

Bus Company Ordered To Continue Service

Longview —(U.P.)—The Longview Bus Company, which was scheduled to end its services in this area tonight, will continue to operate for at least two weeks following a last-minute order by the Washington State Public Service Commission.

George E. Ruth, bus company manager and assistant vice-president of Long-Bell Lumber company, which owns the line, announced yesterday morning that bus service would cease tonight. The company had asked authorization to discontinue service some time ago as a result of increasing costs, decreasing patronage and the absence of profits since 1947.

But late yesterday, the commission intervened and ordered the company to continue its service for two weeks.

Actor's Son Faces New Robbery Trial

Santa Monica, Calif.—(U.P.)—Edward G. Robinson Jr., 21, today faced a new trial on charges of robbing two taxicab drivers after the jury at his first trial which became "hopelessly deadlocked" was dismissed.

Superior Judge Allen T. Lynch set a retrial for Feb. 14 last night when jury foreman John Bresnik reported the panel, after nearly six and a half hours deliberation, was deadlocked at 11 to 1 in favor of acquittal.

Young Robinson was allowed to remain free on $10,000 bail, which had been posted previously by his famed father, movie tough guy Edward G. Robinson.

Nasser Takes Over Presidency of Egypt

Cairo, Egypt—(U.P.)—Youthful Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser took over the functions of the presidency today and promised the West that Egypt will always keep the Suez Canal open to world shipping.

Nasser assumed the additional responsibilities in a swift move by the Revolutionary Council to consolidate its power following the overthrow of President Mohammed Naguib.

Naguib's office will remain vacant until the electorate chooses his successor. The council itself assumed his "executive powers."

SAFETY CONFERENCE OPENS

Portland —(U.P.)—The governor's sixth annual safety conference opened today with some 1000 management and labor representatives on hand. There are 12 sections to the conference this year.

Postal Experiment With Mail Under Way

Portland —(U.P.)—A Post Office experiment with airborne three-cent mail got underway here yesterday afternoon with the arrival of the first load of mail under the plan from San Francisco.

Albert J. Robertson, assistant postmaster general for finance; Abe McGregor Goff, post office solicitor, and Gerald Cullinan, confidential assistant to Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, accompanied the shipment.

S. G. Schwartz, regional operations manager for the post office, said an estimated 1,000,000 pieces of first class and other priority letter mail would be carried daily between 19 points in Washington, California and Oregon. The new method is expected to speed delivery by 24 to 48 hours.

FOR ALMA MATER

Boston —(U.P.)—A survey taken at Boston University indicates that more students are choosing the alma maters of their parents, brothers and sisters. Of the 2,444 freshmen last year, 138 were offspring of old grads as compared with 68 the previous year. The ratio of brothers and sisters of grads was 207 to 180.

THIS One-dish DINNER IS A MEALTIME WINNER!

★ It takes just 20 minutes to prepare plus 25 minutes to bake this delicious, new Noodle Quickie main dish! And, the cost is only about 12¢ per serving! Try this new quick'n easy recipe, and when you do, be sure to use Mission Egg Noodles—they're richer in nourishment, and cook better and taste better, too. In macaroni products, Mission is the quality brand!

MISSION'S OWN RECIPE FOR EGG NOODLE QUICKIE

8 oz. Mission Egg Noodles
1 1/2-cup can tuna flakes
1 cup diced cooked carrots
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
2 tbs. chopped onion

2 cups cream-style corn
1 cup milk
3 tbs. melted butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
Buttered cracker crumbs

Cook Mission Egg Noodles in boiling salted water until nearly tender, about 4 min., and drain. While noodles are cooking, combine tuna, carrots, green pepper, onion. Add the noodles, and lightly mix. Combine corn (No. 303 can), milk, melted butter or margarine, and salt. Add to noodle mixture, mixing lightly. Place in casserole, top with buttered crumbs, and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

Serves and satisfies 6 to 8!

Mission Noodles are loaded with yolks of selected Ranch Eggs!
