Eisenhower Better Than Hoppy, Young Cancer Victim Says

Denver — (U.P.) — President Eisenhower called at a modest suburban home here yesterday to cheer up a six-year-old boy dying of cancer and received in return the plucky boy's highest accolade — the president was better than Hopalong Cassidy.

The president arrived at the home of the youngster, Paul Henry Haley, about 10 a.m. after a secret service man had checked to see that he had the right house, the president walked to the front door, knocked and asked:

Father Apologizes

"Is Paul here? I came to see him."

Donald Haley, Paul's father, caught him by the hand and said:

"Mr. President, I hope you'll pardon my appearance, please come in."

The president had read about the youngster in the Rocky Mountain News. A reporter wrote that the boy, who has a cancer that is rapidly spreading through his blood vessels and bones, would rather see "like" than Hopalong Cassidy "or any other cowboy."

Blue Jeans

"I was completely charmed when I realized that Mr. Eisenhower had come out," Haley said. "I was in the back yard playing ball with my other boys, and I had on blue jeans, an old shirt and I needed a shave. What a way to meet the president of the United States!"

Haley has four other boys and a daughter. Paul and two of the other sons were in the backyard with their father when the president arrived, but Mrs. Haley, one son and the daughter had gone for a drive.

"Paul heard the knock on our door and wandered into the living room," Haley said. "But when he saw the president he was so surprised he couldn't say a thing."

Ike Replies

"Oh, I can't compete with Cassidy, he'd come in here with a uniform and guns. I just wanted to say hello to Paul."

As the president started to leave, Haley told him, "Thank you for coming, sir. The boy has only a short time to live."

Two Persons Die In Pre-Dawn Fire In San Francisco

San Francisco — (U.P.) — Two merchant seamen were killed in a pre-dawn fire today that swept through the old frame St. Johns hotel-apartment on Polk st. and fire investigators checked the possibility of arson.

At least 11 of the 88 occupants of the building were treated for smoke inhalation and five firemen were treated for minor injuries.

Lt. George Kelley, in charge of the arson squad, said the "fire might have been set." It was the third fire in the last three weeks in the old building, built after the 1906 earthquake and fire.

Four Alarm Blaze

All three of the fires apparently started in hallways, although the first two fires were not reported until today, Kelley said.

Killed in the fire were Hiram Kolomoku, 56, who lived on the top floor of the four story building, and Christiano Surez, 43, both of San Francisco.

The fire broke out about 4:45 a.m. P.D.T. Firemen managed to bring it under control within a half hour, using 30 pieces of equipment. One hundred and eighty men answered the four alarms.

Five shops on the street floor were badly damaged by water. Officials estimated the total damage at between $40,000 and $50,000.

Tells of Escape

Father Leo Paulson gave the last rites of the Catholic church to the dead on the street outside the hotel.

Mrs. Bob Eller, one of the tenants, said the noise of the flames awoke her.

She said she and her husband jumped out their ground floor window into the backyard. They were trapped there by a high fence. Finally, firemen lowered a ladder into the yard and they climbed out of danger.

Firing Projectiles At Moon in Plans

Pasadena, Calif. — (U.P.) — A well known astro-physicist today revealed plans for firing small projectiles at the moon and planets in an attempt to learn the secrets of outer space.

Dr. Fritz Zwicky, California Institute of Technology scientist who discovered supernovae exploding stars, said he needed only $10,000 to finance the experiments.

The experiments would involve remote control firing of projectiles the size of revolver bullets from balloons 20 miles or more above the earth's surface.

Communist Koreans End State of War

Tokyo — (U.P.) — Communist Korea today proclaimed the end of a state of war in Korea and called off military mobilization.

Pyeongyang radio said the North Korean Peoples Supreme Council rescinded, effective today, the declaration of war made June 27, 1950 and the general mobilization order of July 1, 1950.

Foreign Aid May Be Maintained for Long Time To Come

Washington — (U.P.) — The Eisenhower administration told Congress today that foreign aid is a "high-yielding investment in national safety," which the United States may have to maintain for a long time.

"The large range" nature of the multi-billion dollar mutual security program was heavily emphasized in a report prepared by Harold E. Stassen's Foreign Operations administration and forwarded to Congress by President Eisenhower.

The report, required by law, covered foreign aid operations during the first six months of this year.

Intangible Expression

In his two-paragraph letter of transmittal, Mr. Eisenhower said only that the aid program is a "tangible expression of our belief that the safety and self interest of this nation are inextricably tied in with the security and well being of other nations."

The report itself challenged the views of the powerful Republican congressional bloc which has been demanding an early termination of the costly aid program.

No Evidence

Declaring that the United States is still "seriously threatened by Soviet military and political expansionism," it said:

"There is no real evidence that this threat has diminished or will diminish within the foreseeable future. . . . Mutual security planning must be of a long range nature. We simply cannot aim for a fixed target by a fixed date."

THIEF CONSIDERATE

Chicago — (U.P.) — Joseph Feller, 34, walked into a saloon yesterday while two bandits were robbing the cash register of $600. One bandit interrupted his work to search Feller and found only $1 in his pockets. "Keep it," the holdup man said, "you're a working man like me."

Licensed Power Projects Exempt From Recapture

Denver — (U.P.) — President Eisenhower Saturday signed legislation exempting federally licensed power projects, owned by state or municipal agencies from the recapture provision of the federal water power act.

The new act also is expected to reduce the annual charges paid by those projects to the Federal Power commission.

Price Set

The federal water power law contains a formula setting a price at which the federal government could take over federally licensed projects including those owned by state and municipalities, at the end of a 50-year period.

Congressional sponsors of the bill signed today said this provision interfered with the sale of bonds to finance the projects.

Hence the measure would exempt the state and municipal projects from the liability for sale to the federal government although the national government still could take them over by condemnation proceedings.

Another provision would permit the Federal Power commission to charge the projects only for services actually performed. Reduced bookkeeping from the exemption from the recapture provision is expected to lower these charges.

The change also will permit the projects to discontinue some of the bookkeeping and accounting procedures which they have been required to follow.

TUT, TUT!

Tampa, Fla. — (U.P.) — Robert B. Lane, district supervisor of the state beverage department, reported that an illegal whiskey still had been uncovered. It was found on his own property 20 miles southeast of here.

Washington — (U.P.) — The Agriculture Department said today American wool growers probably will receive slightly higher prices this season.

Discover this week why the Salad-Wise say:
"it's SAFEWAY for TOMATOES"

The tomatoes now coming to Safeway are especially fine. Perky and flavorful for pretty salads. Taste-teasing and saucy for cooked dishes. One reason is... we buy tomatoes just as close to vine-ripen perfection as we can without risking too much softening during shipment (for vine-ripened tomatoes are juicier, have fuller flavor). We buy in most-wanted sizes. Our displays are arranged to safeguard natural form and firmness. Take home tomatoes from Safeway.
