

Recommended

A feature story on the newly revised Gold Hill sewage disposal plant appears on Page 9 of today's issue of The Mail Tribune.

MEDFORD

United Press—Full Leased Wire

TRIBUNE

United Press—Full Leased Wire

Weather

FORECAST—Generally cloudy today with occasional afternoon showers or thunderstorms. Expected high today 75-78, low tonight 48-50.

|                   | Temp. |
|-------------------|-------|
| Highest yesterday | 76    |
| Lowest yesterday  | 54    |

47th Year

26 Pages

MEDFORD, OREGON, SUNDAY, JUNE 29, 1952

No. 85

DUNKIN'S CABIN—Pictured above is the Elk creek cabin of George Baker Dunkin, eccentric 67-year-old miner, who is wanted by police in connection with the Tuesday murder of State Officer Phil B. Lowd. When Officer Lowd was killed, he was across a creek on the other side of a ravine, which is to the left of the cabin. State police said Dunkin came out of the only door of the cabin, around the left corner of the building, and ran down along the log, foreground, before firing at Lowd and Officer Charles Offenbacher. —(State Police Photo)

Search for Dunkin in Sixth Day; Airplanes Take Part in Manhunt

The search for George Baker Dunkin, 67-year-old trapper wanted for the murder of State Officer Phil Lowd, continued for the sixth day today, according to state police, with possible air support if the weather permits. Airplane passes over the dense forested area in Upper Elk creek have been made since Thursday by several local pilots, as weather permitted. Officer Austin Murray, Roseburg, made several "passes over the area yesterday," police related, but couldn't see anything in what was described as "pretty nasty" weather.

Two Ashland pilots will "make passes over the area in which Dunkin is believed to be hiding today," police added, again if the weather permits. They expressed their appreciation to the response from private people who own airplanes.

Search on Ground
On the ground, nearly a score of armed men are circling the area where Dunkin is believed to be in hiding. The men are under orders not to take any unnecessary risks by entering the thick underbrush where the fugitive, an expert rifleman, might get a shot at them.

No change has been made in the search strategy, police continued with the men staked out at places where Dunkin is expected to eventually go for food or shelter.

Tracks Washed out
The only sign of the wanted man since the shooting occurred has been footprints, since washed out by the heavy rain. The total area under watch totals 50 square miles and is pitted with numerous mine shafts and places of refuge for the trapper.

Police reported late Saturday that the search has settled down to routine work now and that the searching will continue "until we get him."

Klamath Radio Station To File for TV Channel

Klamath Falls — (U.P.) — Radio Station KJFI of Klamath Falls will file application Monday with the Federal Communications commission for television channel No. 2, W. D. Miller, president of KJFI Broadcasters, announced Saturday.

Miller said channel No. 2 was allocated to Klamath Falls by the FCC.

Hawaiian Volcano Eruption Spectacular But Harmless

HILO, T.H. — (U.P.) — The volcano Mount Kilauea, dormant for nearly 18 years, erupted violently but harmlessly Saturday, sending puffs of brilliant sulphur-hued steam clouds towering over the island of Hawaii in a spectacle rivaling an atomic blast.

Eye witnesses reported the eruption was preceded shortly before midnight by slight earthquake. Then red-hot lava began flowing from the "Halemauau fire pit," a smaller crater in the 15-mile round main Kilauea crater, at 1:15 a.m. HST (4:15 a.m. PDT).

Looks Like Atom Cloud
Several hours after the first eruption Capt. H. Lanier Turner, Oakland, Calif., pilot of a Honolulu-bound Pan American Airways plane, circled the rejuvenated volcano. He said the scene "looked like an atom cloud when eruptions would send puffs of smoke into the air."

Turner said there was plenty of boiling lava to be seen inside the crater, but there was no indication it would overflow.

During the pre-dawn hours flames from the eruption leaped high into the sky, lighting the

Acheson To Deliver Warning To Russia In Berlin Outpost

Strict Security Measures Ordered

Berlin — (U.P.) — Secretary of State Dean Acheson flew to tense and isolated Berlin late Saturday to deliver a blunt warning to the Soviets that the West never will be intimidated or driven from this outpost, 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain.

