Grangers Turn Down Anti-Commie Oath; Pick Medford in '53

La Grande — (U.P.) — A resolution seeking an anti-Communist oath for all Oregon school teachers was rejected here Thursday by the Oregon State Grange. Vote to reject the proposal was nearly unanimous.

The action followed a statement by Dr. Rod G. Langston, president of Eastern Oregon college of Education, saying the oath would not eliminate Communists from schools.

To Oppose Betting
Delegates also voted to join with the Oregon Council of Churches in opposing pari-mutuel betting in the state.

Although part of the revenue from horse and dog race betting goes to county fairs, the Grangers resolved to support the initiative measure being sponsored by the church group to outlaw race track gambling.

The delegates chose Medford as their 1953 convention site and voted to oppose the efforts of consumer organizations to de-control wholesale and retail milk prices.

Time Measure Approved
A recommendation by State Master Elmer McClure for an intensive effort to put the mandatory standard time bill on the November ballot was approved and the Grange will ask legislation to transfer the tax collecting functions of county sheriffs to county treasurers.

The convention also set its sights on highway billboards, branding them as "highway pollution" that is not good for the tourist industry.

Around Hollywood

Hollywood—(U.P.)—Betty Grable, back at work for the first time since she staged a no-work strike a year ago, said Friday she's already making plans for the day she'll quit again.

Mrs. Harry James wriggled into a shocking pink period costume with lipstick to match—and went back to smiling in technical color for "The Farmer Takes A Wife."

But when her contract at 20th Century-Fox ends in three years, she announced, she'll "probably" quit and free-lance.

"I'm quite sure I'll work out my contract, depending on the pictures they give me," said the beautiful blonde as she hooked her costume up the back.

May Retire for Good
"After that, well, it depends on how I feel—and how I look. Maybe I'll retire for good. If I don't deteriorate, at least I'd be free of a contract and could work at other studios when I felt like it, and do radio and television."

Fox's biggest money-maker lunched out of the studio a year ago, complaining she hadn't had a vacation for 18 months and needed one. The studio yanked her off the payroll, but under suspension she still was bound by her contract not to work any place else.

Nervous Wreck
"I had gotten to the breaking point where I was no good to anybody," she said. "I was a nervous wreck."

"I had a wonderful year just not doing anything. Then I told Harry I wanted to come back and get the old ball and chain off."

BREEDERS TO MEET
The California-Oregon Hereford Breeders association will meet tomorrow night at 7 o'clock (standard time) in Yreka, Calif., in conjunction with the Siskiyou County Cattleman's association for a dinner meeting with a feeding program as the main topic, according to Earle Jossy, county agent.

to finish the contract so I can be free, and he agreed. So he went off on tour.

"It's good to be back to work," she sighed, "although I didn't relish getting up at 5:30 again. But now that I'm back, it feels like I've never been gone. The same old grind, the same faces, the same routine."
