

Swimming Program Importance Told

With 6,539 drownings in the U.S. last year; 176 over the Fourth of July this season and five in Oregon during the recent holiday, there is need for added emphasis on the learn-to-swim program, Don Day, Y. M. C. A. swimming instructor, and Ed Knapp, Hawthorne pool supervisor, told members of the Medford Rotary club Tuesday in a water safety program at the Hotel Jackson.

The two instructors demonstrated the old Shaffer and new Neilson methods of artificial respiration, with Rotary program chairman Otto Ewaldson as the subject. Day stressed the simple safety rules which should be followed in case of boat mishaps and enlists precautions for those swimming in southern Oregon's cold rivers.

A series of practical rules governing swimmers in Hawthorne pool, approved by the Medford city council, were outlined by Ed Knapp. Steps followed in keeping the one-half million gallons of water in the city pool clean and fresh were explained. The pool accommodates 400 swimmers at one time, and 700 people sought relief from Medford's hot weather Monday in the 76 degree water at Hawthorne park.
