Dennis Crosby, Son Of Crooner, Held On Drunk Charge

Hollywood — (U.P.) — Dennis Crosby, 20, one of the twin sons of crooner Bing Crosby, was ordered to appear in court on a plain drunk charge today after being arrested in a wild auto chase with police.

Young Crosby was booked early yesterday after a car in which he was riding with a friend was halted for speeding 55 miles an hour, swerving at pedestrians, running a red light and weaving recklessly.

To Enter Army

The crooner's son, who is to enter the Army in a few days, was released from the Los Angeles Wilshire division station after two hours behind bars when the Crosby family chauffer, Louis Serpe, arrived with $10 bail. The youth had $12.36 on him when arrested, officers said.

Police said they pursued the car, driven by Howard Norman Gilmore, a Stanford university student from Atherton, Calif., for more than a mile through city streets at speeds up to 55 miles an hour before overtaking it.

Gilmore, who was charged with drunk driving and freed on $263 bail, was ordered to appear in court tomorrow.

Pedestrians Friends

Police said the two pedestrians at which Gilmore allegedly swerved the car turned out to be friends of Crosby and Gilmore.

The pair, Paul B. Mardesich, 22, Saratoga, Calif., and Joseph Eldon Gresham, 23, Sunnyvale, Calif., were jailed as plain drunks and bailed out for $20. They will appear with Gilmore in court tomorrow.

"I knew those guys I swerved at," Gilmore told police. "I don't think I came close."

Crosby, a former student at Loyola university and Washington State college, listed his occupation at a rancher. Police described him as "very polite, very cooperative," and said he slept most of the time until bail arrived.

Going Steady Doesn't Constitute Engagement

Going steady during high school days does not mean that the boy and girl are engaged or that either has an obigation to marry the other. A woman writes:

(Q) "I was interested in your recent column about the high school girl who has been going steady with a boy since their sophomore year. She wanted him to propose to her so they could be engaged before she finished her schooling. You advised her not to be the one to bring up the subject of marriage. So far, I agree. But I do not agree with your implication that this boy has no obligation to ask this girl to marry him. After all, he has monopolized her time for so long that she has a right to expect him to. Since they are finishing school, why shouldn't he ask her to marry him as soon as he is settled in business? A girl likes to have the security that being engaged brings."

(A) When a girl wants to marry, of course it gives her a sense of security to be engaged. But going steady today carries none of the obligations that "keeping company" used to.

Dr. Hurlock

Boys and girls today go steady because it is convenient for both of them. They can count on each other for social affairs at school, and going steady is certainly not so expensive for the boy as dating a number of girls is. Many of his dates with his "steady" consist of sitting around and talking, an inexpensive form of entertainment.

If every boy felt obligated to marry the girls he went steady with at one time or another during his school days, he would be in a bad way. Most of these girls, he discovers, are not to his liking and he drops them. Only after years of dating experience does he find the one he wants to marry.

A girl, when she starts to go steady, knows that she is running the risk of being taken out of circulation and may have a hard time getting back. She knows that a schoolboy is not serious about marriage, and that he will feel no obligation to propose to her, even if he has monopolized her time for several years.

Bus Smashes Auto; Two Airmen Killed

Prewitt, N. M. —(U.P.)— Two airmen returning from holiday leaves were killed before dawn near here today when a huge Greyhound bus skidded on icy U. S. 66 and smashed into their car.

State police withheld names of the victims pending notification of their families by the Air Force. State Patrolman Dick McCool said the car bore Iowa plates.

Ten of the passengers in the bus, loaded with college students and servicemen returning from vacations, suffered injuries in the crash, but only two, both women, were seriously injured.

Four ambulances from nearby Grants and Gallup took the injured into Gallup for treatment. McCool said the eastbound bus smashed broadside into the car which was headed west toward Gallup.

8008 Federal Workers Ousted as Bad Risks

Washington —(U.P.)— The Civil Service Commission reported today that 8008 federal employees have been fired as security risks or resigned while their status was clouded by unfavorable security information.

The files of 2096 of this number "contained information indicating, in varying degrees, subversive activities, subversive associations, or membership in subversive organizations," the commission said.

The other 5912 include drunks, sexual perverts, those with criminal records, character defects, and persons found to be insane or undesirable for other medical reasons.

Under President Eisenhower's security order of May 28, 1953, all of these are characterized as security risks along with those accused of subversive activities or associations.

The emigration of Scottish men and women to Canada, the United States and Australia from the Hebrides seems to be on the ebb today. The Hebridean is beginning to realize that life at home is not so hard as it might be in newer lands.

Fall in Mud Puddle Drowns Youth, 15

Roseburg — (U.P.) — A 15-year-old Umpqua, Ore., boy died Friday afternoon when he apparently fell from his bicycle on an old logging road near Umpqua and drowned in a mud puddle.

Russell Walker Jennie set out yesterday on a bicyole ride. When he didn't return, his father went looking for the boy and found his body on the road about 7:30 p.m.

According to Coroner L. L. Powers the boy had a past history of fainting and apparently fainted while riding his bike and fell into the puddle and drowned.

WHO EVER HEARD OF A MILK HANGOVER?

NOBODY!
There isn't any such thing.

There are, however, lots of people who enjoy a glass of milk before bedtime. More important, they enjoy the sound sleep that comes quickly, stays all night through. And the next day they feel fit as a fiddle, right as rain.

Why don't you try Nature's own nightcap ...a glass of milk at bedtime.

Sound advice for sounder sleep.
