Some 100 Persons Attend Orchard Tour, Field Day

About 100 persons attended the second annual orchard tour and field day held here Friday. The tour was conducted under the joint sponsorship of the Jackson County Fruit Growers league and the State Horticultural Society.

C. B. Cordy, county horticultural agent, was tour conductor, and others who spoke during the day included Dr. Elliott Degman, superintendent of the branch experiment stations here; Dr. L. G. Gentner, station entomologist, and Prof. Henry Hartman, of Oregon State college.

Four Stops
The tour included stops at Klamath orchards, to observe an experimental wind machine for raising temperatures in the orchard; the Medford branch experiment station; the Chris Wolff place, and the Talent branch experiment station. A picnic luncheon was served after the tour by ladies of the Phoenix Grange at TouVelle state park, where farm and orchard equipment dealers displayed their wares.

Experiments in use of chemicals for various phases of orchard development and protection, experiments in the use of mulches and in grafting, and other matters of interest to fruit growers, were shown and discussed during the day.

CIGAR TOO STRONG
Medford, Mass. — (U.P.) — A good cigar may be a smoke but to John F. Kelly, 58, it also was a traffic hazard. Kelly explained to police that he took a few puffs on a cigar, became sick and lost control of his automobile, which crashed into a gas station and damaged a parked car.

Fish Story—

This time of year, when fresh fish are plentiful and economical, is a good time to get acquainted with the many varieties available not only near ocean and lakes but in inland towns, thanks to modern refrigeration.

Secret of success in cooking fish is not to overcook it, and to season it properly. Fish is bland, and takes well to simple sauces, such as the Tabasco sauce below. A high quality protein food, there are some 160 varieties of fish sold in the United States. Here are pictured, reading top to bottom, three salt water varieties, sea bass, mackerel and porgie, and three fresh water species, white fish, yellow pike and brook trout.

An easy and appetizing way of preparing fish for the table is by simple broiling. To serve four, plan on 1 pound of fillets or steaks or four small fish, and 3 to 4 tablespoons of fat. Preheat broiler. Cut fillets or steaks into serving pieces. Grease the broiler rack lightly. Place fish on rack, skin side up; brush with melted fat. Place rack 2 to 3 inches from heat. Broil fish 5 to 8 minutes or until brown, and serve with this tangy sauce.

Tabasco Butter Sauce:
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
4½ teaspoons lime juice
14 teaspoon Tabasco
1 tablespoon minced parsley

Melt butter in saucepan. Add lime juice and Tabasco; heat. Add parsley. Yield: Approximately 1/3 cup.

Young GOP Meet Scheduled Friday

All Jackson county young Republicans under 39 years of age are invited to attend the first meeting of a series to precede the general election, on Friday, August 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the Pioneer room of Medford's Jackson hotel, according to Bob Dickey, county Young GOP chairman.

Featured speaker will be William McAllister, delegate to the Republican national convention in Chicago last month. He will give his impressions of the convention and the workings of party politics in a general discussion period, Dickey explained.

The county chairman noted that "the Young Republicans now have a candidate and platform behind which all forces can unite." He expressed the idea that consolidation by party members has taken place and a united front can be expressed by meetings of the various Republican groups.

Picnic Planned
Reports will also be made by Director Dick House on a proposed picnic by the Young Republicans, and by George Sennatt, Ashland director, on progress in the organization of a college club at Southern Oregon college.

Every Young Republican in the county is urged to attend the meeting, Dickey stressed, whether a member of the organization or not. He pointed out that future meetings of the group will hold platform discussions and generally inform party members of current party policies and workings within the framework of a major party in America.

Paducah, Ky. — (U.P.) — Vice President Alben W. Barkley revelled in "just taking it easy" as a gentleman farmer Saturday, temporarily forsaking politics.
