Russian-Born Bear Answers to Russian In Language Harsh

Oakridge, N. J. —(U.P.)— Terrible Teddy, a Russian-born bear, understands only harsh language.

Teddy escaped his cage on a farm Monday and ignored the pleas and cajoling of state troopers for two hours. His master, Willie Waldorf, returned to the farm and gave a sharp command in Russian. Terrible Teddy grunted and hobbled back into his cage.

SOC Student Named Officer in Fraternity

Ashland — Roy Gibson, Milwaukie, a junior in teacher education at Southern Oregon college, was elected district governor of Theta Delta Phi fraternity when the men's honorary group held a state meeting at La Grande Saturday.

Twenty representatives of the three Oregon colleges of education voted to hold their 1953 state meeting at Ashland, according to Richard L. Carter, Medford, secretary of the SOC chapter. He reported that proposals to raise the scholastic standards determining admission to the fraternity will be submitted to local groups for consideration.

Foresters Elect Officers Friday; See Eroded Land

New officers for the Siskiyou chapter of the Society of American Foresters were announced following an election at a dinner meeting and field trip of the group last Friday in the Applegate area.

Elected were John Hall, chairman; Wallace Robinson, vice-chairman; Verus Dahlin, secretary-treasurer; and C. W. Kline, member of the executive committee.

See Logged Land

Thirty-seven members and guests attended the field trip early in the afternoon, conducted by Forest Ranger Loran Cooper, a tour of logged-over areas stressing soil erosion with examples of erosion examined in the Thompson creek sale area.

Following the field trip was a dinner meeting at the Upper Applegate Grange hall. Principal speakers were W. B. Tucker, Jackson county agent, and H. H. White, agronomist at the extension service experiment station at Talent.

Tucker spoke on soil erosion as it affects land management in Jackson county and White outlined the work and objectives of the experiment station.

Politics as practiced:

"Political ears burned today from a crossfire between President Truman and Republicans that shimmered with hot words like 'political gangsters,' 'worse than communists' and 'smear tactics.' . . . Truman started it with a speech. Republican reaction was quick and blunt."

PERSONALLY, I pay little attention this year to such stuff. As I see it, this is our present situation:

Our country is heavily in debt. It is facing the toughest competition it has ever known. Winning out against world Communism will be a real job. It will take the best we have to give.

I'm a business man. If my business faced a crisis like that, I wouldn't be trofting around calling people nasty names. I'd be looking, gravely and seriously, for the VERY BEST MEN I COULD FIND to help me save my business.

THAT'S the spirit in which I'm going to try to do my voting in this year of national crisis. I want GOOD MEN. That's about all I'm interested in this time.

OPTIMISTIC note in the news:

"When it comes to deciding on a career, record numbers of American young people are now making this choice: RELIGION. Most church authorities aren't sure just why.

"'It's highly curious,' says Dr Herman N. Morse, general secretary of the Presbyterian National Missions Board, speaking in New York this morning. 'We call this a secular age,' he adds, 'and yet there's an interest in spiritual work among young people that never was apparent before.'"

DON'T worry too much about our modern young people. If their ELDERS will set them a sufficiently good example, they'll turn out all right.

IF YOU want to ask yourself a serious question, try this one:

"Who among us are making the greatest sacrifices in this period of national travail?"

If you want an honest answer, I think you'll find this one will fit:

"The greatest sacrifices are being made by the young men who are fighting in Korea, the other young men who are training to fight in Korea—or anywhere else in the world where they may be called upon to fight—and their wives and children in the cases where they have wives and children."

You might add:

"The bulk of the complaining is being done by the older ones."

WE'RE all stirred up just now over the sanctity of our federal constitution and what may happen to us if we stand by and permit it to be flouted.

Give this a thought:

A recing meet has just opened in Portland. People are betting on the races. A note on the teletype says the betting on the opening day this year was much heavier than on opening day a year ago. The betting is done on pari-mutuel machines. When you bet on a pari-mutuel machine, you pay your money, you get a ticket and you take your chance on winning or losing. Betting on pari-mutuel machines is permitted by LEGISLATIVE law.

