Back Stairs: Residence Unfinished

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

Washington (U.P.)—Back stairs at the White House:

Even though construction work on the Eisenhower's Gettysburg house is virtually complete, prospects of the President and his wife settling there any time soon is some months away.

Once the plasterers and painters move out of the Gettysburg house, it will be a slow process before the Eisenhowers can move in. The President and his wife have a lot of furniture in storage and it will take Mrs. Eisenhower some time to determine what pieces to put in the Gettysburg house.

Mr. Eisenhower said in October that he wanted to spend at least one night on the farm as soon as possible. And he means it. Chances are that sometime after Christmas he will satisfy that promise to himself. This means that his combination study and office at the Gettysburg house will be the first room to be furnished.

Leonard W. Hall, the portly Republican National Committee chairman, came to call on Mr. Eisenhower last week and was literally chased into the White House lobby by a cab driver.

A-Dusted Japanese

Get New Year's Leave

Tokyo (U.P.)—The 22 crewmen of the atom-dusted Japanese tuna boat "Fortunate Dragon" will spend New Year's with their families although they are still under going medical treatment, it was announced today.

The patients, who were showered with the fallout from the March 1 U.S. hydrogen bomb test in the Pacific, will leave Dec. 23 for their fishing village of Yaezu. The 23rd crewmember, radio operator Aikichi Kuboyama, died of his injuries.

MAKE CHRISTMAS FIRE SAFE!

Be careful of the wiring on your Christmas tree and don't let any open flames near it. Make sure you discard the tree before it gets too dry. Protect your family and your home by remembering some other rules: Don't smoke in bed—Don't let children play with matches—Don't use flammable cleaning fluids—Don't overload your wiring system and don't let junk collect in attic or basement.
