Mrs. Kader Weeps As Prosecution Gives Testimony

Portland—(U.P.)—The first degree murder trial of Mrs. Jada Z. Kader continued Wednesday after the 22-year-old mother, accused of slaying her daughter Sherrie Ellen, broke down and cried during Tuesday's testimony.

It was the first display of emotion Mrs. Kader has made since the trial opened last week. Lie Charged The 90-pound Mrs. Kader screamed out, "Oh, he's lying!" at one point in opening statement by J. Raymond Carskadon, chief criminal deputy district attorney.

Nels Peterson and Frank Pozzi, her attorneys, pulled her back into her chair and she started sobbing. A few moments later she raised her tear-streaked face to listen to the rest of Carskadon's opening statement. The buildup to the emotional display started early. Before court convened, Circuit Judge Frank J. Lonergan interviewed four-year-old Vickie Kader in his chambers before her mother, opposing counsel, Judge Virgil Lanfry and a handful of other persons.

Embraced Child Mrs. Kader hung onto every word her daughter said and when it was over ran to the child and embraced her. The purpose of the hearing was to determine Vickie's competency as a witness. Judge Lonergan said he would make his decision on the youngster's competency later.

Carskadon said in his opening statement that the state would prove that Mrs. Kader caused Sherrie Ellen's death by asphyxiating her and then throwing the child's body down a gas works sump hole. Defense Attorney Peterson told the jury that evidence would show that Sherrie Ellen's death was not caused by her mother.

Soap Box Derby Boys Gather for Problem Discussion

Nearly 40 of the 81 Medford boys who have entered in the Rogue Valley Soap Box Derby met for a discussion in Hawthorne park yesterday. Talk was mostly concerned with problems of construction of their soap box racers.

Chief difficulty which the boys seem to be encountering is in the proper construction of brakes for the racers, and they were given advice on how to solve their problems. Each boy is required to build his own vehicle.

Racers Finished About five racers have been completed, and were on display at the meeting. The boys also were quizzed regarding the rules of the contest, and were reported to know them well. A total of 103 boys are entered in the derby, 61 from Medford, 26 from Grants Pass and 16 from Ashland. The race will be held on the East Main street hill on Sunday, July 13.

Winner of the local race will receive a plaque, and will also be sent to Akron, O., for the All American Soap Box Derby in August.

Derby sponsors in Medford are Barnes Chevrolet company, Chapter 16 of the International Footprint association, and The Mail Tribune.

City Police Court Handles 305 Cases In Month of June

The Medford city police court last month handled 305 cases and collected $1,637.75 in fines, according to a report released today by Municipal Judge Warren Lesseg. The court also received $755 in parking meter fines for a total income for the month of $2,392.75.

The largest number of violations, 62, was for parking on the wrong side of the street. Second, with 41, were drunk charges, and all night parking was third with 38.

Speed Violations Thirty-three violations of basic rule, or speeding, brought in the largest amount of fine money, a total of $350. The drunk charges were second in amount of fines levied which $222.75. Other charges which resulted in a large number of citations

GOP Members Asked Platform Suggestions

Oregon Republicans today were requested to forward any suggestions they may have on the party's 1952 platform to GOP leaders in Salem. The request was made by Mrs. James Mott and Mark O. Hatfield, who will represent Oregon in formation of the platform.

"We have a responsibility to serve all of the Republicans in this state when we represent them on the platform committee in Chicago," they stated. "We pledge ourselves to consider each suggestion carefully."

Platform suggestions should and fines were expired vehicle license, 15 cases and $70; no operator's license, 19 cases and $90; failure to stop at stop sign or red light, 33 cases and $162.50; illegal parking, 23 and $67.50; reckless driving, 4 and $75; driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor, 1 and $100, and disorderly conduct, 1 and $100.

This Fish Didn't Quite Get Away

St. Matthews, S. C. — (U.P.) — Here's a tall fish story. "Bo-Bee" Zeigler was standing on the river bank at Spire Landing with a gig when a large carp swam by. Zeigler speared the fish but the gig broke off and the carp swam away.

Three hours later, Brogren Rucker, fishing with a line a quarter of a mile downstream, hauled in the 10-pound escapee. The carp had passed Rucker's submerged line and the hook caught in the broken gig. Zeigler got credit for an assist.

Refusal To Rule Out MacArthur as Speaker Recalls HST's Choice

Washington—(U.P.)—The Army department's refusal to disqualify Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Republican keynote speaker recalls that Sen. Robert A. Taft is President Truman's candidate for the GOP presidential nomination.

Mr. Truman has said so, and publicly. If MacArthur's keynote helps to nominate Taft and to stop Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, as some of Ike's friends fear, the Army would appear to have done its part.

Free To Speak Its ruling was that since MacArthur has no military assignment at the moment, he was free to make political speeches despite the fact that he is technically on active service as a five star general.

The facts are, however, that Eisenhower's friends and others put the Army on an impossible spot with suggestions that MacArthur was not qualified to make a political speech before a convention or anywhere else.

MacArthur already has been making political speeches all over the nation. To disqualify him for a convention appearance would have required someone to make some mighty fine distinctions between convention politics and other politics.

In Same Position More embarrassing, however, to the Pentagon brass was the fact that Eisenhower was in exactly the same position as MacArthur when he waded into politics up to his hips as president of Columbia university.

University President Eisenhower was neither retired nor resigned from the Army, but on active service, when he undertook his speaking campaign against the Truman administration.

If Eisenhower's old friends in the Pentagon slapped down MacArthur in 1952 for doing what Eisenhower did a couple of years earlier, there would have been some explaining to do. And MacArthur was ready to put some tough questions to the Pentagon's department of explanation.

Passage Recalled Now that it all is settled, politicians are recalling a passage from one of the speeches MacArthur delivered here at home since Mr. Truman yanked him out of Japan.

"I shall raise my voice," said the general, "as loud and as often as I believe it to be in the interest of the American people." The general is a man of his word.

Indians Seek Seclusion As Site for Pow-Wows Oklahoma City (U.P.)—Things aren't what they once were in this capital city of old Indian Territory.

Jasper Saunkeah, deputy U. S. Marshal and chief of the Kiowa Indian tribe, is conducting a so-far fruitless search for a place he and his tribal brothers can pound their tom-toms without objections from the palefaces.

"Once or twice a month we would like to hold an Indian program," Saunkeah said, "but we need a place where the tom-toms would not cause a disturbance."

More Resolutions At Labor Convention

Seaside—(U.P.)—The seemingly endless batch of resolutions have continued to drop in to the hopper of Oregon State Federation of Labor's annual convention Wednesday as action was awaited on a proposal calling for a National Labor party.

Officials of the Portland Printers' Local declared in their resolution that labor is getting nowhere in the two major parties which were held to be instruments of big business. They proposed that the officers of the federation undertake to bring all labor organizations into a common labor front for political purposes.

One batch of resolutions came from teachers, firemen, and other public employees, and dealt with the changing current practices in government agencies. They were referred to committees.
