Shakespearean Festival Needs Actors and Production Workers

Ashland—Actors and production staff members are needed for this year's Oregon Shakespearean festival, Bill Dawkins, executive secretary, said this morning.

Although this year's company is about normal in size, the additional actors and workers are needed because of the extremely large casts required for two plays.

The cast of "Henry V" numbers 65, Dawkins said, and a cast of 50 persons is needed for "Julius Caesar." Men are needed for small speaking parts in these plays and girls, or couples are needed for a dance scene in "The Tempest." In addition the directors need certain girls, rehearsal secretaries and book holders, according to Dawkins.

Anyone interested in working with the festival company is asked to call at the Shakespearean shell in Ashland, or call the festival office, Ashland 2-8636.

Four Persons Hurt In Two-Car Mishap

Four persons were injured early Sunday in a two-car collision on McAndrews road just west of the intersection with Old Crater Lake highway, according to state police.

The cars were driven by Donald S. Kendall, route 1, box 108-A, Ashland, and Mary Danford, route 3, box 126-A, Medford, according to investigating officers. They said it was believed a mechanical failure in the Danford car, which threw the vehicle into the path of Kendall's car, was responsible for the accident.

The two drivers and one passenger from each car were taken to Sacred Heart hospital by Conger-Morris ambulance. Kendall was treated for arm cuts and a bruised knee and Tom H. Kellogg, Pasadena, Calif., a passenger in his car, was taken to the hospital but received no treatment, according to attendants.

Mary Danford was treated for head cuts and released. Roma Lee Liddell, 712 South Newtown street, also received treatment for head cuts and was hospitalized over night, attendants reported.

Boyle was treated for knife slashes on one hand and his forehead and minor stab wounds on the head and leg.