A reception in Acheson's honor was boycotted by Gen. Vassily I. Chuikov, Soviet commander in Germany, under whom the Russians are carrying out a program of "hate America" propaganda and tightening restrictions on the western sectors of Berlin.

Chuikov sent, instead, two of his aides, who munched hors d'oeuvres and swapped jokes with the U. S. secretary for 15 minutes. They were the last to arrive and among the first to leave.

Did Not Talk Politics
Acheson's aides said the Soviet representatives "did not talk politics."

That was left to the three western Berlin commandants. Shortly before the reception, they sent the Soviets a sharp protest against increasingly tight restrictions on the movement of German residents of the west sectors of the divided city.

Strict security measures were ordered throughout the west sectors of the city during Acheson's 24-hour visit. As a precaution against possible Communist attempts to demonstrate, 10,000 West German police were mobilized. Tempelhof airfield, in the American sector, was closed to the public for Acheson's arrival.

Acheson was scheduled to deliver his warning to the Soviets in a speech at 11:30 a.m. (9:30 a.m. PDT) Sunday at a public rally.

Taft States Unity Of Party Not Hurt

Washington — (U.P.) — Sen. Robert A. Taft, preparing to fly to Chicago in the climatic phase of his bid for the Republican presidential nomination, said Saturday that party unity has not been seriously hurt by the turbulent campaign.

The Ohioan radiated confidence and told a press conference that only the argument "Taft can't win" stands between him and certain nomination when the convention opens July 7.

He conceded the argument is somewhat damaging, but claimed nearly enough first ballot votes for nomination. He said his purpose between now and convention opening is to hold the delegates already committed to him and find replacements for any woeed away.

On the subject of unity in his party, Taft said the republicans have never had much trouble agreeing on a program.

He said Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, his principal opponent, has "had to take about the same position (as Taft) and that doesn't strike me as any calamity."

GALA RECEPTION—Ticker tape floats down through rain and mist in salute to the new first lady of the seas, the S. S. United States, as she proceeds up the North River to berth on arrival in New York.

President Truman Approves Measure Boosting Marines

Washington — (U.P.) — President Truman who once called the Marine Corps the Navy's police force, signed into law Saturday a bill strengthening the corps and making its commandant a part-time member of the joint chiefs of staff.

Under the statute the Leathernecks must be maintained hereafter at not less than three combat divisions and three air wings. The ceiling on its strength is set at 400,000 officers and men.

The Marine Corps commandant will have "co-equal" status with the Army, Navy, and Air force members of the joint chiefs of staff when marine matters are involved.

Although some marine boosters had feared Mr. Truman would veto the measure, his action was expected to further mollify the corps which he has criticized in the past.

At one time, Mr. Truman complained that the marines had a "propaganda machine second only to Stalin's." An old army man, the president subsequently publicly apologized to the marines in a personal appearance before the Marine Corps League.

Sponsors of the new law said the measure will save guard the corps on the home front against both its enemies and friends. Its enemies, they said, wanted to dismember the corps or trim its functions to police and guard duty.

Kader Sentencing Set for Wednesday

Portland — (U.P.) — Jada Z. Kader, back in her Rocky Butte jail cell Saturday will have to wait until 10 a.m. Wednesday to hear her sentence for the slaying of her three-year-old daughter Sherrie Ellen.

The 22-year-old mother was convicted of manslaughter by a circuit court jury vote of 11 to 1 Friday and Judge Frank J. Lonergan set Wednesday morning as the time for sentencing. He could send Mrs. Kader to the state penitentiary for 15 years and fine her $5,000.

The jury began its deliberations at 10:37 a.m. Friday and announced the verdict at 3:35 p.m. At 2 p.m. the jurors returned to the court room to ask new instructions on the different degrees of homicide. Judge Lonergan repeated his original instructions.

Mrs. Kader was charged with the first degree murder of her daughter after the body of the little girl was found in a south-east Portland gas works sump hole in January.

NLRB Sustains Finding In Central Point Case

Washington — (U.P.) — The National Labor Relations Board said Saturday it has sustained findings of A. Bruce Hunt, trial examiner, that the Howard-Cooper corporation's Central Point, Ore., operations engaged in unfair labor practices.

