What's the Answer?

(Can You Get 4 of the 7?)
Copr. 1954, Editorial Research Report

1. Pay scales for women office workers are highest in New York, Detroit, Dallas, Milwaukee, New Orleans, or Boston?
2. A U.S. Senator gets a slightly higher or lower salary than a Representative, or the same?
3. In chess there are five, six, seven, eight, nine or ten different kinds of pieces?
4. Polar bears live in both the Arctic and Antarctic regions, or only in the Arctic, or only in the Antarctic?
5. The Lusitania was sunk in World War I by collision with an iceberg, right or wrong?
6. Tammany Hall is the Democratic machine of New York state, or of all New York City, or of only one borough in the city?
7. Most musical terms come from the French, German, Italian, Portuguese, or Spanish language?

The Answers: 1. In Detroit (early 1954); 2. The same; 3. Six; 4. Only in the Arctic; 5. Wrong, by a German submarine; 6. Only of Manhattan borough in New York City; 7. The Italian.

ATOMIC STRIKERS BACK

Oak Ridge, Tenn. — (U.P.) — Some 1,250 APL electricians were back on their jobs today at the Atomic Energy Commission's multi-million dollar Y-12 project after a six-day strike. The workers, employed by the Rust Engineering Co., walked out over what was termed a "supervisory dispute."

Thankful for What?

This is Thanksgiving.
In answer to the query what, with the world in its present mess, there is to be thankful for, the answer is—considerable.
Like the first Thanksgiving all one has to do, is go back to first principles.

OUR Pilgrim forefathers were not so thankful for the abundance they had, with wild turkeys and cranberry sauce, as what they didn't—had missed. Unlike two years before they had a good harvest so they didn't have a famine. Also, unlike the former period, they had peace; there was no immediate threat of another Indian war. The weather was an improvement also. And weather was very important then as it still is.

So they felt extremely grateful, and decided to give thanks to the Almighty from whom they believed these blessings flowed,—which was entirely right and proper.

We might quite properly today do the same.

NOT that the world isn't in a mess; not that this country and all democratic nations for that matter don't face perils of a greater immediacy and magnitude than perhaps ever before. But look at the other side of the picture—observe what we haven't got,—what WE have missed, as did our forefathers.

No. 1: We are not at war. There is no war,—hot at least,—raging here or anywhere else on the globe. As that realistic but always optimistic old warrior Sir Winston Churchill remarked the other day, quote:

"We might even find ourselves in a few years, moving along a broad, smooth causeway of peace and plenty, instead of roaming and peering around the rim of hell."

WE MIGHT.

Premier Mendes-France, who also is in a position to have the facts and certainly has the aggressive statesmanship to act wisely and effectively regarding them, recently expressed much the same idea. After his visit to this country, and a survey of his own, he foresees a period of peace in fact a "United States of Europe" before many years have passed. The signing of anti-Communist pacts in Europe and in the Pacific, will be, he thinks, constructive steps in that desirable direction,—European unity, and a check on Russian aggression.

SO not only are we at peace, but there are indications in spite of all the Reds here and abroad may do, that war on any large scale at least, can be prevented for the near future and certainly until this Thanksgiving has been succeeded by another. That's something,—in fact it's a great deal.

No. 2: The election is over.
We won't have another one for two years. So once more let us all be thankful. Elections are necessary, of course, but they create too much ill will, dissension and friction which after the storm has passed both sides usually agree might have been avoided,—or at least materially reduced—if more people had kept their heads and retained their sense of humor. Now we have a political breathing spell,—and next time we may all do better. Thanks again!

AT the moment the weather locally isn't so hot, particularly for those who prefer rain to winter fog, but don't like either.

However for over a month the Weather Man has done a remarkably good job and he might get back on the ball tomorrow.

At any rate climatically speaking, this has been one of the most delightful Falls in recent history. So that item should be added to the list of things we have to be thankful for, on the last Thursday in November, and let us hope meanwhile it may continue.

