Psychiatrist Tells Why Men Mixed Up

Flint, Mich. (U.P.)—A Flint psychiatrist believes one reason many men become mixed up is because, while boys, they try to act grown-up like their fathers when they still are dependent on their mothers.

Dr. Paul H. Jordan, director of the Flint Child Guidance Clinic, said he believes this is why four out of five persons who have speech or reading difficulties are boys and why seven out of eight alcoholics are men.

"The small boy seeks to imitate his father, who seems big and courageous because he leaves home often and comes and goes pretty dramatically," Jordan explained.

"The boy is apt to think that if he wants to be like father, he will have to leave home more and get around more. But he is really just a small boy and does not want to leave his mother. So he thinks he is weak and that women have made him that way."

"One solution for the difficulty is to let him be a little boy when he has to; let him stay with his mother without being ashamed."

Your Health and Its Care

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.
Readers should address inquiries to: William Brady, 263 El Camino, Beverly Hills, Cal.

PRESCRIPTION FOR SODA WATER?

Extolling the value of copper sulfate as an emergency emetic, I said, "Probably not one doctor in a thousand has ever seen or will see a case of copper sulfate poisoning." The Father of Pediatrics, Dr. Abraham Jacobi, taught me to use this almost instantaneous emetic — one grain in a spoonful of water for an infant, five grains in five spoonfuls of water for older child or adult. It induces vomiting within seconds, seems to hit the stomach and bounce right out with whatever poison the child may have swallowed.

Dr. Jacobi is enshrined in our memory because only a month or two after I had adopted his suggestion to keep a dozen one-grain tablets of copper sulfate in my emergency kit, Lalla Rookh, creeping about the floor, knocked a bottle of poison tablets off a stand and was eating them when her mamma, the beautiful sorrel — I mean the lovely brown-eyed, Auburn haired head nurse of the surgical ward who, the callow intern decided on sight, would make an ideal mother for my children — discovered what had happened. A spoonful of the Jacobian emetic set everything right in a jiffy.

But once again we are stopped in our tracks, by the tender care of the federal drug bureau to protect you poor souls against such "poison." It seems that zealous devotion to such restriction of the sale of a few low-profit items distracts attention from the indiscriminate sale of acetanilide, for instance, the sense-deadening ingredient in a score of nostrums that purport to cure or relieve "cold," grip, headache, neuralgia, or whatever ache, pain or discomfort you may have.

Acetanilide (phenylacetamide) or its substitute phenacetin (acetophenetidin) destroys red blood corpuscles, interferes with the vital oxygen-carrying function of the hemoglobin in the blood, causes anoxia (oxygen deficit) in the cells of the body, particularly in heart muscle. The anoxia is the lethal feature of heart failure, be it slow heart muscle failure (myocardial) or more acute (heart attack).

Five grains of acetanilide may cause death. Four grains is the maximum dose an adult may take without risk of heart failure and collapse, especially if he does not remain at rest for at least an hour after the dose.

3,500 Americans Said To Drown Each Year

Lincoln, Neb. (U.P.)—Despite repeated warnings, Americans drown themselves at the rate of 3,500 persons a year, according to Miss Helen Becker of the University of Nebraska.

Miss Becker, an extension health specialist, says to follow these important rules for worry-free, safe swimming and water sport.

Never swim alone. Wait at least an hour after eating before going into the water. Don't overtax your energy by swimming too far or too long.

If you swim in the ocean, watch out for those big rollers — and the undercurrent. Ask about tides and local hazards.

If you visit a fresh water lake, deep holes, currents and sudden storms may be prevalent. Never dive into unknown depths.

Don't be afraid to ask local citizens about the conditions. It may save your life.

Harvard President Denies Charges of Reds on Faculty

Chicago (U.P.)—Dr. Nathan M. Pusey, president of Harvard University, says charges that there are Communists in the nation's colleges have been grossly exaggerated.

Pusey said it is "extremely unlikely" that there are any Communists at Harvard and accusations that there are Communists at other universities are "all out of proportion to the facts in the case."

Pusey, speaking before the Executives club and a Harvard alumni dinner, maintained that Communists have had less luck infiltrating colleges than in other fields.

Little Harm Possible

At Harvard, he said, if there is a "crypto-Communist" in the 3,000 member faculty, he would be so far down the scale he could do little damage.

Pusey said the public unfortunately hears far more about the smattering of leftist college faculty members than about universities' achievements.
