Assault-Battery Complaint Filed

Axel W. Raski, 25 South Washington street, filed a complaint yesterday charging a bartender at The Tavern, 43 South Front street, with assault and battery. Raski charged that bartender Robert Lindgren had beat him badly Sunday evening, according to the police records.

Delbert Lawrence Baldwin, Central Point, a witness, said that Watkins hit Raski but that Raski threw the first blow. According to Baldwin's statement, Raski refused to leave the tavern and hit Watkins when the bartender tried to eject him forcibly.

Another witness, Chauncey Leon Hogenson, Allen hotel, agreed that Raski swung first. He said Watkins then hit Raski against the wall and forced him out the door.

Raski was involved in a fight with another customer earlier in the evening, Hogenson said. The witness said Raski hit George Potts, 48½ Orange street, and that Potts then hit Raski several times, drawing blood. The two were ejected together and they returned together 10 minutes later, according to Hogenson.