BUT to return to Sir Winston Churchill:

There is a statement made by the great British "elder statesman," which has never received the notice it deserved, for it expresses a great truth concerning this country, which is too often overlooked, especially abroad, but also here at home. Here is the gist of it, quote:

"Gentlemen—many nations have arrived at the summit of the world but none, before the United States . . . has chosen that moment of triumph, not for aggrandizement, but for further self-sacrifice—sacrifice for the causes by which the life and strength of mankind is refreshed. The United States has shown itself more worthy of trust and honor than any government of men or associations of nations that has ever reached pre-eminence by their action on the morrow of the common victory won by all."

Leaving out the 100% isolationists that is as true today as it was, when it was made, on May 25th, 1949, in New York City.

It wouldn't be a bad idea for every American on Thanksgiving Day to read it over and be thankful that not only was it stated by one of the truly great statesmen of the 20th Century, and not a resident of this country—but that it was then and is today entirely and completely true—something for which every American should be both thankful and proud.

Editorial Comment

Rather a Common Ailment
In a recent editorial comment, The Medford Mail Tribune the other day, said, speaking of the Republican party, "... while the Grand Old Elephant seemed united and in good health during the recent campaign, the tranquility was only skin deep, for Jumbo is really suffering from a split personality, and has been for some time."

There's truth in that; but RWR completed his editorial before getting around to pointing

Deetz Plans Bill To Revamp Oregon Election Practices

Oregon City —(U.P.)— Elmer Deetz, Canby's "gallon jug dairyman" who led the successful fight against Oregon's milk marketing administration, has announced another crusade.

Deetz, who won election to the Oregon House in the same election in which the 21-year-old milk control act was decisively repealed, announced yesterday he planned to sponsor a bill in the next legislature to revamp Oregon election campaign practices.

Candidates Responsible
He said he would author a bill which would make each candidate responsible for all money spent in his behalf in a campaign. The measure would also put a legal limit on campaign expenditures.

Deetz also said reports on campaign expenditures should be made public 10 days before an election, instead of after the balloting. He predicted the rest of the nation would follow Oregon's lead if a "sane" campaign expense bill were enacted.

The Canby dairyman cited his own campaign efforts as an example of what can be accomplished with a small amount of money. He said he spent $1099 to get the milk law repealed and $67 to get elected to the House.

Montgomery Ward Loses $110,000 Suit

Portland —(U.P.)— Damages amounting to $110,000 were awarded in Circuit Court here yesterday to Anton Kraft, 48-year-old laborer, who had charged a large mail-order firm with malicious arrest, false arrest and malicious prosecution.

Kraft, a former employee of Montgomery Ward & Co., sued the company and R. F. Hutchinson, who was formerly employed in its protection division on two causes of action.

Kraft said he was falsely arrested and imprisoned on a burglary charge, and maliciously prosecuted on a trespassing charge. The burglary charge was filed against the man in August, 1949, and then dropped. He was convicted of trespassing in Municipal Court, but later acquitted in the Circuit Court.

A jury awarded Kraft $75,000 general charges and $35,000 punitive damages.

Publicity Chairman, Tom Wills

In The Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS

Let's call this "Quotation Day" in this space—and start off with a quotation from one of the world's GREAT men.

SPEAKING in London on Nov. 9, Sir Winston Churchill, prime minister of Great Britain, said:

"The whole foundation of our (Britain's) existence stands on our alliance and friendship, and—if I may say so—an increasing sense of brotherhood, with the United States.

"And we are also developing increasingly intimate ties with France, Germany, Italy and the Low Countries, and these ties are stronger and more practical than any that have ever hitherto been devised."

HE ADDED:

"From these solemn and important agreements we hope we shall be able to create that PEACE THROUGH STRENGTH which will allow time to play its healing part and bring about an altogether easier relationship all over the world."

"We might even find ourselves in a few years moving along a broad, smooth causeway of peace and plenty INSTEAD OF ROAMING AND PEERING AROUND THE RIM OF HELL."

