

Pickin' Pears News, Gossip, Comment From Camp White

If James B. Garness hadn't been a golf player, he would never have thought of the idea which keeps him interested in life.

He has been a salesman and store owner and now in the Domiciliary hobby shop he is working on his invention that mows weeds by the same technique used in assailing a golf ball. He can assemble these lawn tools quickly, and keep up his salesmanship to provide spending money, at least.

The device consists of a knife blade at one end, supported by metal braces forming a triangle fixed to a handle, shaped, balanced and adjusted for the swing in cutting tufts of grass or weed growth around bushes. It is also adjustable for a digging action.

Garness has made and sold his weed cutters for some time and recently revived his interest as a means of occupying his time while in the home. He had a company formed at Tacoma called the Lawn WeedDig company. The new tool, he states, "enables a person to cut tall grass and weeds while standing in an upright position without squatting and getting down on the hands and knees."

Arthur Kenton, personable leader of the Camp White orchestra, has joined the canteen personnel where his genial nature is welcomed by the veteran customers.

Mrs. Dick Frost is assisting Canteen Manager Clarence Bryan, and will become the regular utility clerk after June 16, when Mrs. Jack Goodwin starts.

Frank Morris has become a regular employee as head of the coffee shop and Bill Collier has joined as member employee.

Capt. Ray C. Peterson, of Company A, has found it necessary to go to Barnes VA hospital at Vancouver for special medical attention, and his job is being filled temporarily by Sergeant Wallace.

The good June weather combined with the urge to engage in summer work outside has caused quite an exodus since the first of the month, at least 50 members having left. The majority of the men have taken furloughs of 30, 60 or 90 days.

Chester Fairbanks, who does metal work in the hobby shop, has moved over to arts and crafts where he is holding the job of recreation technician and assistant to Ty Teorey Ernie Rickson, something of a fixture there, pulled stakes for a turn at outdoor work during the summer.

infirmary, when she leaves the service June 15 to return to her home in central California, near Woodland.

Roy W. Anderson, assistant manager, is acting manager of the domiciliary during the absence of Manager Paul A. Hatton, who is vacationing in Montana. One of the special activities of the manager's office in the VA is to hold court for infractions of the rules. "Judge" Anderson is assigned the duty of hearing cases which at times may be reviewed by the manager. Sentences, at most, call for the "gate," or enforced removal to the outside for a term.

The manager's court is an institution in all veterans' homes, with a record of fairness and impartiality.