But—

The constitution of Oregon (Article XV, Section 4) says:

"Lotteries, and the sale of lottery tickets, FOR ANY PURPOSE WHATEVER, are prohibited, and the legislative assembly SHALL prevent the same by penal laws."

Webster defines a lottery as "a scheme for the distribution of prizes by lot; especially such a scheme in which lots or chances are sold."

WHEN we permit pari-mutuel betting in Oregon, aren't we flouting the constitution of Oregon? Whenever we flout a constitution, aren't we undermining constitutional government?

What do you think?

HAVE FIELD DAY

Terryville, Conn. — (U.P.) — When high school students took over the village government for a day, they made the most of it. The acting justice of peace performed a mock wedding ceremony, the fire department doused a simulated blaze at the school and the police department quickly thwarted an attempted bank holdup.

As We Live

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, PH.D.

TAKE YOUR HUSBAND FROM UNDER HIS MOTHER'S THUMB

(Q.) "How can I make my mother-in-law realize that her constant demands for favors are affecting our marriage? Three or four times a week she tells my husband to fix this or do that. No matter whether we have anything planned or not, it has to wait. When we discuss it, my husband agrees that once in a while is okay but almost every day is too much. Yet he has never had the courage to say "no". He comes from a large family and it is obvious that she has her thumb over all of them, married or single, so what can I do?"

(A.) If it's obvious that your mother-in-law has her thumb over all her children, why wasn't it obvious to you before you married your husband? Surely you must have known what was in store for you.

Dr. Hurlock

Once a mother gets her whole family under her thumb, it is not likely that she will let go, even after they are married. Your husband, like almost all other children of demanding mothers, never developed the necessary courage to say "No".

Since you resent her domination and feel it is threatening your marriage, you had better do something about it right away. Don't take out your feelings on your husband and make life harder for him than it already is.

As I see it, there are two possible solutions to your problem, either one of which should solve it. First, move so far away from your mother-in-law that it will be impossible for her to call upon your husband constantly to do things for her.

Try Second Solution

If you do not want to move, or if your husband's work makes this impossible, then try the second solution. Call a family council, include the mother, and explain that the mother's constant demands on her children's time and energies will jeopardize marriages or possible marriages. Then offer a solution so that the mother will not feel that her children are deserting her.

Have each child agree to attend mother's needs for a whole week in turn. During his week, that child would not make any plans of his own and would be willing to help his mother in whatever she asked him to do. Since the family is big, this would mean little sacrifice for any one member.

Dr Hurlock will help you with family problems. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Use of Water Pistol On Policeman Costly

Mineola, N. Y. —(U.P.)— Jack Hough, a flashily-dressed joy rider, was fined $50 Monday for shooting a motorcycle cop in the eye with a water pistol.

Hough, 24, fired the stream of water at patrolman Edwin Hausser from an automobile while the officer directed traffic at an intersection. Hausser arrested his "assailant" after a 24-block chase.

Wives of Policemen Denied Radio System

Chicago — (U.P.) — Wives of Chicago policemen have gone off the air for good.

Before Tuesday they could keep in almost constant touch with their roving husbands through the police department's radio system.

Police Commissioner Timothy J. O'Connor put a stop to the practice of relaying messages through desk sergeants because of an "undue burden" on the system.

Cleveland, O. — (U.P.) — The Ohio Bell Telephone company Tuesday asked police assistance in tracing the robbery of one of its pay telephone coin boxes. The phone is located in the lobby of central police station.

BIRTHS COINCIDE

Hartford, Conn. —(U.P.)— Mr. and Mrs. William O'Brien have two daughters who have the same birthdays although they are not twins. They were born a year apart on the same day.

Why Cold Storage?

The proper care of furs can prolong their life for many extra seasons. Yet without this care, even the costliest furs can be rendered worthless in a few moments.

When furs are in use, a few common sense rules will prevent undue damage or wear. The greatest item in proper fur care comes during the warm weather months, when furs are put into storage.

During this period unsuspecting fur owners suffer tremendous fur losses with home-stored furs, unaware that moths, fire, theft and summer heat are ever present dangers.

You can protect your furs from summer damage by simply choosing our Cold Fur Storage service.
