

New India City On Draft Boards

Boston — (U.P.) — A new city for Indian is being drafted on drawing boards at Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, Mass.

It is being created by three M. I. T. professors who were handed the "city-planner's dream" assignment by the state Department last May. All members of the institute's department of city and regional planning, they are Frederick Adams, Roland B. Greeley, who have both spent time at the Indian site, and John T. Howard.

The metropolis is to be situated around the India government's newly-proposed, west-coast port at the head of the Gulf of Kutch. Inhabitants are to be the banished Sindhi people. Need for the new city and for the exact designation that it is for the Sindhi arose after India had won its independence from Great Britain.

India suffered a religious-political partition into Pakistan and India. The Mohammedan majority in Pakistan's capital, Karachi, forced some 50,000 Hindus from the state of Sindhi. They migrated in droves to Bombay. Homeless and penniless, the Hindus have created a slum-breeds-crime menace; thousands are actually living and sleeping on the streets.

Expulsion of the Sindhi did more than hurt the pride of the new government of India. Karachi had been a chief port, ranking with Bombay, and a new west-coast port and solution to the pathetic plight of the Sindhi had to be found.

Codling Moth Spray To Be Applied Soon

First cover spray for control of codling moth on pears and apples should be applied on May 20, according to L. G. Gentner, entomologist of the Southern Oregon Experiment station, and C. B. Cordy, county extension agent.

Pear spray may be made by using 1½ pounds of 50 per cent DDT per 100 gallons. If less than 500 gallons of spray per acre is used, DDT should be increased until at least seven pounds per acre is applied, they said. In speed sprayers, seven pounds per acre should be used.

Apple spray may be made by using 2½ pounds of 50 per cent DDT per 100 gallons, being sure at least 12 pounds per acre is used. In speed sprayers, 12 pounds per acre should be used.

In home orchards, ½ pound of DDT in five gallons is recommended with five gallons of spray to each mature tree, they declared. One-quarter spreader depositors per 100 gallons is desirable, they said.

Rent Goes Up; Building Comes Down

Detroit — (U.P.) — Detroit's common council has decided to do what a lot of tenants would like to do when the rent goes up—tear the building down.

When owners of a building which houses three city departments told the city council that the rent was going to jump from $47,000 to $96,000 annually, the council started condemnation proceedings.

The site was wanted anyway as part of a new civic center development.

All Men Need Bust of Wife, English Sculptor Declares

BY ROBERT MUSEL
London — (U.P.) — What every man needs is a bust. A bust of his wife, that is, said sculptor Peter Lambda.

"It should be undraped," he added, "and if the lady's figure is good enough it should go down to a half-length or a full length nude. Believe me wives will find it the best investment they ever made."

Surprise for Husband
Lambda spoke while crowds at the Royal Academy summer exhibition surrounded his half-length nude of Linda Christian for which the film actress sat as a surprise present for her husband, Tyrone Power.

"She is having it cast in bronze for their garden in Hollywood," Lambda said. "But personally I think things like this belong in the bedroom?"

"Or anywhere else in plain sight," said Lambda. "The idea is it will constantly remind a man of the jewel he married. Photographs are intended to do the same but how can a flat picture compare with the real thing, the curves, the contours and so on?"

Have It Done While Young
"Suppose a wife has changed with the years?"

"All the more reason she should have it done while she is young," Lambda declared. "It will remind a man of the privilege accorded him. Besides, as a student of psychology, I believe statues like these will tend to keep men's minds at home, as well as their bodies."

"Women might be too modest to pose."
Strictly Professional
"Pouf," said the sculptor.

Customs Censor Studies Sex Author's Interview

New York — (U.P.) — A customs censor stood by Monday to listen to a tape-recorded interview with Bertrand Russell to make sure it doesn't contain any embarrassing references to sex.

The interview was impounded by a customs inspector at Idlewild Airport because Russell once wrote a book about sex. Russell will celebrate his 80th birthday next Sunday.

SF Chamber Adopts Scheme To Cut Down Taxes by Government

By LYLE C. WILSON
Washington — (U.P.) — The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce comes up now with a new attack on high taxes which would bring them down if its idea were adopted generally.

The San Franciscans simply adopted this resolution: "The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce will refrain from seeking increases in federal appropriations for support of local or regional benefits not urgently required for essential governmental services or for national defense."

Congressmen Advised
California members of Congress have been advised of the Chamber's action. In exchange for that sensible promise not to raid the treasury for local projects, the Chamber asked in return:

1. That taxes be not increased.
  2. That government spending in the next fiscal year be limited strictly to government income.
  3. That there be some real reductions in government spending for other than national defense.
- In other words, the Chamber wants, first, a balanced budget in the next fiscal year. Thereafter by further economies it hopes for tax reductions. Congressmen say the chamber's approach is a sound one.

Known As Pressure Groups
Chambers of Commerce, like labor unions, farm organizations and other blocs of citizens, comprise what is known around town as "pressure groups." Pressure groups apply pressure for what they want. More often than not they want bigger slices of government money than they are entitled to get and considerably more than the country can afford.

And they frequently get it. Local pressure groups can and often do defeat congressmen who oppose them. National pressure groups can be deadly, too. That is why members of Congress so often are compelled to rise above principle and vote for costly projects which they would oppose if they dared.

Might Ease Tax Load
If the people back home country-wide would follow the example of the San Francisco Chamber and take the heat off their congressmen, some of the tax load might be taken off the peoples' backs. Long years of disappointment have shown that Congress and a President usually will be on the side of spending and against the minority economizers. So there is not much chance of relief from Washington. The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce may have started a national trend of self-denial—but it isn't likely.

Autoist, Taxi Drivers Play 'Tally-Ho' Game

Washington — (U.P.) — It was "tally-ho" in downtown Washington with a hit-and-run driver the fox and 40 taxicab drivers the hounds.

Ernest Davis was the quarry of the hunt after his collision with a taxicab. The irate hackie, John Branch, instantly switched on his two-way radio and alerted the company's dispatcher.

The call was sounded and 40 radio cabs joined in the 60-mile-an-hour chase. The mobile "hounds" soon mouse-trapped their victim and brought him to justice.
