White Organdy, Blue Satin To Be Winter Hat Material

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Correspondent

New York — (U.P.) — Who'd ever think a well-dressed woman would appear on a wintry day wearing a white organdy hat with her warm coat?

White organdy sounds more like garden party frocks than winter hats. And pale blue satin reminds more people of wedding gowns than tailored sailor hats to wear with tweeds.

But like the etiquette expert who picks up her fried chicken in her fingers and makes it socially correct, certain people can appear on the snowy scene wearing white organdy hats and make them fashionable.

They're going to, too, along about holiday season this winter. White and pastel hats are the holiday choice of Irene, a veteran hat designer who is Mrs. Irene Stone and a grandmother in private life.

White Organdy Hat

"Look, it's a tailored white organdy hat!" Irene exclaimed, holding aloft a small hat with a rounded crown and an inch-wide sailor brim and emphasizing the word "tailored." She fastened it on the back of her head, just behind her fluffy pompadour that is sprinkled with grey.

"Hats have no age any more," Irene said. "The day of matronly millinery has passed. A woman can wear any hat that is becoming if her hair is cut properly. I'm a grandmother myself, and I wear the same hats my daughter would choose."

She designed the severely tailored, untrimmed winter hats of white organdy as well as slightly fluffier white organdy draped turbans. Then she added the same styles in navy blue and black organdy, plus all kinds of small, draped satin hats in sherbet colors.

"You can wear these with tweed suits," she said firmly. When she had arrived at her pink and beige showroom a few minutes earlier, the designer had worn a small draped pillbox of white satin that just covered the crown of her head with her dark gray suit.

"I like small hats," Irene continued. "They're more practical for most women. The only hat that is right for you and looks well on you is the hat you put on and forget. If you come home and forget to take your hat off until you're in the kitchen with your apron on cooking dinner—then that hat is right for you."

The designer's newest hats draw attention by their colors and fabrics, not their shapes and trimmings. They fit close to the head, are set back from the hairline and give an observer a distinct impulse to walk up and feel the material.

Irene thinks a well-dressed woman can get by with three hats in her wardrobe. Here are her three recommendations:

"A daytime hat for suits that is either off-white or a strong color that goes with black or brown or navy; one hat for after-five, preferably a pastel silk or satin and one little black velvet hat that suits either day or night-time occasions."

Zuleima Temple Plans Gifts for Shrine Hospital

Contributions for Thanksgiving day trays for children confined to Shrine Children's hospital, Portland, must be in by Saturday, November 20. Zuleima temple, Daughters of the Nile members were reminded to day.

Mrs. William A. Young, Medford chairman of the project, says that gifts may be left any day this week at Young's Service shop, 116 North Front street.

Candy, nuts, fruit or any goodies suitable for the trays may be contributed. Home canned goods are acceptable only if they are sealed with a metal top.

Extras for the children are provided by Daughters of the Nile for both Thanksgiving and Christmas day each year, and sewing projects for the hospital are carried on throughout the year.

St. Mark's Guild

An all-day meeting is slated for members of St. Mark's auxiliary guild Friday, November 26, when arrangements for a bazaar to be held December 3, will be completed. Officers have announced. No meeting of the guild will be held this week as previously announced, they explained.

Annual Girl Scout Meeting Will Hear National Worker

Miss Rosemary Murray, national staff member for Girl Scouts, is spending three days in Medford. Miss Murray will attend a meeting of Rogue Valley area, Girl Scout council, to be held Thursday, November 18, at the YMCA from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

This is the annual fall council of scout workers during which plans and policies for the coming year will be discussed, and reports of the past year will be heard.

In addition to Miss Murray, another visitor will be Mrs. Jerry Deter, Yreka, Calif., who will report on a trip to Savannah, Ga., where she visited the birthplace of Juliette Low, being kept as a memorial to the founder of Girl Scouts.

Judy Newman, Grants Pass, senior Girl Scout who attended the senior encampment at Camp Cody, Wyo., will tell of her experiences and will show pictures taken during the encampment.

Delegates who attended the regional conference at Sun Valley this fall will report on their trip and tell of the ideas and information they gathered during the meeting.

Add adults doing Girl Scout work in Jackson and Josephine counties are members of the council and are invited to attend. It is pointed out that as a council member, "it is the duty and privilege of each council member to attend the area meeting, to know what is happening; help plan the activities of the future and exercise the right to voice her opinion."

Those attending are asked to take a sack lunch, and coffee will be served.

Plans Announced For Men's Night

"Men's Night" will be a special feature of a meeting of Order of the Amaranth in Medford Thursday night, November 18. A committee of men under the supervision of the associate patron, Carl H. W. Oestreich, will furnish entertainment and refreshments.

The committee will divulge no information relative to the plans for the evening except that, "it will be different." Members and visiting members are cordially invited to attend. Before the men take over there will be initiation of candidates.

'Toaster Doll'

Members of the group realize there are many calls for contributions at this time of the year and are not asking for money (although it could be used for good advantage) but do ask that everyone search the toy boxes of Junior and Susie for broken and discarded toys, as well as the garage, attic or other spots where such toys might be stored. These may be put in the collection buckets, or a call may be placed to 2-2970 for pickup service.

"If everyone will do this, it will mean more happy children at Christmas time," Lady Lions state.

Medford Lion's club is completing plans this week for the annual carnival to be held Friday and Saturday nights, November 19-20, at the Roots motor building, Holly and Fir streets.

During the carnival Medford Lady Lions will sell homemade cake and candy, and it is stated that donations of these will be greatly appreciated. If pickup service is needed, individuals may phone Mrs. Dwight Johnson, 2-9665 or 3-4910.

Money from the cake and candy sales will be used to furnish toys and dolls for underprivileged children in this community at Christmas time. Last year more than 600 children received gifts at the holidays through the efforts of Medford firemen and Medford Lady Lions.

Medford Lady Lions report that a recent check of the "fire buckets" placed down town revealed that few had made contributions to the project in this fashion. However, the buckets placed in the schools, were found to be better filled.

It is suggested that those shopping down town purchase small items and place them in the collections buckets. Suitable purchases would be color books, hair ribbons, comics, socks, belts, ball point pens or small bottles of perfume.

Navy Mothers Plan Tag Sale

Rogue Valley Navy Mothers' club announced the annual sale of Navy Boy tags Friday and Saturday, November 19 and 20. Members of the group will sell the tags on the city's streets both days.

Money realized from the sale is used for the welfare of the men and women in the Navy and for their families, and for veterans of Navy service who had honorable discharges, and their families.

Navy Mothers is a national organization, with clubs in every state of the union. The members work in veterans' hospitals, at the domiciliarys, Navy chapels, in homes or wherever there is need of service, it is stated.

All mothers of men and women in the naval services, or of those who, previously served their country in the Navy, are invited to meetings of Navy Mothers' club here. Meetings are held the first and third Tuesdays of each month, and Mrs. James Wicker, commander, states that more members are needed to carry on the work in this locality.

To Meet

The National Association of Retired Civil Employees will meet Friday, November 19, at 2 p.m. in Room 210 of the post office building.