The unfair tactics allegedly were in 1951 against the AFL International Association of Machinists, local No. 1468.

Hunt said the company failed to bargain collectively with the union and had interfered with activities of its members. The company appealed to the NLRB, which affirmed the examiner's findings and ordered the company to cease and desist in such practices.

500 Rhee Supporters Hold Korean Assembly Prisoner for 5 Hours

Pusan, Korea, Sunday — (U.P.) — A mob of 500 shouting supporters of President Syngman Rhee held 103 members of the national assembly prisoner for five hours yesterday with a human barricade.

The Rhee supporters, surrounded the legislative building in this provisional capital at 1:30 p.m. when the assembly voted to adjourn without taking action on a proposal to dissolve itself.

Korean home minister Lee Bum Suk freed the legislators by ordering police to form a path

Senate Passes Bill Providing Benefits For Korean Vets

Washington — (U.P.) — The Senate Saturday passed by voice vote a billion-dollar-a-year G.I. Bill of Rights for veterans of the Korean War.

The measure calls for educational allowances, home and insurance loan guarantees, mustering out pay and other readjustment benefits such as those in the G.I. Bill of World War II.

A Senate-House conference committee will have to reconcile the Senate bill with a similar measure previously approved by the House.

The Senate adopted a provision by Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.), stipulating that an unemployed veteran can receive the same unemployment compensation he would have received if he had been employed in private industry, rather than the armed forces.

The House bill makes no provision for unemployment compensation. This was designed to prevent a repetition of the "52-20" clubs of World War II in which some veterans preferred to receive maximum unemployment benefits of $20 a week for 52 weeks before looking for a job.

Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala.), whose labor subcommittee drafted the bill, told the Senate funds are available to start the program.

Veterans who have served in the armed services since June 27, 1950, are entitled to benefits under the bill — regardless of where they spent their military careers.

Private Darl Barlow Struck by Shrapnel

Pvt. Darl W. Barlow, the son of Warren Barlow, 135 Almond street, and of Mrs. Pauline A. Barlow, 1065 Ellendale drive, was wounded in Korea June 21, the war department has announced.

His mother has received word that he has been hospitalized at Pusan. His wounds, received from shrapnel, were reported to be not serious.

Barlow was wounded on Hill 200 on the western front, where the 45th had undergone fierce fighting. He has been overseas since March, 1951. Since December he has been at the front.

Barlow has two brothers in Medford, Clyde, 842½ Taylor street, and Gene, 1065 Ellendale drive.

HST'S BUDGET CUT 27 PCT. IN HOUSE ACTION

Washington — (U.P.) — The House Saturday slashed $3,731,025,250 or 27 per cent, from President Truman's budget requests for foreign aid, military construction, atomic expansion and a host of other items.

The big $10,122,840,780 measure whipped through on a voice vote after the legislators dealt hefty new cuts in the already hard-hit foreign aid and atomic energy sections.

The new economy wave was certain to bring more complaints from the administration which already has charged Congress with dangerously slashing its security programs.

The House lopped another $243,993,000 off the foreign aid bill for the year beginning Tuesday, nearly doubling the slash recommended by the appropriations committee.

That reduced the appropriation to $6,031,947,750 or nearly $2,000,000,000 less than President Truman requested and more than $460,000,000 below the figure Congress itself passed.

The House also: 1. Atomic energy—voted $1,485,000,000 for the Atomic Energy commission, sharply below the president's $3,191,000,000 request. The chamber also provided $85,000,000 of the $150,000,000 requested for atomic energy expansion by the Tennessee valley authority.

2. Military construction — voted $2,187,899,840 as compared with the $2,993,868,440 requested in the budget.

The House measure now goes to the Senate where the administration will make another effort to restore some of the cuts.

The appropriations committee slashed $13,750,796,030 or about 25 per cent from the administration's original budget request and then the House itself axed off another $308,993,000. And most of the savings were at the expense of foreign aid.

Angered Lattimore Attacks Charges Despite Apologies

Washington — (U.P.) — An embarrassed state department publicly apologized Saturday for banning Owen Lattimore from traveling abroad.

