Quality Uniformity Noted in 4-H, FFA Fair, Agent Says

The 4-H, FFA fair starting today at the fairgrounds is marked by more uniformity of quality than usual in the stock section, R. H. Cate, Jr., county agent in 4-H work, told members of the Medford Rotary club here Tuesday.

Speaking at a luncheon meeting at the Jackson hotel, Cate outlined the diversified program for the 1952 fair, designed to appeal to the public, and voiced appreciation of community cooperation. Special commendation was extended to Robert Fowler for his work in providing facilities for the fair this season, and to Chairman Oliver Morton and his Medford Rotary club committee for promotion of the annual event.

New Projects

New projects which are making the 4-H program more appealing to youngsters include forestry, practical farm electricity, tractor maintenance, wood-working, wool growing, flower and vegetable gardening and hobbies. Cate also expressed his thanks to the Medford Rotary club for making possible his trip to Chicago last winter for the 4-H conference, attended by 1,500 youngsters representing the U.S., its possessions and 17 foreign countries. The conduct of the 4-H boys and girls at this gathering was lauded.

Linda Mallory, Antelope 4-H member, told Rotarians of her activities in club work, which includes stock raising and various phases of home economics. Miss Mallory wore a dress which she had made and designed.

Morton was chairman of the meeting, and in his introductory remarks congratulated Cate and Fowler for their contributions to the 4-H program in this area.

Only One Bidder In BLM Timber Sale

Timber Products company was the only bidder Tuesday for a 460,000-board-foot public domain timber area in the Forest creek area west of Jacksonville, according to District Forester E. K. Peterson, of the Bureau of Land Management.

Timber Products' sealed bid was $106 over the appraised price of $8,500 and was accepted, Peterson said.

Tracts of 3,100,000 board feet in the Emigrant creek drainage near Ashland and 285,000 board feet in a salvage fire - kill tract near Glendale received no bids. Peterson announced bids will be accepted the next 90 days for these two tracts.

Rose Leads Wyoming Race for Demo Seat

Cheyenne, Wyo. (U.P.)—Assistant Secretary of the Interior Robert R. Rose, Casper, Wednesday's Wyoming primary day held a commanding lead in election race for the Democratic congressional nomination.

With 334 of 647 precincts reporting, Rose, a pre-election favorite, had 9,049 votes, and was far in front of his opponents in the five-way race.

The Republican incumbent, Rep. William Henry Harrison, Sheridan, who was unopposed, had 12,630 votes.

Republican Gov. Frank A. Barrett, running unopposed for the GOP senatorial nomination, had polled 13,003 votes to 11,912 for the Democratic incumbent, Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, also unopposed.
