As We Live

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, PH.D.

DEMAND FINANCIAL HELP FROM DIVORCED HUSBAND

Many women when they grant their husbands a divorce, are penniless and must work to support themselves. That is the problem facing the woman who wrote:

(Q) "Two years ago, I obtained a divorce from my husband because he wanted another woman. I didn't ask for alimony because he was out of work at that time and I was working. We lived together for 30 years and had 11 children, all of whom are married now. Since my husband has married this woman, he tells our friends that he has everything because his new wife has some money. I am 59 and am getting awfully tired. Isn't there any way I could make him do something for me?"

(A) Go back to the judge who granted your divorce and tell him the whole story. Explain why you did not ask for alimony then and why you want help now.

If your husband is working and has money of his own, I am sure the judge can help you to get some money from him. Your husband cannot shake off his responsibilities as lightly as he has done and feel free to do as he pleases. Your situation should warn any woman faced with the same problem. If she is forced to divorce her husband so he can marry someone else, she should not let him go scot-free, with no further thought for her welfare.

Even if you could support yourself, you still should have demanded alimony. As soon as your husband started to work, he would have to turn over some of his earnings to you. Every wife should make that agreement before she consents to a divorce.

Get Aid From Children
If it is too late now for you to get financial help from your ex-husband, it is not too late to get help from your children. A woman of your age should not be left penniless when she has 11 children. No matter how many obligations they may have they still have an obligation to you that you should expect them

WEATHER

We're going to go right on trying to believe it isn't true when people say that Portland is behind times—even after what happened to us yesterday.

We tuned in a Portland station yesterday and they were still polling the North Carolina delegation.

Many Democrats Seen On GOP Bandwagon

Denver — (U.P.) — Spokesmen for the Citizens for Eisenhower organization said they expect to have "many prominent Democrats" working with them in Dwight D. Eisenhower's presidential campaign.

Walter Williams, Seattle Wash., and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, New York, co-chairmen of the citizen's group, said in an interview that they were ready to start immediately to get their organization going at full speed again.

Their plans had been held in abeyance until they got assurance, as they did Sunday, that their phase of the campaign could be carried on independently.

140 Scouts Begin Sixth Week of Camp

A total of 140 Boy Scouts began the sixth week of summer camp at Camp McLoughlin on the shores of Lake O'Woods Sunday, according to Cliff Hanson, executive of the Crater Lake area council.

This number raises the summer attendance to an all-time record of 650 scouts, according to Hanson. The camp will officially end Sunday, August 10.

Among those attending the camp this week are three units from the Eugene council, representing Roseburg, North Bend and Eugene.

A feature, new to the camp, will take place Thursday when a group of senior scouts climb Mt. McLoughlin from 10 to 11 p.m. and spend the night on the peak, the executive said.

COMBINATION TWINS ARE PROLIFIC

Months ago I mentioned here that I had in my files many reports of twin sisters, both of whom have borne children but I had no report of the fertility of combination (that is, boy and girl) twins.

I am happy to report that readers have straightened me out about that. My files now contain more than a hundred reports of boy-girl combination twins, both of whom have become parents.

This probably will not cramp the style of the fishwives who assure the girl member of a twin combination that she can't hope to become a mother, but I hope it will reassure a few readers who might otherwise have worried about childlessness.

Incidentally, I feel just a little ashamed of the habit of calling readers you know what. When readers will go to the trouble of writing me just to report about such a question—well, it reminds me of the advice given by a fellow on the bowling green. We get in each other's hair, figuratively speaking, as far as I'm concerned, and one day after a hectic game he said: "When you sit back and relax tonight, think over your behavior."

Cigar Ceiling Prices Ended by Government

Washington — (U.P.) — The government has suspended ceiling prices on all cigars.

However, the Office of Price Stabilization said "there is evidence that the industry would not and perhaps could not raise its selling prices as much as ceiling prices would have to be increased."

OPS said market prices generally are still at levels of Jan. 1951, when the original general price freeze was imposed.

Former Local Resident Leaves $125,000 Estate

A former Medford resident has left an estate valued at $125,000, according to reports reaching here from Seattle.

Miss Katie Keliehor, 84, who formerly resided in Medford and Plainview, Tex., left personal property valued at about $50,000 to Mrs. Joseph D. Sinnott, a sister living in Seattle, and the remainder, Texas real estate valued at about $75,000, was left to other relatives, most of them living in the south. She had been a Seattle resident for about 12 years.
