

Picnic Area To Be Near Domiciliary Buildings at Camp

Camp White — Plans for landscaping of the picnic area adjoining the domiciliary buildings have been completed, according to Frank Glonning, special services chief.

Trees, barbecue pits, hedges and a suitable entrance are included in the scheme arranged by Elwood Stanfield, landscape artist of Medford, and reduced to a plan by the Engineering division.

Water will be piped to the area and will be available by next June, it was stated. Grass is to be planted this spring.

To Plant Trees
Frieda Lawrence, of the Women's Relief Corps, heads the committee of the VAVS working on this project. Tree planting will start at once, it was reported, and various organizations will assume charge of the specific improvements that are to be made.

Marion Cech and Mable Nicholson, of the American Gold Star Mothers, will each donate a picnic table. The American Legion Auxiliary, the VFW Auxiliary and the Military Order of Lady Pugs agreed to provide trees. The Garden clubs are expected to obtain the shrubbery and other organizations likewise offered services in developing the project.

The planting and conditioning of the grounds will be handled by the VA engineers.

Kiwanians Hear SWAP Singers

Songs written by members of the Song Writers, Arrangers and Publishers, a southern Oregon organization, were sung Wednesday by two Ashland women at the luncheon meeting of Medford Kiwanis club.

Mrs. Nancy Kaylor and Mrs. Betty Jo Caldwell each sang a solo and presented two duets. They were accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Ernestine Hartley, also of Ashland.

Mrs. Kaylor sang "It's a Beautiful Morning," written by Walter Reece and Wally Sousa. Mrs. Caldwell's selection was "Working and Dreaming." The writer was Earl McBee. Duets were "Once I Heard a Gypsy Singing," by Lillian Barney, and "If I Were a Needle and You Were a Thread," by Mrs. Hartley and Pearl Morava.

John Duffy introduced the women and announced the numbers. The luncheon was at Rogue Valley Country club.

As We Live

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, PH.D.
Finds Life Dull. Wants To Join Women's Service

Life in the women's services of the armed forces has been glamorized by stories and movies to the point where many girls think it is all play and no work. Joining a branch of the service is a way of escape to one young woman, who finds her present job not to her liking. She writes:

(Q) "My problem is one that seems to be quite common with girls in my position. That is, should I leave my office job, which is very boring, and join one of the women's services? Many of my girl friends have told me that the majority of people look down on girls in the service and that their reputation is not of the best. I should like your opinion on this subject."

(A) Let me say, first and most strongly, that I think your girl friends are completely wrong when they say that "the majority of people look down on girls in the service," and that the reputations of these girls is "not of the best."

Some people, of course, do disapprove of women's going into these services because they believe that everything to do with war is "man's work." And some women who go into the services do not conduct themselves as they should. But they are in the minority and are usually discharged.

Now, about your own decision: Just being bored with your present job is no reason for joining one of the women's services. Because your training and experience have been in the line of office work, the chances are that you would be assigned to similar work in the service.

Find out what the qualifications are and how much chance you would have of being accepted. Then find out, on the basis of your training and experience, what kind of work you would be likely to do.

With such information, to serve as a basis for making your decision, you will know whether this is what you really want to do—or whether you merely want to change to another job in civilian life.

Heart Patient Dies On Mercy Plane

A heart patient being taken to Portland by a Mercy Flights, Inc., air ambulance plane, died shortly before the plane arrived in Medford yesterday afternoon.

She was Mrs. Cheri Cronn, 39, Portland, who had been convalescing from a respiratory ailment at Furnace Creek inn, in Death Valley. She suffered a serious heart attack while there, and the mercy plane was called to take her to Portland for emergency treatment.

Her husband, Richard, and a nurse were also on the flight.

George Milligan piloted the plane from Medford to Death Valley, leaving here shortly after midnight and returning about 2 p.m. Lee Flink flew the trip from Medford to Portland and back.

Mrs. Cronn was the 299th patient carried by the non-profit air ambulance corporation.

The service was first used at a recent football game. Some companies are using the service for "coffee-breaks" for employees so they need not leave the premises.

McCarthy Recall Drive May Proceed

Madison, Wis. —(U.P.)— Editor Leroy Gore says he "believes" he will go ahead after all with a second campaign to recall Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy. Gore said Wednesday he has received numerous telegrams and telephone calls urging him to do so since he announced Tuesday that he might drop the matter.

The Sauk City, Wis., editor said the biggest problem in the recall movement would be finding a single recall election candidate who would be acceptable to all anti-McCarthy forces.
