

Radio Peiping Plays 'Confessions' To Use Of Germ-Laden Bombs

Tokio — (U.P.) — The Communist Radio Peiping broadcast Monday night what it said were the voices of two Americans who confessed they dropped germ bombs in North Korea.

Peiping said the voices were from a tape recording made by 1st Lt. Kenneth L. Enoch, Youngstown, O., and 1st Lt. John Quinn, whose home town was not given.

Earlier broadcasts identified the pair as pilot John Crane or 1st Lt. John Kenney, 27, of California, serial number 1.799.351; and navigator Kenneth Enoch, serial number A-2. 069.988, or 1st Lt. G. L. Emack, serial number 02. 069.988, of Ohio.

Informed in Briefing Enoch said the Air Force in a "highly secret" briefing, had informed him about the use of germ warfare. He said officers referred to bombs filled with infected insects as "duds."

An Allied spokesman in Tokyo said the United Nations could not accept the confessions as "authentic" because there was no proof that Radio Peiping had broadcast their real voices. Germ Use Denied In Washington, the Air Force denied that any of its airmen had dropped germ bombs behind Communist lines and said that any "confessions" to such action were untrue. It said it would investigate the status of the airmen named.

Moscow — (U.P.) — Five British businessmen said on their return from Peiping Monday that the Chinese Reds played for them recorded "confessions" by four American war prisoners by dropping germ bombs in Korea.

The five Britons, who came to Moscow for the recent trade conference and went on to Peiping to discuss an expansion of Anglo-Chinese trade, said they were convinced the Chinese allegations of germ warfare must be examined seriously.

Local Students Win Essay Prizes

Two West Side school youngsters won second prizes in their divisions in a recent state-wide essay contest sponsored by the Oregon Humane society, it was announced today.

The winners are Mary Neil, who won second in the state sixth grade division, and Gary Metternich, who won second in the eighth grade division. Each youngster received $25 in prize money.

The essays were on the subjects, "What does your community do with unwanted animals?" and "What would you advise for the care and disposal of unwanted animals in your neighborhood?"

Prize money was provided from income from funds left in trust to the society by the late Angeline Berry of Portland.

Medford Plan Fund Totals $26,393 In First 6 Months

A total of $26,393.68 has been given to charitable purposes through the Medford Plan, it was revealed yesterday as the organization issued its report covering the past six months.

The Medford Plan, which calls itself "an organization of givers to charity," is not a charitable group, nor is it a collecting agency like the Community Chest. Its emphasis is on making charitable giving less cumbersome for its members, through a single donation to cover all purposes, and the elimination of continuous and sometimes overlapping solicitations.

Makes Out Checks The plan, which went into operation last September, yesterday made out checks to a number of charitable agencies which are entitled to the money either because they were designated as beneficiaries, or because they are bona fide agencies which have conducted fund raising drives. In the latter category, they receive an amount proportionate to the amount they have raised in past years.

Of the total, $11,048.18 has been or will be allocated to various agencies by the plan's board of directors. The rest, $15,345.50, was money which the donors designated for specific charities.

Largest To Chest The largest amount, $8,015.94, was given to the Community Chest, although the total to both the Chest and to several of the agencies which benefit from its collections, was considerably higher than that.

In addition to the $26,393.68 given in cash payments, a total of $2,420.92 in pledges remaining to be paid was noted in the plan's report.

Pulitzer Awards for Fiction, Drama Told

New York — (U.P.) — "The Caine Mutiny" by Herman Wouk and "The Shrike" by Joseph Kramm received the 1952 Pulitzer prize awards in fiction and drama, it has been announced.

The journalism prize "for meritorious public service" went to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch "for their investigations and disclosures of widespread corruption in the Internal Revenue bureau and other departments of the government."

A special citation went to the Kansas City Star "for editorial planning, organization and execution of news coverage of the great regional flood of 1951 in Kansas and northwestern Missouri."

Nylon, originally derived from coal, is now being made from petroleum in both the United States and Canada, according to The Book of Knowledge Annual for 1952.

Around Hollywood

Hollywood — (U.P.) — Zsa Zsa Gabor sadly decided Monday that her marriage to suave George Sanders broke up because "I'm too good, too sweet and I let him walk all over me."

Aline Mosby and tragic as she detailed the end of her third marriage.

"I'm through with love," she sighed, with a Camille-like wave of her hand that was heavy from a diamond ring the size of a small box-car.

"If you don't fall in love, you don't get hurt, so no more will I fall in love."

"My mother, when she first married me off in Hungary 13 years ago, told me to pick a marriage over career. I, too, think if a woman can get a man and a child that is the life for her. But it is not for me."

"I'm too sentimental," she whispered, and closed her big, blue eyes.

Zsa Zsa confirmed that Sanders, not she, asked for the divorce.

"My mother was so upset when she read this in the papers," she laughed. "She thought that was so unchic! But I believe in telling the truth. I loved this man. I give our marriage everything."

Happier As Romancers "George," the blonde beauty went on, said he wanted a divorce because he thought they'd be happier as romancers than as mates.

"He said he would hold my hand through this terrible ordeal of getting a divorce. That was the exact line he used when he held my hand and called his first wife to ask her for a divorce," she exploded. "I told him to find some other woman's hand to hold."

"George still is playing 'Moon and sixpence,'" she sniffed. "He got a few lines years ago from Somerset Maugham and he's been riding them ever since."

Plan Demonstration For 4-H'ers Saturday

Jackson county 4-H club members will meet this Saturday at the Roxy Ann Grange hall for an all-day "Demonstration Workshop," beginning at 10 a.m., according to County 4-H Agent R. H. Cate, Jr.

"All members who are working on demonstrations are urged to attend, regardless of the state of perfection of their projects," Cate added.

The county agent described this workshop as planned to assist all members in each phase of workshop projects. It would be desirable for them to come early with a sack lunch, he added.

Cate made a special note of lack of demonstration equipment at the hall. "Members should be sure to bring all of the needed equipment," he explained, "as there won't be any available at the meeting."

All parents of members and 4-H Leaders are invited to the workshop, Cate concluded.
