As We Live

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, PH.D.

YOU CAN WIN FRIENDS WITH LITTLE INITIATIVE

(Q.) "I am a lonely widow in a new community. I lost my husband shortly after we moved here and I realize that it is difficult to make new friends. I have gone to church but the loneliness at times seems hard to accept. There should be a place where nice people could meet and make new friends."

(A.) Yes, every community should have a place where newcomers could meet and make friends. I am sure that you can find a place where you can meet people who are interested in making new friends. It is always difficult to find new friends in a new community, especially when you are not young. Had your husband lived, you would have met the wives of his business associates and, through them, you would have met other members of the community.

As he is no longer here to help you to meet new people and to establish new friendships, would it not be better to consider the possibility of returning to the community where you formerly lived? There you would have old friends and relatives to fall back on and they would welcome you back into their circle because of their friendship of years with you.

A "nice" home is fine if you have someone to share it with, but it can be a very lonely place if you are there all alone. Even friends would be better than nothing if you cannot have a member of your family with you. But, as you have neither, it seems that the wisest thing is to go back to your old home.

Your Health and Its Care

EMOTIONALISM PLUS IGNORANCE SOMETIMES EQUALS HYSTERIA

Dr. Brady

In the golden days when Topsy was a colt and Lalla Rookh was babbling in her mother's arms—and that's a picture that makes Penn Yan a shrine in the memory of this writer—I received a hurry call to a farm home on Bluff Point.

For the benefit of you poor geeks who don't know the beautiful Finger Lake country, Bluff Point projects southwards from what I hope is still called Keuka College into Lake Keuka, dividing the eastern or Penn Yan arm of the Y-shaped lake from the western or Branchport arm.

Well, sir, that farm home on Bluff Point was a good seven miles from 136 Elm Street, via the finest dirt road in Yates County, which would be equivalent to the distance of Milwaukee from Oshkosh today.

But we made it eventually, with Topsy in a lather and her driver hoping fervently that this time we'd be paid. The patient was a youth about 18 who lay on a bed in the firm grasp of four men. The boy was struggling, snarling, growling and gnashing his teeth. The house was full of neighbors who milled about in great excitement. The men holding the boy registered fearlessness and disregard for the safety of their own skins.

I learned that the boy had hydrophobia—rabies to you and you had better pronounce it ray-buh-ee with the accent on the ray if you don't want to show your ignorance—and he had been mad like that since the preceding evening. How he could not explain, but there had been a number of strange dogs in the neighborhood recently.

It took all the authority I could muster to make the four brave neighbors let go of the boy and leave us alone while I examined the patient.

The boy quieted down and presently I assured the family and neighbors that he'd be all right after a good sleep. The whole ruckus had been started by a quarrel with his girl friend. He had nothing else than hysteria. The boy was probably more than ordinarily susceptible to suggestion—and the family and neighbors interpreted his moody depression as the first sign of "hydrophobia" and by their yammerings brought on hysteria—"a state in which ideas control the body and produce morbid changes in its functions." Next morning the boy awoke, ate a hearty breakfast and resumed his ordinary routine.

Yes, as I had feared, I received no fee—well, why should I charge anything—I hadn't given the patient any medicine, had I?

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Ben's Cousin
I took the daily ration of calcium and D, as you recommended, for several months and with steady improvement in my arthritis, until I was told calcium is the worst thing a person with arthritis can take because it causes deposits in the joints.

(M. H. C.)
Answer—Wuz being a second cousin.

MOO-O-O-S and MUSINGS

Our "Well what do you know about that?" editor has turned up an interesting bit of information about modern merchandising down on South Central.

The "Anticipation Shop" is right next door to the place that advertises, "If you want a boy, call Western Union."

Well what do you know about that?

of Ben Told's. Far be it from the quick who conducts this column to question anything Ben, Wuz, Mrs. Sunney, Sairey Gamp, the corner druggist or the traffic cop says.

Acetylsalicylate is Not Acetanilid "Is the pain-killer acetanilid, which destroys red corpuscles and damages the heart, the ingredient mentioned on the label of a nostrum as 'acetylsalicylate'?" (Mrs. H. F. Answer—No. Acetylsalicylic acid ester or 'acetylsalicylate' is aspirin. In the chapter on the abuse of analgesic drugs in booklet CVD about heart and artery troubles) I say: "Not only for safety but for the most efficient action of the medicine, it is an excellent rule to lie down for an hour, at least, whenever you take any analgesic drug. For the booklet CVD send stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25c. National Newspaper Syndicate, Chicago 4, Illinois."
