Around Hollywood

By ALINE MOSSBY
United Press Correspondent

Hollywood—(U.P.)—Liberace is being helped along the road to recovery by get-well gifts from his fans, from 40,000 cards to a monogrammed hot water bottle and sequined cards.

Liberace recently revealed he was suffering from a mild heart strain and had been ordered to stay in bed for two months.

The pianist is recovering so nicely that he has been hopping out to dinner at the Coconut Grove and other well-upholstered recuperation centers. I dropped around to his business manager's office to see how the Liberace fans were faring, and apparently they feel worse than Liberace.

"We've had long distance phone calls from all over the country, wanting to know about Lee," exclaimed the business manager, an energetic man named Seymour Heller.

"Telegrams! Letters! Christmas cards! Get-well cards! The mailman was bringing the cards into Lee's house in grocery boxes. He must have received at least 40,000."

Some of the more concerned fans of TV's genuine matinee idol sent him gifts. One is the hot water bottle. It has a felt cover embroidered with that piano and the signature, "Liberace." That autograph is on nearly everything the fans sent—handkerchiefs, socks, handkerchiefs and the playing cards, sprinkled with sequins.

An 88-year-old Cincinnati lady, who says she wears a tiny Liberace piano-candle emblem on her coat, wrote, "For Heaven's sake, rest. We have all expected too much of you." The president of the Liberace Club of Broadview, Ill., warned, "You have over-worked yourself for all of your fans... your health is more important."

Two Denver teen-agers rushed a special delivery get-well card, "We are praying for your complete recovery." A Baltimore lady pleaded, "Come back to us safe and sound." The Sherman Oaks fan club wrote, "All the club members are deeply concerned over your illness."

"The whole family cried when we heard you were ill," a New York fan letter said.

Even Joanne Rio, Liberace's ex-girl friend, wired, "Unhappy to hear of your illness." A Pittsburgh fan waxed poetical in a wire, "Miles apart, close at heart, all praying for speedy recovery."

Business manager Heller said Liberace will return to his TV films in February and open the new Riviera hotel in Las Vegas in April, but he had to cancel his concert tour.

The pianist's January project will be compiling his favorite recipes.

"Each dish has to do with a personal event in his life," explained Heller as he loaded me down with four Liberace record albums and earrings in the shape of pianos and candelabra. "The book will be an autobiography with recipes."

As We Live

Stepmother's Job Not an Easy One

Being a stepmother is one of the most difficult jobs in the world. A young woman should face this frankly before she makes a decision to marry. Here's a young woman with such a problem:

(Q) "I am 22 years old and have been going with a man 10 years my senior. He is a widower with a 10-year-old son. I love him very much and I know he loves me, for he has asked me to marry him. My folks are very much opposed to the marriage. They feel I am too young to assume the responsibility of taking care of this boy. The grandmother has been living at my friend's home and taking care of the boy since his mother's death two years ago. I feel that she does not approve of me either, but I know the boy is fond of me. I have never had much experience with children, since I am an only child. What is your advice?"

(A) I agree with your parents and with the boy's grandmother. You are not fitted, at this time, for the responsibilities that would fall on your shoulders if you married this man. The grandmother's opposition will not help make things easy for you. While she undoubtedly would move out and turn over the management of the home and the child to you, she could still be a troublemaker with the boy and his father.

If you love this man so much you feel you never could be happy unless you married him, I suggest two things you might do to prepare yourself for life with him. Both will take time.

First, take a course in child care at the local Y.W.C.A., the high school, or wherever such a course is given. Then teach a Sunday School class, or help with Girl Scouts, Brownies, or other such community organizations dealing with children.

Second, try to win the grandmother's respect and confidence. Drop in to see her during the day, and ask her to tell you how she handles the boy. Ask her if she would be willing to stay for a period of time after you married until you learned how to manage the boy and the home. If she is willing to help you, you should be able to make a go of this marriage.

Boy Scouts

Troop 15

The Boy Scouts of Troop 15, Phoenix, held a court of honor December 30 at the Presbyterian church, Warren Haggard, O. P. Frazier and A. MacIntosh presented the awards.

Tenderfoot pins went to Ray Wallace and Ernest Bolz. Second class pins were awarded to James Scott, Glenn Thompson, Charles Sullivan and Bobby Nichols.

Nichols, Jimmy Floyd received a first class pin.

Merit Badges were issued to Jack Rinn, citizenship and plumbing; Henry Scott, beef production, forestry and citizenship; David Barlow, home repairs, fishing and painting; Jimmy Floyd, cooking, fishing and plumbing; Charles Sullivan, home repairs.

Newly elected officers are scribe, Roger Kelso; patrol leaders, Glenn Thompson and Jimmy Floyd; assistant patrol leaders, Charles Sullivan and James Scott; librarian, Bob Nichols; quartermaster, Jack Rinn. Henry Scott is junior assistant scoutmaster.

After the awards, Richard DeGroot showed motion pictures of Boy scout exploring.

Oregon State Campus

Boundary Limits Drink

Corvallis—(U.P.)—Corvallis city council last night put a boundary around Oregon State College excluding the sale of liquor near the college.

The action was said to have the sanction of the college administration. The boundary varied, but is about one mile from the main buildings of the campus.

The action puts into an ordinance what has been an unwritten policy followed by the council for many years. Only recently has the council eased the restrictions on the sale of liquor in the city.
