

Funds Approved In Senate for Oregon Dam Work

Washington — (U.P.) — A Senate appropriations subcommittee has recommended an increase of $172,190,000 in funds voted by the House for flood control and rivers and harbors works. It was reported Saturday.

Subcommittee actions included restoration of funds for The Dalles dam on the Columbia river in Oregon and Ice Harbor dam on the Snake river in Washington. The House had eliminated funds for both dams.

The subcommittee increases included nearly $50,000,000 for Pacific Northwest power dams.

For The Dalles, the subcommittee allowed $30,000,000 compared with a budget request of $37,500,000. For Ice Harbor, $8,000,000 was allowed or $2,000,000 less than asked for by the president.

Subcommittee allocations for other projects, and amounts voted by the House, included:

McNary dam on the Columbia in Oregon, $66,000,000 and $60,000,000; Chief Joseph dam on the Columbia in Washington, $18,300,000 and $11,500,000; Detroit dam in Oregon, $10,700,000 and $10,000,000; Lookout Point dam in Oregon, $17,250,000 and $18,000,000.

Goodwill Flight Halted By Greenland Weather

Goose Bay, Labrador—(U.P.)—Goodwill flyer Max Conrad's bid to fly a small single-engine plane to Scandinavia ran into its second setback Saturday when bad weather in Greenland kept him on the ground in Goose Bay.

A heavy rainstorm was reported over Greenland, next scheduled stop on the 49-year-old flyer's trip from Washington, D. C. The Weather Bureau said there was no sign of the storm ending.

The weather was fine in Goose Bay where Conrad, father of 10, arrived Friday night from Old Town, Maine—where he also had landed because of weather conditions.

Conrad hoped to get back to Minneapolis, in time for his wedding anniversary in August.
