As We Live

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, PH.D.

MARRIAGE FOR ESCAPE

WILL ONLY BE A TRAP

When things get difficult for teen-agers, they want to escape. When the difficulties arise in their homes, many of them think of marriage as a way out of their troubles. This 18-year-old girl is facing such a problem:

(Q) "I have one more year before I graduate from high school. My mother doesn't understand when I tell her how I feel about things, and we just fight. I am from a family of nine and all we ever do is just fight. I thought if I married and still finished high school, I could get away from it all. Don't think this is the only reason I want to get married. I love the fellow I go with every much and he loves me. If I don't marry him, I have no other place to go."

(A) Your dominant aim now is to get away from your family so you can avoid the fights and unhappiness of your home life.

Are you trying to convince yourself that you are really in love enough to want to marry?

Would you really better yourself by marrying now?

It would be an escape from a situation you find intolerable but that should not be your reason for marrying. If it is, your marriage won't succeed.

Why not try to get along with your family until you finish your education? You have just one more year and during that time you can get a clearer idea of what you want to do with your life. Now you are confusing two problems.

Find out from your principal if your school will permit you to return if you marry. Some high school permit married students to continue their education and some do not.

Then you must realize that marriage brings with it many responsibilities. You would have a home of your own to take care of and your husband would naturally want you to do things with him. Would this give you the time you need for your studies? Then too, would you better your lot by marrying now? Is the young man able to support you if you study or would you have to give up your education and go to work? Don't jump from the frying pan into the fire.

Dr. Hurlock will help you with your family problems. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Your Health and Its Care

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.
Readers should address inquiries for: William Brady,
245 El Camino, Beverly Hills, Cal.

HEALTHY COMPETITION

We Americans as individuals seem lost in the competitive struggle. We do not know ourselves. Why should we? We have concentrated so fiercely upon beating the guy next door that we have had no time to realize our own qualities. In order to win a race, you must keep unwavering attention upon the runners around you.

Dr. Brady
Is the attention of your child focused upon beating the other fellow? Or have you helped him place it where it belongs, upon improving his own skills, beating his own record, increasing his own self-knowledge? Are you helping him to grow emotionally healthy?

Set goals for yourselves and for your children that you know can be reached. When they are attained, set further, attainable goals. Let your children know the joy of a job well done, for the sake of the job in working, not for applause, nor profit, nor personal glory. Say not, "What a fine girl you are," but instead, "What a fine job you've done." Point at the job, not the child. This leads the child to produce good work for pure pride in creation and production, not for the elusive and soul-destroying causes of money and fame.

Look about you at the few you know who take joy and pride in their own workmanship. Warm, happy, outgoing personalities, aren't they? Help your child toward that goal.

When a child competes, let it be with his own record. "This is a better job than you did last week." Never mind how he compares with brother and sister. Never mind how he compares with others his own age or size. "Your pitching is better this month than it was last, son. Keep improving it. Today's game was lost, but your team had finer teamwork and better sportsmanship than you had in the first game this season. That's more important than winning that game."

Keep the productive and creative effort concentrated upon the job itself, not on the cheers or the score. This makes for healthy emotions, strong citizens, men and women who do not need to lie about their superiority, who do not need to loudly proclaim their virtues, who do not need to be in the limelight. They know their capacities and take warm joy in being useful.

They do not fill the psychiatrists waiting-rooms nor the beds in mental hospitals.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS
The Dentist Knows Best
Advised to have all my teeth pulled and upper and lower plates made.

Seems to me it would be better to have the upper teeth pulled first and an upper plate made, and when I have gotten used to that then... The dentist says I'll get more satisfactory results if I have both plates made and installed at the same time. Immediately after extraction, although of course the plates will probably require retelling later. (Mrs. M. M.)

Answer—Your dentist gives you twentieth century advice. Your notion is a century behind the times. The recipes given in your pamphlet cure my athlete's foot completely. I'd like to have your booklet on callus and corns. (K. F.)

Answer—For pamphlet on FOOT ITCH send stamped, self-addressed envelope. For booklet CARE OF THE FEET inclose 25c.

The Gray Sickness
My lips are so pale and my skin has a grayish, fagged out look. I am 26. How can I overcome this?

Answer—Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet THE GRAY SICKNESS. Doctors call it hypochromic or nutritional deficiency anemia.
National Newspaper Syndicate, Chicago 6, Illinois

Gold Hill Grange
Gold Hill Grange H.C. met July 9 and finished a quilt and started another. Plans were discussed for the Grange picnic to be held August 3 on the city hall lawn. It was decided that each family should bring, in addition to whatever else they plan, some fried chicken, in order that all present may be able to partake of same.

Flora friends remembered were Lillie MacKay and Vada Dahl. Nora Wait won the attendance prize. A sympathy card was sent to Mrs. Pearl Walker.

MOO-O-OS and MUSINGS

We had a little trouble with a tourist yesterday who insisted that he was looking for the "historical rat" that he had heard so much about.

We finally convinced him that he was looking for the "House of Mystery" and not the "Mouse of History."

Flying Saucers Still Reported Over Oregon

Portland—(U.P.)—Flying saucers again have been reported over Oregon.

Latest outbreak of saucer talk came in Portland Sunday night when 25 persons, including two policemen, said they had sighted a long, narrow object darting back and forth across the sky at "about 10 times the speed of a jet plane."

Police switchboards and newspapers began receiving calls about the mysterious object about 9:30 p. m. Police dispatched immediately pat patrols on watch for the object.

Ills of Aged May Be Cured if Diagnosed

Chicago—(U.P.)—Many mental disorders of old people could be cured if they were distinguished from the incurable changes of senility, a psychiatrist says.

Dr. Robert C. McMillan, Chicago, told the Illinois State Medical society that a majority of old age disturbances consist of neuroses. The patient, he said, usually fails to adjust himself to his environment. These are the cases that can be cured, the psychiatrist said.

He said little could be done about degenerative psychoses and physical changes of old age but those instances are fewer than neuroses.

McMillan listed some of the factors underlying the maladjustment in the aged and added they "are no more normal for old people than they are for any other age." Some of the causes, according to the psychiatrist were: fear of loss of independence and loss of identity—the reversal of attitudes on the part of children, and a change in home and friends.

Baker—(U.P.)—The Federal Power Commission Monday opened a hearing on Idaho Power Company's application to construct the Oxbow project on the Snake river with the battle lines between proponents and opponents of the dam sharply drawn.
