Internist Added To Clinic Staff

Dr. John Lewis Welch, a specialist in internal medicine, recently was added to the staff of Doctors clinic on West Main street, the clinic announced last week.

Dr. Welch, born and educated in Bozeman, Mont., took pre-medical work at Montana State college, and attended Northwestern university medical school in Chicago. He interned at Westchester County hospital, New York, followed by two years in the Army medical corps, serving in the south Pacific.

For the past five years the physician has taken post graduate courses in internal medicine in Portland and San Francisco, and is a candidate for certification by the American Board of Internal Medicine.

Mrs. Welch, formerly of Portland, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Sharkey, Portland. The couple are making their home at 914 Stewart avenue, Medford.

Warren Quietly Waits Chance for Limelight At GOP Convention

Sacramento, Calif.—(U.P.)—The hoopla and headlines center on Taft and Eisenhower but a third man is waiting quietly in the wings for a chance to step into the spotlight as the Republican party's presidential nominee.

He is quiet, affable, 61-year-old Earl Warren, governor of California.

He has 76 solid votes in his pocket to take with him to the Chicago nomination convention and he has a clear-cut plan to win it right and hope that neither Sen. Robert A. Taft nor Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower can muster the 604 votes needed to win the nomination.

If that happens, Warren hopes to be the man.

His pre-convention strategy has been one of carefully avoiding criticism of any ranking candidate. In his speeches, he never has mentioned either man by name and he has concentrated on explaining his own policies and beliefs.

Won't Make Deal

Warren's opponents claimed during the recent primary election that the governor is not a serious presidential candidate, that he will trade his key bloc of convention votes in exchange for the promise of a cabinet post, a Supreme Court appointment or perhaps the vice-presidential nomination again.

The governor emphatically denies it and claims he has made "no deals with anyone and I will make none."

No Plans to Visit Ike

Warren has had no correspondence or talks with Eisenhower or his strategists since the general's return from France. Although his Chicago convention train will pass through Denver—Eisenhower's headquarters—on its way to Chicago, Warren has no plans to stop over and talk to Ike.

Likewise he has steered clear of the Taft crowd.

His strategists hope his unwavering down-the-middle course will make him an attractive compromise candidate at Chicago to both liberal and conservative factions in the GOP.

Governors of Two States To Review 41st Division

Fort Lewis, Wash.—(U.P.)—The Pacific Northwest's "own" 41st infantry division composed of Oregon and Washington national guardsmen, marched in review Saturday before the governors of the two states.

Governors Douglas McKay of Oregon and Arthur B. Langlie of Washington were scheduled to join ranking officers of Fort Lewis and 6th Army headquarters in reviewing some 5500 men of the division at the climax of their summer training.

Youngster Arrested On Money Charge

A 14-year-old boy was arrested around noon Friday by the city police and charged with embezzling money from Pruitt's Music center, 111 West Main street. The boy was released in the custody of his parents.

Almus Pruitt reported to the police Friday morning that the youth had taken money from the cash register. He estimated that $40 had been taken.

The boy told the police that he had taken no more than $20, and that he had taken it over a considerable length of time. He said $5 was the largest sum he had taken at any one time. That was used to purchase a pair of pants he said he needed for another job.

Pie-Throwing Youth Puzzles Elderly Man

Portland — (U.P.) — Charles J. Carlson, 70, told police Saturday a young man walked up while he was working in his yard, asked directions to a church and then threw two cream pies in his face before he could reply.

The young man then got in a car with two other youths and drove away. Carlson could offer no motive for the pie-throwing.

Use of distilled water in a steam iron will prevent minerals from forming a deposit that eventually may clog the steam holes.
