

Lumberjacks Favored In Series With Studs

Medford's Cheney Studs will be definite underdogs Saturday and Sunday when they scrap with the potent Coos Bay-North Bend Lumberjacks at the fairgrounds baseball park here.

The 'Jacks are now second place in the Southwestern Oregon Baseball circuit after getting off to a slow start and Medford is tied for fourth.

However, Coos Bay will not regard the series lightly because of its favored role. In fact, the coast nine views the two games as tough and crucial. The Lumberjacks feel they must win both to stay in the thick of the race for first place in the circuit. Just As Strong Feeling of the need of victory is just as strong on the part of the Studs. They must win both to keep in the first division hassle. A double victory for the Medford team will tie the teams with seven wins and five losses. The Cheney gang could find itself sharing second spot honors with Coos Bay.

The week-end series here will provide the first opportunity for Medford fans to see a couple of Seattlites on their team in action.

One is Pete Bianchi, shortstop, who saw his first action for Medford at Bandon last week-end. He fielded well and got three hits, one a triple, in the two games. Bianchi comes from a family of baseballers. He has played for Seattle in the Coast loop and has seen action in the Western International league.

Karpel To Pitch
Herb Karpel is the other man from Seattle, coming here after considerable delay. He has seen major league duty and played Coast circuit ball for Seattle. Karpel is scheduled to share pitching duties this week-end with Paul Gehrmann. Carl Huener and Cliff Piland will be on hand for relief.

Others in the Medford lineup will be Frank Roelandt, catcher, fifth leading hitter in the loop with a .439 average; Clarence Melbye, first base; Jack Gordon (.333), second base; Alex McDonald (.307), third base, and Norm Lueich, Snuffy Smith and Moose Blevins, outfielders.

Games will be at 8 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday.

Harrington, Getchell Lose in OGA Tourney

Portland—(UP)—Ralph Dichter of Astoria edged defending champion Bob Atkinson on the 20th hole Wednesday to post the biggest upset of the Oregon Golf Association championship play.

The ex-Oregon Golf Association championship play. The ex-Oregon state college ace then defeated Bob Bronson of Portland 2 and 1 to lead seven other linksmen into Thursday's quarter final.

Dick Yost of Portland, a strong pre-tourney favorite, defeated Woody Ball of Portland on the 19th hole and then eliminated Medford's Phil Getchell 3 and 2 to reach the quarter final.

Joining Yost and Dichter were Bruce Cudd, 18-year-old Portland; Bill Sundstrom of OSC; and Lou Stafford, John Boyd, Bob McReynolds, and Dick Estey, all of Portland.

Jim Shaw, who had pulled a major upset by eliminating medalist Dick Hanen of Coos Bay, lost out in the afternoon round to Cudd.

In women's play, Pat Lesser of Seattle continued to set the pace as she turned back Mrs. Richard Grubbs of Portland. Other winners were Mrs. J. C. Herron, Mrs. Harry Stepp, Mrs. R. L. Borst and Barbara Snook, all of Portland.

The women take a rest Thursday and play the semi-final matches Friday.

2nd Round Wins
Phil Getchell, Medford, who defeated Emlore Seeds, Vancouver, Wash., in the first round of the Oregon Golf association tourney championship flight, beat Mort Vines, Tualatin, 1 up in the second round before falling to Yost.

Bob McReynolds, Portland, ousted George Harrington, Medford in the third round. Earlier Harrington had downed Eric Nelson, Portland, 3 and 1 in his second match.

George Beecher, Ontario, a member of Rogue Valley Country club, Medford, defaulted in the first flight yesterday.

In the women's first flight Wednesday Mrs. W. W. Davies, Medford, tipped Mrs. Jack Glas, Portland, 4 and 3. In the fourth bracket, Mrs. Ray Segale, Astoria, topped Mrs. Belle Schenck, Medford, 1 up.

Retriever Club To Hold Picnic Trial on Sunday
Rogue Valley Retriever club will hold a picnic trial near the Old Military bridge on Rogue river on Sunday, June 29.

There will be a free pheasant feed about 1:30 p.m. with a nominal charge for trimmings. Coffee, soft drinks and ice cream will be available at the grounds.

Three stakes are planned. They will be derby, for dogs under two years of age; qualifying, for all dogs which have never won a first place, and open all-age for all dogs. Starting time is 9:30 a.m. with trials continuing throughout the day.

To Be Warm Up
The event will be a warm up for the Medford, Klamath and Eugene picnic trials to be held later for rotating trophies. Ducks and pigeons will be used for water and land series.

The public is invited to the trial and club members said that retriever owners are especially welcome to take advantage of the opportunity to work their dogs and become acquainted with club activities. They said they desired to help new dog owners and handling and training their animals.

Eugene Retriever club members will be guests.

Persons going to the trial site from Medford are advised to cross the bridge, turn to the right and go about one-fourth mile.

Annual Archery Tournament Set
The 25th annual tournament of the Oregon State Archery association will be held on July 4, 5 and 6 in Portland with most events to be at Sherwood field, Washington park.

Activities will get underway Friday with registration in the morning and the Oregon Pope Young round in the afternoon.

On Saturday morning men will shoot the York round and women and junior boys and girls the national round. Intermediates will contend in the first junior American round.

In the afternoon men will vie in the first American round and women and juniors in their American round. Intermediates will fire a second round.

Sunday's competition will start with a flight shoot. Target events will be the men's second American round, the women's and juniors' Columbia round and the intermediates' third round.

There will be a clout shoot in the afternoon.
