Convention Sidelights Find Tom Dewey Jr. Chased from Floor; Dignitaries Mixup

Chicago—(U.P.)—Sidelights of the GOP Convention:

Fellow named Thomas E. Dewey was thrown off the floor of the Republican National Convention Thursday night. He didn't have the proper credentials and the guards weren't impressed by the fact that he is the son of the GOP's two-time losing presidential candidate. Young Dewey, a Princeton University student, retired to a box off the floor.

Temporary Convention Chairman Walter Hallahan is having trouble keeping track of the celebrities he introduces to the delegates. Hallahan presented James P. S. Devereux, who commanded the "Send Us More Japs" Marine garrison on Wake Island, as "a former member of Congress." Devereux explained quietly to the chairman that he is still a GOP congressman from Maryland, and hopes to remain so after the fall elections.

Frederick G. Cartwright was staging a successful floor demonstration with a sign proclaiming "California Wants MacArthur" until the convention ushers discovered that he hails from Englewood, N. J. He was banished to the galleries.

The color guard at the Republican National Convention is really an "Old Guard" outfit. The guards carry Springfield rifles, a World War I standby.

State Road Money Sent to Counties

Salem—(U.P.)—Second quarter distribution of state highway fund money to Oregon's 36 counties is underway this week, Secretary of State Earl T. Newberry said Wednesday.

More than $2,000,000 will be divided in the counties based on number of motor vehicles registered in 1951.

The state highway fund draws its revenues from vehicle and operators registrations, motor vehicle licenses.

Total apportionment made out of this fund is $2,017,749.60 and covers the quarter April 1 to June 30. It represents 19 per cent of the total highway fund for the second quarter, $10,575,524.23, a slight drop from the first quarter total of $10,706,253.33.

This week's apportionment by counties include:

Jackson, $87,704.96; Josephine, $40,603.55; Klamath, $60,315.59.

Air-Ground Radio Test Successful

A test in air-ground communication with a "handy talkie" radio set used in the airplane, proved highly successful over southern Oregon Tuesday, L. L. Simpson, secretary-manager of the Southern Oregon Conservation and Tree Farm association, reported today.

Simpson said the flight was made to test the possibility of communication from the air with the main transmitter in Medford and with ground crews in spotting forest fires. The air-ground communication "worked beautifully," Simpson declared. Dick Alley of Alley Lumber company flew with the one-fourth watt unit on the seat beside him. The flight took him over Canyonville, Tiller, the head of Elk creek and Woodruff meadows and along the Cascade mountains.

Alley, according to Simpson, was never out of reach of the master station or a mobile unit.

Phoenix City Councilman Resigns; Mayor Not Seeking Reelection

Phoenix—Councilman Cecil Norris resigned at this week's council meetings, according to Mayor E. R. Clafin.

His resignation was submitted "for the benefit of the community and himself," Mayor Clafin explained. "The rest of the council and myself regret this move as we have sure enjoyed working with him." Mayor Clafin noted. He added further that Norris had "given the council a boost with his youthful approach to Phoenix's problems and had worked for the betterment of the city." Norris' term would have expired this fall.

The resigning councilman had been the leader in backing the proposed city budget which was defeated by voters the first time but passed later following a public hearing in which the principal objections were heard and compromised on. He had also argued in favor of a business tax for Phoenix at an earlier hearing.

Mayor Not Candidate

At the same time, Mayor Clafin stated that "I will not be a candidate for reelection next fall." He added he would continue working for the betterment of Phoenix until his term is over. He pointed to the city ordinance for anyone wishing to file for the position which puts the date for filing candidacy not more than 90 nor less than 30 days prior to the general election, November 4.

No person has been appointed yet to fill the vacancy left by Norris, the mayor stated, but an appointment will be forthcoming in the near future. Applications for the vacancy left by the July 1 resignation of Police Chief Curt Fisher are now being accepted by the council, he continued, with a special meeting to be held later in the month to select a new chief from the

House, Garage Burn On Tolman Creek road

Ashland—An unoccupied house and garage on Tolman Creek road was destroyed by fire early Tuesday, according to the fire department.

W. R. Dale, owner of the property, said he had no immediate estimate of the loss. He is partially covered by insurance. The fire is believed to have started in Dale's car, which was in the garage.

The fire department concentrated on saving the Dale residence next to the burning building. The house that was destroyed was used by Dale as a guest house.

Ashland Mayor Seeks Reelection to Office

Ashland—Mayor Phil H. Stansbury announced Tuesday that he would seek reelection in the November election, but two Ashland councilmen said they do not plan to run again.

Councilmen Fred Taylor and Fred Holmes, whose terms expire this year, both said they will not seek reelection. The term of Councilman Dr. W. W. Weller also expires in November, but he was not available for comment.

Stansbury is completing his first full term as mayor of Ashland. He did, however, serve out an unexpired term in office prior to his official election in 1950.

71-Year-Old Grandmother Is GOP Rules Authority

Chicago—(U.P.)—A 71-year-old grandmother whose bible is Roberts Rules of Order held a key role Wednesday in what may be one of the biggest parliamentary tangles in GOP convention history.

Mrs. John R. Hughes, first woman assistant parliamentarian at any Republican convention, proclaimed herself "strictly neutral" in the "stolen delegates" battle between Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Assistant Parliamentarian
Mrs. Hughes, a resident of Omaha, Neb., is assistant chief parliamentarian in refereeing the hot floor fights between Taft and Ike forces.

If the cry, "Point of order, Mr. Chairman" is raised when the delegates' contest reaches the floor, Mrs. Hughes vote will be for "what's right," according to the rule book.

Strong For Convictions

"I feel a great responsibility but I will not be afraid to stand up for my conviction," the spry, white-haired parliamentarian said.

Politics and Republican conventions are nothing new to Mrs. Hughes.

She has been a member of the Grand Old Party since her father "put me on a dry goods box in front of a store in Decatur, Ill., and told me to yell, 'Hurrah for Harrison.'"

Butte Falls Men Given Sentences

Two Butte Falls men were sentenced this morning in district court to six months in the county jail for disorderly conduct, according to District Attorney Paul Haviland.

The men, Ray Oden, 24, box 65, Butte Falls, and Benny Neal, 20, Butte Falls, were charged with disorderly conduct on July 5 at the Midway Service station on the Butte Falls highway.

James Junior Crowell, Sudan, Texas, was arraigned Tuesday in circuit court and pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary not in a dwelling in two places. He admitted taking a rifle and ammunition from John Fredenburg's cabin on Carberry creek, July 4, and $2.67 in cash and some cigarettes from Melvin Boatwright's place on July 7, also on Carberry creek.

The case will be continued for sentencing pending receipt of complete records, according to the district attorney's office.

Fire Destroys Car South of Medford

A car driven by a Seattle salesman caught fire and was destroyed last night near the Starlite Drive-in theater on the South Pacific highway, according to the state forest patrol.

The salesman, R. G. W. Anderson, was fixing a flat tire when he smelled gasoline and the car burst into flame, the forest patrol report said. The car was a total loss, according to the fireman.

All Anderson saved were his clothes and suitcases and sample kits. He had placed the cases behind the car to hold safety lights.

There are probably more species of insects on earth than of all other animals combined. About 800,000 species have been catalogued in museums, says the National Geographic Society. The number includes some 250,000 beetles.
