged, the cost of living, the family payroll, education, health—these are all matters for legislation. Her alert interest and influence can solve these problems to her own liking."

"The achievement of world peace is woman's responsibility. She has brought those sons into the world. What is she going to let happen to them and to their future? Is she going to shrug her shoulders and sit at the bridge table? Or is she going to help select the best leadership possible and then vigilantly and tirelessly join hands with all citizens of good will to maintain peace in the world?"

"Today there are nearly 2,000,000 more women than men of voting age in America," Mrs. Hopkins pointed out. "If all of them were registered and if all voted, they could determine the outcome of any election."

"If women really want to save their sons from being slaughtered in undeclared wars, they can save them; if women really care what the future holds for the youth of the nation, they can do something about it; if women really want peace, economic freedom and equality of opportunity for all, they can have it."

"If they are too lazy or indifferent to actively participate in politics, they deserve no better government than they are willing to work for."

"I hope the women of America wake up to their great responsibility and exercise the privilege which their sisters fought so hard to win for them almost 40 years ago, the privilege of voting. My advice to the women of Jackson county? Register and vote Republican in November."

Mrs. Frank Fairweather, president of Medford League of Women Voters, pointed out that the league program is to educate women how to participate in politics and that the league urges women to register and vote in the party of their choice.

Mrs. Fairweather quoted the purpose of the league which is "to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government." She pointed out that the success of government depends on the individual citizens and added that the league "alerts the citizen to the fact that politics is his job, shows the citizen how he can be effective in that job and helps the citizen to work for better government."
