

JUBILEE HEADQUARTERS — Erected in 1880, the historic U. S. hotel in Jacksonville, which had President Rutherford B. Hayes and party as its first guests, is the official office for the 1952 Gold Rush Jubilee. Information can be obtained at the office concerning the events of the August 2 and 3 celebration by calling in person or by writing. Funds from past Jubilees have gone into a new roof of the hotel in an effort to preserve the building.

Gold Rush Jubilee Plans Now Under Way

Jacksonville — Preparations for the fifth annual Gold Rush Jubilee to be held August 2 and 3 are now in high gear in Jacksonville, according to P. E. (Scotty) Matheny, general chairman.

Matheny pointed out that the Jubilee is now becoming one of the "musts" for tourists on the west coast and is benefiting all of southern Oregon in increased tourist business. He stressed the idea that the celebration is no longer local in scope. "Although it is sponsored by the Jacksonville Lions club, its past and continuing success remains with the assistance given by the Jubilee's business, fraternal and organization friends throughout the Rogue river valley," the chairman continued.

Funds for Improvements

Funds from the past four Jubilees have gone for civic and historic improvement, Matheny noted. Such projects have been a new roofing for the U. S. hotel, a $15,000 Community hall, two public rest rooms and new football uniforms for the high school. The money to be received from the coming festival is earmarked for night lights, new sodding and a grandstand for the high school football field.

"Every effort is being made this year," the chairman said, "to bring new innovations to the affair as well as the popular events of the past Jubilees." One of the featured attractions of the celebration will be "a unique one—the first of its kind," according to Matheny, referring to the Burro derby. It is hoped to perform this on the quarter-mile oval at the high school with four races on Saturday, August 2, and Sunday races featuring a sweepstakes finale for all race winners. Prizes will be awarded for win, place and show.

Matheny pointed out the importance of the burro to the beginnings of Jacksonville when it was the principal pack-animal for the prospector in the early quest for gold and stated that the Burro derby would continue the memory of this hardy animal in the city's history.

Other highlights of the two-day festival will be treasure hunts for real gold, parade, selection of a queen, log bucking contests, pageant, Old Fiddlers' contest, art exhibit, dancing, archery and pistol contests and barbershop quartet singing.

Prizes for the popular queen's contest, which is based on the most tickets sold, will be a $300 wardrobe for first, $200 for second and $100, third—purchases to be made at Mann's department store. Each contestant will also receive a formal gown to wear during the festivities which she may keep, and weekly prizes will be given for the candidate selling the most tickets up to the end of the contest.

Parade Prizes
Prizes will also be offered for parade entries in two groups: float and group or riding organization. In both divisions, first prize will be $25 and second, $15. The best entry of the two groups will receive $75.
