Around Hollywood

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Correspondent

Hollywood — (U.P.) — Tony Martin, named best-dressed man in the movies, said Saturday that actors — especially on television — hurt their careers because they don't dress right.

Aline Mosby

Tony recently was selected by 104 clothing experts as the movie profile who knows best how to drape his shape. He modestly allows as how a couple of other guys in town are natty dressers, too—but not many.

"Ty Power, Walter Pidgeon, Cary Grant and Robert Taylor, that's about all," he said. "Most actors don't dress right on the screen. And it isn't their fault. A studio will spend $100,000 on an actress' wardrobe, but the actor is just casually told to wear his own clothes.

"The studios should call in special designers for the men, too."

TV stars, he went on, are even worse.

Wrinkled Jackets

"TV comes right into the home and you see the clothes longer and better than in the movies," he said. "You see actors with large stomachs wearing double breasted clothes and wrinkled jackets.

"Off the screen, actors don't dress right, either. A lot look good out of town, but the minute they get inside the Pasadena city limits they get into blue jeans and loud sport shirts.

"More actors should spend their time between pictures selecting a wardrobe instead of going to Palm Springs."

Sartorial Splendor

Martin, who spends about $10,000 a year on clothes, has gone in for sartorial splendor since he discovered that singer Harry Richman was famed for the cut of his tuxedoes. The crooner realized that "what a male entertainer wears is as important to his act as what a girl entertainer wears."

Tony invented his "Mr. T." tuxedo that later was sold to the public — blue and single-breasted. Since then he's added such numbers as a black silk shantung evening suit that singers like Billy Eckstine copy.

Conservative Lines

"I stick to conservative lines and colors," he said. "I want to look like a businessman and not somebody from Hollywood. This town is known for peg-topped trousers and wide shoulders.

"Once I bought a loud sport jacket. Somebody said, 'where's the blanket for your horse?' I gave the jacket away."

For a nightclub engagement next month, though, he bought a gray tuxedo with black lapels and black stripes down the side.

"Either people will think it's unusual—or they'll ask me to deliver a telegram for 'em," he grinned.

Valley Army Men Earn Two Military Awards

Two valley Army men recently were given special awards, according to releases from Camp Roberts, Calif., and Korea.

Capt Galen C. Morey, whose wife lives at Route 1, Rogue River, was given a commendation ribbon with metal pendant during April 25 ceremonies in Korea. He was cited for outstanding service from Sept. 7, 1951, to Jan. 28, 1952, as a motor officer of the 17th infantry regiment, 7th division. The award was made by Col. Richard A. Risent, commander of the regiment. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Collom, 614 Indiana street, Ashland.

Alfred L. Saunders, a sergeant in the Army, was awarded a Bronze star medal in an awards ceremony at Camp Roberts, Calif., during an armed forces day review May 17. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Saunders, 1478 Ridgeway drive, returned here Friday evening after being at the camp for the ceremonies. Brig. Gen. Frank H. Partridge, commanding officer of the division, made the award.

Safeway Charged With Law Violation

Washington — (U.P.) — The Federal Trade commission has accused two of the nation's largest grocery chains — Safeway Stores, Inc., and the Kroger Co. — of violating the anti-trust laws.

The FTC said in a formal complaint that the two companies knowingly obtained illegal price discriminations from suppliers of groceries — that is, they bought cheaper than their competitors could.

Products involved included canned goods, fruit juices, bakery products, dairy products, sugar and spices.

The FTC set a hearing on its complaint against Safeway in San Francisco July 21. The hearing on the Kroger case will open in Cincinnati Aug. 25.

McGranery Asked To Fire Key Personnel

Washington — (U.P.) — Rep. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., has called on Judge James P. McGranery to fire "most of his key personnel" when he takes over Tuesday as attorney general.

Keating, ranking Republican on a House Judiciary subcommittee investigating the Justice Department, told reporters that McGranery's "only chance for lasting fame" would be to bring "a stiff new broom and a liberal supply of fumigator" into the department.

Much-Wed Mormon Released on Bail

Mesa, Ariz.— (U.P.) —George Merlin Dutson, 47-year-old excommunicated Mormon, was free on bail Monday, but authorities said his days of "open and notorious cohabitation" with six wives were over.

Dutson, sought for five months by Arizona authorities on polygamy charges, was arrested Saturday near Showlow, Ariz., on his way back to the home he once shared with the women and his 19 children.

DRASTIC MEASURES—University of Southern California fraternity members don't like to be criticized. They "tarred and feathered" Fred Harper, 22, student and editor of the school year book, "El Rodeo," and forced him to march this way down fraternity row in Los Angeles. They didn't like alleged remarks Harper made editorially against fraternities. The "tar" was syrup but feathers were real.

Custer's First Stand Since 1876 Scheduled

William Mason Custer, 19, hopes to get a second lieutenant's commission after completing his military course at an Illinois university. He is a great-nephew of Gen. George A.
