

Council Rejects Tent Application For Revival Meet

A request that the Rogue Valley Crusade for Christ be allowed to erect a large tent for revival meetings at East Jackson street and Biddle lane was rejected by the city council last night at city hall.

The request was not granted because the lot where they want to put up the tent is in a residential zone. City Attorney Frank Farrell commented that the council cannot very well ignore its own ordinances, so the request was refused.

The council and city recorder offered to help the group find another place where their tent would be acceptable.

Authorize Election

The formality of authorizing a municipal election in conjunction with the November 4 general election was made. The offices of mayor, recorder and treasurer and four council posts will be up for election.

A petition to prevent heavy trucking on Eighth street near Almond street was referred to the city superintendent's office. Three citizens appeared to complain that the street is too narrow to handle the large gasoline and log trucks that use it.

It was announced an alternate proposal to the widening of the post office driveways opening on Sixth and Holly streets will be submitted. Three of the five councilmen there commented unfavorably on the proposed widening of either driveway.

Meeting Called

Recorder Ralph Woodford was asked to call a special meeting of the planning commission to consider changing the setback line on Canon street from 20 to 18 feet. The change was requested to enable construction of a specially-built residence at Ninth and Canon streets for a paralyzed man.

About $150 was taken from the city emergency fund for the salary of 10 special workmen who were hired for flood control services during the August 3 hail and rain storm.

An ordinance calling for essessments for a paving project on Winchester street between Plum and Hamilton streets was accepted.

Reports on progress of paving projects and the construction at the municipal airport were made by Vernon Thorpe and Robert A. Duff. Both projects were said to be proceeding satisfactorily.

Strip-Teacher Not Taking Applications From Baldies

Paris — (U.P.) — Pretty brunette Genevieve Philippe, Paris' only "strip-teacher," said Wednesday that bald-headed men needn't apply as "students."

She was bitten on the thigh by one. The 22-year-old Genevieve has been earning 1,000 francs ($2.85) a night for the past six weeks in a cellar night spot where she doffs a piece of clothing every time a "student" in the audience answers correctly a question about history or geography.

Students Help Her

The students get to help in the doffing. And after the final and toughest question, Genevieve dances off-stage clad only in a bright spotlight. Genevieve admits she often gets asked questions, too, during her intellectual strip-tease. Most of them are answered with a firm "no."

HAS FISH POND AT HOME

Milwaukee, —(U.P.)— Jerry Mundt, caught a nice mess of fish, took them home alive and put them in a tub in his basement. That night heavy rain flooded the basement, providing Jerry with a fish pond right at home.

She had her first interview, however, for her first interview — which she said was "harder than undressing."

Nip For Good Measure

Genevieve said her aversion to baldies arose when one got so engrossed in his work of helping remove her scanty panties that he gave her a nip for good measure.

He apologized later by sending her a big basket of strawberries.

"I didn't mind so much, but the mark showed for a week," she explained. Sometimes, she said, the students are very gallant and kiss her hand romantically.

An occasional pinch she writes off as in the line of business. "Men are just naturally friendly," she observed.
