

Famed Photograph Collection Given Congress Library

Washington — (U.P.) — The Library of Congress has acquired an extensive and historic photograph collection from the studios of the late Levin C. Handy, famed 19th and early 20th century photographer and nephew of the Civil War picture chronicler, Mathew B. Brady.

Negatives, prints and daguerreotypes by both Brady and Handy are represented in the collection, which was obtained from Mrs. Mary H. Evans and Mrs. Alice H. Cox, daughters of Handy. Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Cox are the present owners of the L. C. Handy studios here.

The material, estimated at about 20,000 items, is now being catalogued and organized by the library to make it available for use. For the next 10 years, permission for reproduction must be obtained from Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Cox, but after Sept. 14, 1964, there will be no restriction on the use of the collection.

Over 3,000 negatives by Brady are included in the group, some made as early as the 1840's. Brady's negatives and daguerreotypes have long been famed for the picture they present of life in the Civil War period. The latest dated works are plates made by Handy in 1932.

Lincoln Photos

Brady negatives in the group include those of Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, members of Lincoln's cabinet, justices of the U. S. Supreme Court, military leaders of the North and South and other celebrities of the day. The total number of negatives in the collection has been estimated at between 6,000 and 8,000. Brady's daguerreotypes include Edwin Booth, William Cullen Bryant, Stephen A. Douglas, Jenny Lind, Daniel Webster, Brigham Young and one of Brady himself.

Handy became Brady's apprentice at the age of 12, about 1868. At 16 he was relieved of the onerous task of coating negatives and was allowed to operate a camera in his uncle's studio. In the famous gallery at 627 Pennsylvania Ave., he photographed presidents, congressmen, justices and other notables. When Brady died in 1896, Handy moved the studio to its present location at 494 Maryland Ave. Handy died in 1932.

Of especial significance to the library is the procurement of a group of portraits Brady made of members of Congress during and after the Civil War. As early as 1871, the library sought to obtain the portraits, recommending that Congress purchase 2,000 of the Brady pictures for $25,000.

Funeral Service Set For Young Fire Victim

Portland — (U.P.) — Funeral services will be held here tomorrow at 2 p.m. for Pamela Gilbert, seven-year-old McMinnville girl, who died Friday night of burns suffered when her flannel nightgown caught fire as she attempted to kindle a blaze in a stove.

The girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Woolley of McMinnville. The accident occurred about 9 a.m. Friday while the rest of the family was asleep. The girl was treated at a McMinnville hospital and then taken to Providence hospital in Portland.

Hospital attendants said she suffered burns over 40 per cent of her body.

CLAIMS 'COMPLETE INNOCENCE'—Alger Hiss shows his happiness as he ends nearly four years of five year prison term at Lewisburg, Pa. Walking arm in arm with his wife, Priscilla, and their son, Anthony, and flanked by attorneys, Hiss reaffirmed his "complete innocence."

Not Much Wrong With Doctor Sam, Jurors Informed

Cleveland — (U.P.) — A courtroom tussle of wits between Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, an osteopathic brain surgeon, and the doctor of medicine who examined him for injuries Dr. Sheppard says he got fighting his wife's killer ended today with the general practitioner holding fast to his diagnosis that there wasn't much wrong with Dr. Sam.

Dr. E. Richard Hexter said that in a 45-minute examination he could find no significant spinal injury to Dr. Sheppard in mid-afternoon of last July 4.

Marilyn Sheppard, 31, was bludgeoned to death before dawn that day. Dr. Sheppard, 30, claims he was knocked out twice by the killer, once with a judo blow that severely injured his neck at the base of the skull.

Sam Takes Notes
On trial for his life in Common Pleas Court, the handsome young neurologist surgeon took quick notes as Dr. Hexter testified. Then, at the morning recess, he whispered suggestions for questions to chief defense counsel William J. Corrigan.

It was something of a battle between the osteopathic and M.D. schools of medicine. Osteopaths, in Ohio, may practice medicine and do surgery.

Corrigan didn't need much prepping in medical cross-examination, however. In a long career as a criminal attorney he has amassed a store of anatomy, physiology and chemical analysis knowledge. Dr. Sheppard and his two brothers, all staff members of Bay View hospital which was founded by their father, Dr. Richard A. Sheppard, had said Dr. Sam suffered severe spinal injury. Dr. Hexter said one of the brothers, Dr. Stephen A. Sheppard, 34, had told him Dr. Sam had "some bluish marks and swelling" on the back of his neck and had a fractured vertebra.

Questions Diagnosis
Dr. Hexter said he removed a tight felt neck pad the osteopaths had put on the patient in his hospital bed. He saw no bluish marks on the neck, no swelling and "I just couldn't make a diagnosis of spinal cord injury."

He said Dr. Sam had a black eye and some facial bruises and some slight cuts inside his mouth.

