Yamhill Escapee Remains at Large

McMinnville — (U.P.) — One of two prisoners who escaped from the 64-year-old Yamhill county jail here Saturday night was still at large Monday.

Albert James Ulman, 29, was apprehended shortly after noon Sunday at the home of his parents in northwest Portland. He was asleep when the officers arrived.

Still at large was Donald Memory, 16, of Clavies, O. Yamhill county authorities said the two used a window sash weight to batter a hole in the wall of the jail just a few inches from a hole made a week ago by another inmate who escaped but was recaptured the next day. A steel plate had been used to cover the hole.

Builders Complain End of 'X' Harmful

Washington — (U.P.) — Home builders complained Monday that Congress did them more harm than good by including in the new economic controls bill a provision aimed at eliminating "Regulation X" credit curbs on new houses.

Building industry spokesmen said the provision is "so full of gimmicks" that it probably will be several months, at best, before Regulation X goes by the boards.

In the meantime, they feared, many prospective home-buyers will simply withdraw from the market and wait for the expected easier credit terms.

15-Year-Old Boys Take Relative's Car

Two 15-year-old Medford boys were arrested by city police for auto theft Saturday, after they took a car belonging to a relative of one of the youths and drove it to Central Point and back. The boys were released in the custody of their parents.

The youths admitted that neither of them had a driver's license. Only one of them had even a learner's permit.

The car belonged to Phillip G. Reynolds, 2772 Table Rock road. He had left it parked in an alley at 213 Lincoln street, where he worked. The keys were left in the car. Reynolds did not realize the car was missing until the city police returned it to him.