AS TO RUSSIA, Churchill said: "If the Soviets really like being governed by officials in a sealed pattern, AND SO LONG AS THEY DO NOT ENDANGER THE SAFETY AND FREEDOM OF OTHERS, that, I feel, is a matter for them to decide themselves for themselves."

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER, another of the world's great men, told reporters at his press conference that:

"The United States will remain vigorous and strong . . . The greatest mistake we could make would be to lose sight of Russia's quest for world revolution and domination."

He went on: "I would not favor an East-West meeting of the Big Four powers until the allies have ratified the agreements to bring West Germany into the European defense alliance."

BUT—

He concluded— "Whenever the U. S. has any real reason to believe any country wants to TALK EARNESTLY ABOUT PEACE, the talks will be held."

AT this point, let's quote another great American. Speaking at the Minnesota state fair, in the first year of this Twentieth Century, Theodore Roosevelt said:

"There is a homely adage which runs: 'Speak softly and carry a big stick and you will go far.' If the American nation will speak softly and yet build and keep at a pitch of the highest training a thoroughly efficient navy, the Monroe Doctrine will go far."

THAT was away back in 1901, when our country had a simple and uncomplicated foreign policy in which every American believed and which every American was willing to die for, if need be—the Monroe Doctrine. But, in a much more complicated world, the advice given by Teddy Roosevelt THEN is perfectly sound NOW.

LET'S close this symposium with a quotation from perhaps the greatest American of all—Abraham Lincoln, in his second inaugural address, delivered in the closing days of our bloody Civil War:

"With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds . . . to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and WITH ALL NATIONS."

YOU must have noticed the hopeful turn our economy seems to have taken in this November of 1954.

Professional Democrats would have us believe it is because the Democratic party has taken over the reins in the congress. Professional Republicans contend it is because the vote at the recent election was so close that it can in no way be construed as a rebuke to the present administration's policies.

Personally, I think it is because people generally have come to the conclusion that with leaders such as Churchill of Britain and Eisenhower of the U.S.A. peace throughout the world in the next few decades is NEITHER IMPOSSIBLE NOR IMPROBABLE.

Help Appreciated

To the Editor: My wife has been hospitalized on and off for the past two years and she is in the hospital now. I would like to thank Local 6-122 C.I.O. of Prospect and a kind assist from Tim Sullivan, district president, for the $100 check presented to me to help pay hospital expenses.

Thanks again brother woodworkers. We may be back, but not out.

Alleged Masher Learns Girl Means Business

New York —(U.P.)— Gus Famitis, 35, an alleged masher, made a big mistake when he approached Dorothy Uhnak, 24, in a subway station yesterday. Miss Uhnak who is five feet, four inches tall and tips the scales at 125 pounds, identified herself as a transit policewoman and told Famitis to "come along." When he refused, she hit him on the head with the butt of her gun.

Hoover Predicts Communist Defeat

Tuebingen, Germany —(U.P.)— Former President Herbert Hoover said today the Communists futilely are attempting to destroy freedoms of Western civilization "by infiltration, propaganda and conspiracy."

Mr. Hoover predicted the Communists will be defeated in their schemes because they have underestimated the "spiritual, moral and educational force" that confronts them.

The 80-year-old former American chief of state spoke at ceremonies which he was awarded an honorary doctorate of economics at the ancient University of Tuebingen.

He is visiting West Germany, a country which he helped put back on its feet in the bleak postwar days, on the invitation of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Republican Vote Said Lacking in Multnomah

Portland —(U.P.)— A Portland pollster says some 43,000 Republicans in Multnomah county didn't vote in the November 2 election which saw the county give Democratic Senator-elect Richard L. Neuberger enough votes to defeat Republican incumbent Guy Cordon.

Dan E. Clark II told the Multnomah chapter of the Oregon Republican Club yesterday that it was estimated 78.4 per cent of the registered Democrats in Multnomah county voted, compared to only 65.6 per cent of registered Republicans.