The Far Eastern expert replied immediately with a bitter attack on "the McCarrans and McCarthys" in congress, the central intelligence agency, the state department, and "government-by-informer."

Refusing to be mollified by the department's action in lifting its ban, the John Hopkins university professor made a free-swinging attack on Sens. Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.) and Pat McCarran (D-Nev.), and government agencies.

Based on False Report

The ban, issued June 6, was based on a false report that Lattimore intended to travel to Moscow and behind the iron curtain. The edict was issued on the basis of a tip supplied by the Central Intelligence agency.

The FBI investigated and found it was false. Harry A. Jarvinen, a travel agency executive in Seattle, was indicted by a Seattle federal grand jury yesterday for allegedly giving false information to the government about Lattimore's "travel plans."

After the state department expressed today its "regrets" for the "embarrassment" it caused Lattimore, the professor issued a blistering statement condemning the weird episode.

He said the CIA should be taught that it represents a democratic government and is not a "secret police in a totalitarian state."

The Senate first approved the bill by voice vote. The bill, a product of 16 hours of negotiation by Senate-House conferees who reconciled differences between Senate and House bills, was then sent to the House.

The House gave its approval in a 194-142 roll call vote. Before Senate passage, Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) led a fight against it. He said it was "neither fish nor fowl."

The measure lifts rent restrictions on September 30 in all but "critical defense housing areas" unless local governing bodies take positive action to continue them until April 30—the new expiration date for price-war controls.

Although controls will be weaker under the new legislation, the administration did manage to salvage some sort of a victory by the measure. The House had riddled it with so many amendments that it virtually meant the end of price and wage controls next month.

Eisenhower Relaxes With Round of Golf

Denver — (U.P.) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower moved out of his mother-in-law's rocking chair long enough Saturday to get in a round of golf.

"Golf is relaxation for me," the Republican presidential hopeful said.

Eisenhower said that except for a brief conference this morning with North Dakota delegates to the Republican national convention that relaxation is all he has planned for the week-end.

Earlier he had said that all he intended to do Saturday was sit in a rocking chair at the home here of his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Doud, and "maybe putter around in her flower garden." But the ardent golfing enthusiast decided on some more strenuous exercise after a brief bit of rocking.

He was joined by his wife, Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, and a group of friends.

Mrs. Tkach said her father tried once to rise from his bed, but fell to the floor, and was unable to walk without assistance.

Awakes From Coma
At one point Longworth awoke from his apparent coma, shouted "praise the Lord," and smiled happily as he said, "I'm not going to fight it any more. I'm leaving you. Be good sheep of the Lord."

The house was made stifling hot by the huge crowd which was on hand this morning to see if Longworth's prophecy of death, based on a dream he had three years ago, would come true.

Most of them stayed on until noon, and many who left then did so convinced that Longworth was in the process of dying.

Rainfall Continues; Slide Closes Road

Precipitation for the month of June keeps climbing over the average with a forecasted continued upward trend today.

Up to last night the June total was 1.72 inches, while the monthly average is only .72 — an inch less. Rain falling since last Sunday, June 22, has amounted to .66 inches, the weather bureau said.

The rainfall was believed responsible for a slide which carried away a section of the road between Fourmile lake and Fish Lake Friday afternoon. J. A. Hoffbauer, manager of the Medford Irrigation district, reported that the slide also took a wall of one of the district's canals.

The road will be closed for about 10 days, Hoffbauer said. Five cars were temporarily trapped by the slide. Closure of the canal will not affect irrigation in the valley as water from other sources is now being used.

SPORTS BULLETINS

The Medford Cheney Studs rallied for four runs in the eighth inning to trip Coos Bay-North Bend 5 to 2 in a Southwestern Oregon league baseball tussle at the fairgrounds Saturday night.

Six singles, a walk and an error were combined for the markers. Medford scored its other run in the fourth frame on a walk, hit and groundout. The Lumberjacks used a hit, sacrifice, error, walk and fly-out for a first inning run and a triple by Jim Ruggles and an error for a second inning score.

The teams will wind up a two-game series here with a mix starting at 2 p.m. today. Herb Karpel will chuck for Medford and Don White, Oregon State collegian, for Coos Bay-North Bend.