Budapest Painter Becomes Victim of Own Deception

New York — (U.P.)—The great Balzac thought that "to think, to dream, mentally to conceive beautiful works, is a delightful occupation. It is like inhaling enchanted fumes."

The artist opposes to the chaos and chance of life the harmony and order of art. He is a deceiver but a charming one. He also is the first victim of his own deception.

Such a dreamer and self-deceiver is the painter Paul Detre. He comes from Hungary, a country whose best sons have looked eagerly westward through the centuries.

Paul Detre, too, went westward as soon as he finished his schooling in his native Budapest. Every artist has two fatherlands: his own and France, he thought. Reality was different from the dream, however.

To paint in Paris was wonderful. To sell pictures was impossible. To live in France was heaven. To make a living was wishful thinking.

To stand in line at the police headquarters for permits to work and to stay was one of life's recurrent nightmares. One always felt the hand of the police on one's shoulder.

At the age of 33 Detre was stricken by tuberculosis. From the self-sought exile in France, he and his wife had to move to the sickness-impelled exile in Switzerland.

The years of isolation and bitterness went slowly by. Then, one morning in 1949, the mail brought the notice that an American visa had been granted to them. They journeyed from the secluded life in Switzerland to the exciting adventure that was New York.

Unfortunately, Detre could not stand the climate. His sickness returned and he had to be operated on. Later they moved to Denver, where he was hospitalized for months. The clear, dry air of Colorado and the excellent medical care that was bestowed upon him worked a miracle. His health came back.

Different in U. S.

Here life was different from anything they had experienced in the past. The police didn't pry into their lives. Nobody looked down upon them because they were immigrants. Their neighbors were friendly and helpful.

After having wandered about in the world for a quarter of a century, the Detres have reached a spot—some 4,000 miles from their native land—where for the first time they felt at home.

Mrs. Detre has a good job in the hospital where Detre has regained his health. He continues to paint. His beautiful pictures are like vague and veiled memories of men and things wrapped in warm, sensuous Parisian color-harmonies. He hopes to find a New York dealer who would buy his work.

"He is such an incorrigible dreamer," said Mrs. Detre with a sigh and a smile. "he really thinks that one can make a living from art."

JUST OLD-FASHIONED romantic clinch occurs when Johnny Ray, who has wept his way to fame and fortune, meets Marilyn Morrison, his fiancée, in New York. She is daughter of Hollywood night club proprietor. Wedding is set for May 25. (International)

As We Live BY ELIZABETH HURLOCK, PH.D.

HOW TO CURE A STRAYING HUSBAND

(Q) "I am 59 years old the mother of eight children. They are all married and live in different places. I always loved my husband and no one else but, once in a while he will take a fancy to another woman and just love to be with her every chance he has. When he has someone else on his mind, he just ignores me. When he has no one on his mind, I am very happy and I want him to be happy too. Do you think he would be happier without me and is there an end to a man's falling for other women?"

(A) To answer your first question, I would say emphatically that your husband would be lost without you.

Dr. Hurlock

He has no thought of breaking up his home and marrying another woman. He has no your love and he is just trying to have a little fun and excitement on the side.

Naturally this hurts and humiliates you. You have given everything too freely because you loved him so much. He has come to take your love for granted.

The next time he gets another woman on his mind, go away and visit your married children. Don't tell him the reason for your visit and don't let him know that it has anything to do with his infatuation for another woman.

Simply dump the household in his lap and go off for a bit of fun and relaxation. Let him worry about the home and see how he likes being all alone. If he gets the idea into his head that he wants to marry someone else, let him know that that is out of the question. He is yours and you plan to keep him.

Make Life Exciting

Make your life at home more exciting now that your children are gone. Entertain friends, plan interesting activities outside of the home, and see to it that your husband is so busy when he is not at work that he hasn't time to think of other women.

Each year, as he grows older, the friends will be more appealing to him. Until he is a very old man, however, you cannot hope that women will lose their fascination for him. Start taking the offensive and make your home life so interesting that your husband will not be tempted to look for excitement outside of the home.

Freak Accident Fatal to Child

Portland — (U.P.) — Cathy Elizares, 2½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Elizares, Milwaukie, Ore., was dead Thursday as the result of a freak accident in which she caught her head in a parked car window.

Sheriff's deputies said the child apparently choked to death or fractured her neck when she fell or stepped off the rear seat while her head was outside the partially rolled down window.

Two other Elizares children were in the car with Cathy. Officers said the father, a dog trainer, had parked the car and was working with several dogs when the tragedy occurred. Mrs. Elizares had left the car momentarily to watch, officers said.

Prison Convicts On Bread, Water

Jackson, Mich. — (U.P.) — Bread and water was the fare of hooting convicts in Jackson prison's Cell-block 15 Thursday, as the man who gave them steak and ice cream after last month's $1,000,000 riot resigned.

Dr. Vernon Fox, the assistant deputy warden, who broadcast "congratulations" to the rioters after their wild rampage had brought death to one prisoner and injury to scores of others, resigned in a letter to State Corrections Commissioner Earnest C. Brooks.

The bread and water diet for more than 200 hardened convicts in disciplinary Cell-block 15 followed a noisy demonstration Wednesday in which guards turned fire hoses on shouting prisoners without effect.

BABIES BORN ALIKE

Chenoa, Ill. — (U.P.) — The birth of twins who weighed exactly the same and are exactly the same length is considered unusual but the Lyell Elson family has gone a little farther. Their twins, a boy and a girl, both weighed exactly 6 pounds 4 ounces and measured 19 inches. Their third child, now almost two years old, weighed 6 pounds 5 ounces and was 19 inches long when she was born.

Presbyterian Mission Work is Film Subject

History of Presbyterian missionary activities in this country is depicted in a motion picture, "And Now Tomorrow," which will be shown at 8 p. m., Friday, May 23, at First Presbyterian church of Medford.

The film has been prepared for the Sesquicentennial of the Board of National Missions, and the Medford church is one of a few on the Pacific coast which is giving a premiere showing.

This history of pioneer missions is said to be of particular interest to residents of the west. It will be of interest to all members of the family, church officers here said.

The Primary Election Is Over . . .

I want to thank Mr. R. W. Ruhl, the editor of this paper, for his help, encouragement and Editorial Support in the Primary Campaign.

I want to thank the people of this County for their confidence expressed in the Primary, and to renew the pledges which I made during the conduct of my campaign.

I want also to thank my friends and members of my organization, who gave so generously of their time, their energy and their financial help in the interests of my campaign for D. A. of Jackson County.
