

LIMPS INTO PORT—The crippled aircraft carrier U. S. S. Wasp, with a 75-foot saw-toothed rip in her bow, arrives at New York after a slow trip from the scene of her collision with the destroyer U. S. S. Hobson in mid-Atlantic. The Hobson sank with 176 of her crew. The Wasp returned with 61 survivors of the Hobson's crew.

Griffin Creek Hosts Pre-School Children

Children who will enter the first grade at Griffin Creek school next fall have been invited to attend Beginners' day to be held Friday afternoon, May 9, at 1:30, according to officers of the Griffin Creek Mothers' club sponsoring the event.

Mrs. E. W. Chapman, first grade teacher, will be in charge and students of her first grade room are to be hosts for the party planned and for the tour of the building and other activities. The program is planned to acquaint new students with the school plant and with the teachers.

All children of school district No. 2 who will enter school for the first time are urged to attend, and mothers are asked to accompany them. They are to be special guests at a meeting of the mothers' club held the same afternoon.

Colonial Laws To Be Reenacted by College

Ashland—A 15-minute dramatization of laws enacted by colonial forebears to "preserve the peace and protect the public morals" will be presented tomorrow by Southern Oregon college. The weekly program will be heard at 8:45 p.m. over radio station KWIN, Ashland.

Ten members of the oral interpretation class directed by Angus L. Bowmer, professor of English, has prepared the skit. Barbara Bentley, Murphy, will act as narrator and cast members will include Pete Soderlund, Betty Sparks and Elmer Luschen, Medford; Kay Woodson, Ashland; Lewis Krauss, Salem; Norman Dubbs and Rex Riebel, Grants Pass; Beverly Jones, Klamath Falls; and Stafford Thomas, Melbourne, Australia.

Mary's Franklin, Medford, will play the part of Joan Scholar and Lee Stothers, Medford, will announce, according to Leon C. Mulling, associate professor of speech and program director.

News of 4-H CLUBS

Antelope Cooking Club
The last official meeting of Antelope 4-H club was held at the home of Lucy Gardner on May 3, preceded by a picnic lunch. It was decided that on May 10 after Sunday school, the girls of the Cooking and Sewing clubs would go to the home of Lucy Gardner for a picnic lunch and a day of swimming or boating.

All the girls are to bring their record books.

On May 10, the girls will have a cake sale in Brown's store at Eagle Point. Proceeds will go to help finance a 4-H summer school scholarship.

The Grange

Eagle Point Grange H.E.C. met at the home of Gladys Ragsdale with Marie Hayes as co-hostess. Dessert luncheon was served before the meeting. Goldie Chamberlain reported for the fancy work committee and there was discussion of the fall bazaar and what we would make for it.

Lillian Force announced that the fancy apron contest would be judged at Central Point the fourth Saturday night in May.

Kay Kettlewell told of two contests that we could enter, the community service contest and the 1952 quilt contest sponsored by Sears Roebuck and Co.

Next H.E.C. meeting will be May 28 at Kay Kettlewell's. Roll call will be answered by "Garden Problems I have Solved."

GOP Candidate Rally Thursday at YMCA

The public is invited to a "Republican Candidates' Rally for Contested Offices," Thursday at 8 p.m., in the Medford YMCA, according to Bob Dickey, chairman of the Jackson County Young Republicans.

He said that all Republican candidates for contested nominations are invited to the rally to express their views to all interested citizens and all Young Republicans. The Young GOP chairman stressed the fact that young Republicans, whether members of the county group or not, are invited to the meeting.

A short business meeting for the county Young GOP's will precede the rally with the theme of "Getting Out the Primary Vote," Dickey added.

NEIGHBORS AID BEREAVED
Louisville, Miss. —(UPI)—Last December the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carve Eaves burned and their two small sons died in the blaze. The Eaves now have a new home, dedicated to the memory of Eddie and Dennis. Sympathetic neighbors donated $3,000 for materials and built the house for the Eaves in their spare time.

SQUIRRELS PAMPERED
Harrisburg —(UPI)—Pennsylvania taxpayers paid for 300 pounds of English walnuts this year for the gray squirrels in the state capitol park. Not only have the capitol squirrels lost their taste for acorns, which abound in the park, but insist that the soft-shelled walnuts be cracked.
