"TRUTH SERUM"

that makes trains tell their secrets

OUT in the shops at Southern Pacific, you'll find "diesel doctors" who can take a sample of lubricating oil out of locomotives, analyze it, and then detect and locate the source of trouble before it can cause costly breakdowns in service. This is just one part of the program of "preventive maintenance" that Southern Pacific has adopted to keep equipment in tip-top shape throughout our entire railroad system.

We use it on all our rolling stock—freight and passenger cars, as well as the diesels we mentioned above.

We also use preventive maintenance on our 13,500 miles of line, with the help of revolutionary "detector cars" which act as electronic detectives, spotting tiny flaws in rails long before they could become serious.

Such preventive maintenance pays off in many ways. It enables us to run the railroad more efficiently and smoothly, yet keep operating costs down. It also means faster, safer service for you.

In short, it helps Southern Pacific give you—and everyone else in the vast area we serve—the most modern and dependable freight and passenger service possible.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

All the men and women of the Southern Pacific family join me in wishing you a very Merry Christmas, and a happy, peaceful and prosperous New Year.

How Men Can Wrap Yule Gifts Described

Kansas City (U.P.)—In most households it's the woman who wraps the Christmas gifts, but mere man, even if he's all thumbs, can tie an eye-catching package if he wants to.

And one expert who knows exactly how it's done thinks he should. He can save money by glamorizing less expensive gifts. The man who wraps a $1,000 diamond bracelet as if it were a pair of work gloves isn't half the hero he might be with a pair of $5 nylons done up impressively.

So says Kaye King, a professional gift wrapping designer for Hallmark. She says that women have as much respect for a beautiful package as they do for its contents.

Midshipman Home—Dennis Davis, Annapolis, Md., a midshipman at the U. S. Naval academy, is visiting on 16-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Emery, 513 Beatty st. He is a Medford High school graduate and last year he attended the University of Oregon.

Presents Story—Miss Verna Cingcade, instructor of Bible history in the public schools, presented "The Christmas Story," during a luncheon meeting of the Medford Rotary club Tuesday at the Jackson hotel. Cliff Hanson, Boy Scout executive, the program chairman, introduced Miss Cingcade.

Son Visits—Albert Hoffman, an aviation ordinance chief petty officer with the Navy, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Ferns, route 3, Fern Valley. He is accompanied by D. C. Dexter of Cohasset, Minn., an aviation electrician chief. Both are with the Carrier Air Group 9 and recently returned to this country on the USS Hornet. Hoffman has been in the Navy for 18 years. He attended Phoenix and Ashland schools.

So, fellows, herewith some of her tips:

Key your gift wrapping to the personality of the recipient and the gift itself. If she is addicted to frills and fluffs, select a gift paper with a truly feminine design.

A gift for a woman who leans toward tailored clothes should be wrapped accordingly. Choose a paper with clean-cut, stylish lines.

A rule-of-thumb is to relate size of the paper design to size of package.

"Bold, forceful patterns need a larger box or package to show off their beauty," she said. "Similarly, a diminutive gift—that diamond bracelet, for example—will look its finest with a small design wrap."

Here, briefly are her tried-and-true procedures for wrapping gifts of the most frequently encountered shapes:

Rectangular—Place paper design down and center. Trim width to allow overlap of one-half inch along back. Trim length to provide extension that is slightly more than half the depth of package. Fasten paper along back with cellulose tape. Fold down ends precisely and tape.

Circular—Cut band of gift wrap as long as the circumference of package, with overlap of one-half inch. Band should exceed depth of package by one-half inch at top and bottom. Tape band to package. Neatly pleat excess at top and bottom. Cut two circles the size of package, damp with paste and attach to top and bottom.

Difficult—Irregularly-shaped gifts without boxes frequently can be wrapped effectively, by using "free form" technique. Simply center gift on full sheet of gift paper and bring edges to the top, where they are bunched and tied with ribbon. For an added touch, cut edges to form irregular points.

Wall Street

New York (U.P.)—Stocks moved irregularly in a moderately active session today. Railroad issues helped by wide gains in a few issues, set a new average high since May 28, 1930.

Industrials, at a new record high early in the day, fell off on profit taking. Utilities also fell behind.

Eugene Woman Gets Surprise Christmas

Eugene (U.P.)—A Eugene widow and her six children can expect a more cheerful Christmas this year than anticipated earlier, because of the long memory of an insurance agent.

Mrs. Gordon Byerly, whose husband was killed in logging truck accident shortly after Thanksgiving, learned her husband's insurance policy had lapsed seven years ago.

But Ira Stewart, Eugene agent for a life insurance company, remembered Byerly's name and checked with his main office. He found $2000 cash value remaining in the policy.

Mike Helps Pat Earn $20 Bounty for 'Cat

Berlin, N. H. (U.P.)—Mike

certainly teamed with Pat on this one. Pat Hickey of Berlin was accompanied part of the way to work by his dog, Mike, as usual. But contrary to routine, Mike didn't return to the kitchen to stay with Mrs. Priscilla Hickey.

This day the dog stopped in front of the woodshed adjacent to the Hickey home. Mrs. Hickey couldn't make the dog move. When Pat returned, he investigated and ended up by shooting a bobcat that Mike had held at bay for hours. The state pays a $20 bounty for each bobcat.
