

High School News Notes

By BARBARA ROACH

"Go-Medford-go" was the last chant of the student body at the send off rally for the football squad Friday morning. Students congregated on the south side of the building before classes to wish good luck to the team as they boarded their greyhound bus. Many traveled the distance to Coos Bay for the game.

The team Kellington and Kellington proved victorious in the horseshoe tournament which ended Monday. The brothers, Dan and Bruce, will be awarded individual cups for the win. Bill Bowling and Larry Anderson were runners up for the award. Other players who were dropped out in the early bracket were Charles Kanehl, Stan Culy, Bob Rawstern, Tom Harper, Paul Emery, Gary McCurdy, Tom Y'Blood, Tom Robertson, John Morrow and Leslie Gleason. The next intramural sport will be a ping pong tourney.

Mrs. Elizabeth Settle, publications adviser, received word this week that last year's yearbook won a medalist rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press association at Columbia university and a first class rating from the National Scholastic Press association at the University of Minnesota. The medalist award proved the Cramer to be in the upper 10 per cent of the first class ratings from Columbia. Pat Rukovina and Jim Perry were editor and assistant editor respectively of the '54 edition. Their motif for the book was "The Fleet Years" which exemplified the swift passing of the high school students' days.

Eighteen delegates represented Medford at the district Future Homemakers convention held at Central Point Oct. 23. The agenda included a business meeting, buzz session, luncheon, and skits by the chapters. Mildred Weaver, MHS sophomore, was nominated for district chairman. She and the other nominees will be voted on in club chapter meetings held this month. Girls attending the conference were Marlene Barclay, Pat Rector, Carol Bacon, Carol McKinley, Pat Leek, Mildred Weaver, Marlene Brown, Jean Coppedge, Norma Granger, Ruth Miller, Lois Kelley, Joan Strowbridge, Therese Stewart, Vicki Robertson, Maralee Chisholm, Katherine Gott, and Cynthia Hunt. Mrs. Hazel McKinstry advised the group.

The junior class will vote on its choice for class rings in a meeting Tuesday. The selection will be made from one of three companies. The students will be able to buy rings or pins ranging from $15 to $25. The rings will be delivered in early March.

Nov. 10 has been set as the night when parents will return to school. Parents are invited to follow the student's schedule and attend his classes that evening. A program by the music department and refreshments will comprise the "school day." The Future Teachers club, headed by Jane Kellingsworth, will be in charge of registration, while the Future Homemakers club, under the leadership of Jean Coppedge, will make and serve the refreshments.

Frank Bash, Dan Kellington, and Dennis von Ting have been appointed laboratory assistants by Ryder Berg, chemistry instructor. The boys, last year's chemistry students, assist this year's classes in helping with experiments.

The History Economics, and Civics association has undertaken en the project of buying a radio for the social studies department. A radio would enable students to hear programs of interest to American government and history classes. Don Robinson, Frank Bash and Betty Naylor are the committee in charge of the purchase.
