

Woman's Bible Class Plans Picnic Thursday

The Woman's Bible class of the Methodist church will meet Thursday, June 5, for a covered dish picnic at the home of Mrs. Ira Jones, 2325 Stewart avenue. Those who want transportation should meet at 12:15 p.m. at the church. The picnic is to begin at 12:30 p.m.

Birthday Luncheon
Jolly Stitches will meet for a birthday luncheon Friday, June 6, at noon in the home of Mrs. A. O. Floyd, 505 South Keeneway drive.

They're delightfully feminine gifts... these fragile fancies from "Heirlooms of Tomorrow"... Fashioned of delicate china in pastel shades—lavishly trimmed with handmade flowers and ruffled lace. Give the bride-to-be a heart shaped ring box worthy of her new diamond. The girl graduate would love a small Dresden figurine to grace her dressing table. And the fanciful slippers are collector's items that will increase in charm and value with the years.

Modern decor demands lush, exotic plantings. If you have a green thumb, fine. If not... fill those gaping planters with some of our almost-for-real coleus, begonias, ivy, etc. They're mighty handsome and just think—no muss, no fuss, no watering.

Annual Workshop Of Art Association To Be In Klamath

Klamath Falls — Artists from all over the country—the diligent and the dabbler—again will be matching their tints with the Oregon summer skies and the colorful Cascades when they set up their easels here for the fourth annual Klamath Art Workshop, July 7 through August 1.

Originally a special summer project of the Klamath Art association, the first workshop revealed such scenic contrasts in this mile-high valley of pines and peaks and such limitless wealth of native materials and designs that the demand necessitated continuing it a second year. Now, exploring various art media and techniques each year, it has become a regular program through the General Extension Division of the state system of higher education and instruction is approved for full college credit if desired.

Classes in painting, graphics, and crafts such as weaving, silk screen process, textile printing and design are offered on this year's schedule. Louis Bunce, recognized northwest artist whose work has had major showings at the Metropolitan Museum and the Museum of Modern Art among many others; and Roy W. Mallory, prominent Oregon art educator and 1940 winner of a Carnegie art scholarship, will instruct.

Oregon Technical institute, "with a splendid view of the artist's economy as well as for his artistic temperament," will provide complete housing, including classroom studios and room and board, explains Mrs. Lorraine Johnson, president of the art association. It is located a short distance from the city on 800 acres of pine forests and mountains.

Classes are held morning, afternoon and evening, and subjects may be taken singly or as a complete program.

Extension Member Attends Meeting

Sams Valley—Mrs. R. E. Carley left today for Corvallis where she will attend an annual state conference of the Oregon Home Economics Extension council. The conference is convening at the Oregon State college campus June 2 and 3.

Mrs. Carley will display Associated Country Women of the World scrapbooks.

Mr. and Mrs. Dow Gravens, who had not seen one another for about 57 years, were married May 25 in the home of the bride's grandson, Clarence L. Smith, and Mrs. Smith, 813 Grant street. The two, who had known one another as children and young people, each married and heard nothing of the other for many years. As widow and widower, they began to correspond and the exchange of letters resulted in their wedding in Medford last Sunday. The couple left for Arbela, Mo., to live in the house which was the bride's home as a young woman.

Wellesley Students To Be Graduated In Annual Service

Miss Mary Jane Bragg and Miss Betty Drummond, both Medford, are to be graduated from Wellesley college at Wellesley, Mass., when the school holds its 74th annual commencement Monday, June 9. The two will be among 369 candidates to receive bachelor of arts degrees.

Erwin Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, will deliver the commencement address and Miss Margaret Clapp, president of Wellesley, will confer the degrees.

The Rev. Palfrey Perkins, minister of King's chapel, Boston, and chairman of the Wellesley board of trustees, will speak at the baccalaureate services Sunday.

Miss Bragg, daughter of Lawrence D. Bragg, Glenview orchard, and a graduate of Katharine Branson school, Ross, Calif., majored in English at Wellesley. This year she was assistant managing editor of "News," the college weekly paper, on which she has worked in previous years, and was theme editor of the college yearbook. During her four years at Wellesley she has been active in Barnswallows, the college dramatic association, and in Service Organization, the campus social service association.

Miss Drummond, a graduate of Medford High school, majored in sociology at Wellesley. This year she was chairman of decorations for her senior prom, head of the Red Cross drive on campus, and co-chairman of publicity for the social Service Organization. She was a member of the Freshman Class council and active in the Wellesley Community Chapel association during her first year at the college. For the 1950-51 college year she attended the University of Oregon.

Miss Drummond is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. I. Drummond, Ross lane.

Footlighter Play Casts Mrs. Zapell, David Whisenant

"Suspect," slated as the Footlighters' third production in their new little theater on the Fairgrounds, features Lenore Zapell and David Whisenant in leading roles, Jerome McDougall, director, announced today. It will be produced June 24 through June 28.

Mrs. Zapell, whose most recent stage appearance with the group was as Irene in "Light Up The Sky," directed last summer's children's play in Hawthorne park.

As Mrs. Smith in "Suspect," Mrs. Zapell has her first experience in a character role. She portrays a middle-aged embittered woman, practically a recluse, who is suspected of an almost-forgotten murder.

In the role of Mrs. Smith's talented young son, Robert, is David Whisenant, a graduating senior at Medford High school. He will be remembered for his portrayal of the Life photographer in "Goodbye My Fancy" with the Footlighters, and for his part in "Take Care of My Little Girl," the Medford High school senior play given last winter. He plans to attend the University of Oregon in the fall, where he will major in speech and drama.

Assisting Mr. McDougall during rehearsals of the three-act drama are Miss Barbara Williams as prompter, and Mrs. Dick Kline, who is in charge of properties.

University Student Wins Scholarship

Christopher Williams, Medford, is one of 12 University of Oregon students announced as winners of academic scholarships for the 1952-53 school year by the university's office of student affairs. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas V. Williams, 1975

Houston road. Young Williams has been awarded one of two Zimmerman scholarships for $250. He is an honor student in liberal arts. Some of the state's greatest oil fields are in the Ventura and Los Angeles basins.
