SOC 'Frosh Days' Program Scheduled For Sept. 16-21

Ashland — Gangway upper classmen, the frosh are taking over Southern Oregon college's campus during "Frosh Days" September 16 through 21.

Harold Cloer, acting dean of men and director of guidance, said all new freshmen will move into campus dormitories for these four days for "an intensive week of work and play."

Will Stay in Halls

Cloer emphasized that all new freshmen, including local residents, will be asked to reside in the campus halls during the get-acquainted period which will provide an opportunity to meet faculty members, take necessary guidance and counseling tests, meet fellow freshmen and the old-timers—the upper classmen.

The class of '67 will be inaugurating an entirely new program this year during "Frosh Days" for which students are taking the lead. The period will include group discussions with upperclassmen about college life, clubs, social activities, sports, studying and the like.

Provides Introduction

It will provide an introduction to college traditions, standards, customs, regulations, and specialized facilities; to the extra-class activities, and to the surrounding community.

On Saturday the freshmen will elect an executive committee which will handle class affairs until the election of permanent class officers later in the quarter, Cloer said.

Oregon Officials Urged to Press for O&C Land Return

Oregon City — (U.P.) — A. W. Lafferty, Clackamas county attorney, Saturday urged Oregon's officials to press anew their pleas of a 1951 legislative memorial railroad grant lands to the state.

He based his plea on a recent report, filed by the U.S. comptroller, which hinted heavy losses of revenue due to certain practices of the forest service and the Bureau of Land Management.

Comptroller Lindsay Warren, in his report to congress, said investigators had established that "gentleman's agreements," among operators to restrict competitive bidding, timber selling practices of the two government agencies, private control of certain access roads and administrative policies of the agencies in regard to these access roads have cost the government hundreds of thousands of dollars in revenue loss.

These losses, he said, will run high into the millions in another seven years.

Lafferty, in a letter to Gov. Paul Patterson and others, said it shows how the grant lands are being handled by the federal agencies and it should point up the need to put the lands back under state management.

Junior Police Patrol Dedicates Bike Rack

Jacksonville — The Junior Police patrol at Jacksonville dedicated a public bicycle rack last week in the city's business section, according to Police Chief John Ysunza, club advisor.

The purpose of the rack, which will hold about 12 bicycles, is to eliminate all parking against buildings, sidewalks and streets of the town, Ysunza explained.

With the new rack in place, former methods of parking will be prohibited and the law strictly enforced, he added.

Material for the rack was purchased from the club's fund, and a food sale in the near future is planned by members to obtain money for future community projects.

Body Discovered in Snake River Said Missing Airman

Ontario — (U.P.) — A recheck of fingerprints has positively identified the Snake river murder victim as A2-C Richard D. Speicher, 21, of Englewood, Colo., it was reported Saturday by Sgt. Wayne Huffman of the Oregon state police.

Tentative identification was made Friday and Huffman later verified the name of the murdered airman after a check with his headquarters.

Study Background — Meanwhile, Lt. Lyle Harrell of the state police was at Mountain Home Air Force Base, Idaho, where the airman was stationed. He said he would study "every possible angle of Speicher's background in an effort to find a clue to the brutal slaying."

Oregon state and federal officers were conducting the investigation.

Found in River — Speicher's body was found in the Snake river above Weiser junction last Tuesday. A pathologist's report showed that he had been strangled and struck on the forehead before he died.

The body was bound and gagged. The clue which led to identification was a high school class ring bearing the initials "R. D. S." and part of the word "Englewood."

Quite a thing, this; easy to prepare and gives muffins a tangy, fresh green apple flavor the whole family will enjoy. To one package corn muffin mix, add 1 cup chopped early Gravenstein apples. Add liquid and stir just enough to dampen dry ingredients. Batter will be lumpy. Spoon into muffin tins and bake in moderate oven, 25 to 30 minutes.
