Griffin Creek Club Names New Officers; Board Member Talks

Mrs. Glenn Allen was elected president of Griffin Creek Mothers' club at a meeting held Friday afternoon. Other officers elected were Mrs. Ed Goehring, vice president, Mrs. Lyle Heidemann, secretary, and Mrs. Chet Sessler, treasurer.

Preceding the business meeting, the Girl Scout troupe sponsored by the club and led by Mrs. George Large, led in the flag salute and singing of "America." Each of the girls then told of some of their scout activities during the year. Mrs. Dan Neill, leader of the 4-H Sewing club at the school, presented representatives of the group who displayed some of their projects and reported on their work. Both Mrs. Large and Mrs. Neill were presented with gifts in appreciation of their work.

James Walker, a member of the school board for the district, then presented a discussion of the school tax structure emphasizing the assessed property valuation of the district, the amount of the school tax and the outlook for the future of the school. He presented charts showing the school tax structure in comparison with similar districts in the county. These, he pointed out, show that Griffin Creek school has the lowest cost per pupil as well as the lowest valuation per pupil. Among other things he brought to the attention of the group was the number of housing projects scheduled for planning for the future of the school and also the necessity of providing for several items so the school may meet state standardization regulations.

These regulations, he stated, must be met in order for the school to continue receiving basic school funds from the state. In this connection, he urged all parents to vote at the budget election scheduled for Monday evening, May 12, at 8 o'clock at the school.

Mothers of next year's first grade students were special guests at the meeting and after their introduction, Mrs. Myrna Frink, principal of the school, discussed with them items of importance to their children and the school. She particularly pointed out the importance of parents' teaching the child to "stand on his own feet, to accept individual responsibility." She stated that mothers should not accompany their children to school even on the first day. Many other items regarding the welfare of elementary school children were also discussed by Mrs. Frink. Preschool clinic for children entering school for the first time next year will be held the morning of June 2 at the school, it was announced.

Other announcements included a mother-daughter tea to be held Wednesday, May 14, an amateur program on Friday, May 16, graduation exercises on the 27th and eighth grade graduation party on the 28th.

As We Live

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, PH.D.

MOTHER-IN-LAW'S VISITS

(Q) "This is my second marriage of two years' duration. Before I married I told my husband-to-be I wanted to live alone with him and my son by my former marriage. He agreed to this. He has a widowed mother and brother who live together. The brother has a job that takes him out of town now and then. The other day, my husband informed me that his mother would come to stay with us when his brother was out of town. Don't you think he should have discussed this matter with me first? I like his mother but I don't like this arrangement. His mother is a person of means and, under the circumstances, I can't see that this is necessary. Plenty of mothers stay alone at night and make no issue of it. I might add that my husband is completely under his mother's influence."

(A) It would have been fairer to you if your husband had discussed this matter with you before making arrangements. But, as he did not you will be wise not to make an issue of it.

Tell him however, that you do not want these visits to lead to a permanent living arrangement, should the brother decide to marry and go to a home of his own. Remind him of his promise about this. Then be agreeable and gracious.

It is never wise for an older person to stay alone in a house, especially at night. In case of illness or accident, she would be completely helpless. I can readily understand how your husband feels about this matter. If it gives him peace of mind to know that his mother is well taken care of, that should be ample reward for the trouble or inconvenience her visits cause.

Surely you must have known before you married him, that he was "completely under his mother's influence." Such things do not develop overnight nor can they be hidden from outsiders. And, knowing that she was a widow, it must have been inevitable that this would eventually happen. It should not be a shock or even a surprise.

Not Being Fair
Your husband was not being completely fair to you by making arrangements without your consent. But, he doubtless thinks of these visits as emergency measures. It is up to you now to take a firm stand and see that her visits are merely visits, not a permanent living arrangement.

If you have a personal problem, write Elizabeth Hurlock in care of this newspaper.