The state accuses Dr. Sheppard of beating his wife to death, perhaps with a surgical instrument, after quarreling with her about his boudoir attentions to other women. The murder weapon never has been found.

Youth Indicted for First Degree Murder

Hillsboro — (U.P.) — Jerry Eugene Dodele, 16, was under indictment by a Washington county grand jury today for the first degree murder of Peter Ribbers, 65, in Timber, Ore., Nov. 11.

The youth, also of Timber, will be arraigned before Circuit Judge Frank R. Peters.

Dodele has confessed killing Ribbers with one shot from a .22 caliber rifle when the elderly machinist came home unexpectedly while Dodele was burglarizing his residence, according to Sheriff Richard Busch.

Irvin Goodman, Portland attorney, is acting as the youth's counsel.

Many Calls Keep Medford Firemen Busy Over Weekend

A smoke investigation, a hearth foundation fire, two flue fires, an overturned car and an overheated stove kept city firemen busy Sunday.

The smoke investigation was at 4:10 p.m. at the public library. A burned out fluorescent light fixture was found.

Firemen said that faulty construction of a fireplace caused the wooden foundation of the hearth to ignite about 9 p.m. at the Roy Cobleigh residence, 440 North Front street. It was the second hearth fire of the week end. The other was on Saturday.

No damage was reported from a flue fire at the M. R. Archibald home, 2451 Roberts rd. The call, the first of the day was at 10:55 a.m. The overheated stove was at the Mildred Tolle house, 1107 Niantic st., and firemen were summoned about 12:15 p.m.

The car overturned about 7 p.m. at the corner of Biddle rd. and Airport rd. Gasoline was spilled in the mishap and firemen stood by until the car was righted by a wrecker.

Second flue fire yesterday was at the A. C. Lucas home, 317 Clark st., about 11:25 p.m. Another chimney blaze at 7:15 p.m. today at the Charles Craft residence, 52 Oak Grove rd., was out on arrival of firemen.

City Fire Marshall Truman Nelson inspected seven business occupancies Friday and issued five orders for correction of fire hazards.

Prayer Practical, Christian Science Lecturer Declares

A spiritual understanding of God heals sickness and sin, Helen Appleton of Boston, Massachusetts, told an audience here Sunday afternoon.

The way to gain freedom from fear, sin, sickness, sorrow and lack, is through the prayer of absolute reliance on God's power, she maintained.

On nationwide tour as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, she spoke under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Medford in Senior High School Auditorium. She spoke on "Christian Science: A Religion of Demonstrable Prayer."

"So potent and so timeless are the spiritual truths which Jesus practiced and demonstrated that today they heal, bless, comfort, and inspire when they are relied upon in prayerful understanding," Miss Appleton said.

Prayer heals, she explained, when it is based on "a clear, spiritual understanding of God."

Explaining the approach of Christian Science to prayer, she said:

"Christian Science enables us to change from the human concept of a personal, variable God, whom we approach in fear and trembling, whom we must plead with to be God, to a God of love, whom we can know, reverence and trust as ever loving, ever available, ever mindful of His own."

You should lean wholeheartedly and put your whole trust on God, she asserted. Such reliance, she added, is "true prayer, demonstrable prayer." "To this all-knowing, all-powerful, infinite God, Christian Scientists turn in grateful prayer and on Him lean, confident and expectant of good," she said.

Lower Bread, Milk Prices Possible

Washington — (U.P.) — A review of 1954 research highlights reveals that government farm experiments may be able to bring down the price of bread and milk.

Research teams proved that high quality milk can be produced with less than half the labor and investment used by most farmers. The scientists say that housewives may pay less for milk if dairy farmers use good sanitation and milk cooling methods and cheaper, more convenient housing for cows.

The cost of bread may be lowered by bringing down the cost of producing wheat, the nation's basic bread grain, the scientists said. They showed that the cost of producing a bushel of wheat can be brought down from an average of $1.65 cents a bushel to $1.28 by using new cultivation methods and more fertilizer. The saving of 37 cents a bushel would be nearly double the 19-cent reduction ordered in federal wheat support prices for prices for next year.

Father Denies Guilt In Beating of Child

McMinnville — (U.P.) — Horace Crowley, 21, Dayton, pleaded innocent in Circuit Court here Saturday to a charge of assault with intent to kill in connection with a beating administered his four-year-old stepson, Richard Lightle.

The boy has been unconscious since the beating Nov. 15. He was being cared for at a Portland hospital, where doctors say he has had a number of small hemorrhages of the brain. The boy is expected to live, but the permanency of the brain damage is not known.

Crowley waived grand jury indictment on the assault charge earlier. His attorney, James E. Craig of McMinnville, indicated he was thinking of filing a motion for a change of venue because of the strong feeling against his client in Yamhill county.
