

Demos Hope To Prove Red Hatred; Work for Best Interests of U.S.

Washington — (U.P.) — Democrats, still seething over GOP campaign charges of softness toward Communism, flashed the signal today that they are girding for a big counter offensive.

The Democrats hope to prove to American voters in the next two years that (1) they hate Communism just as much as the Republicans, and (2) they can deliver on a legislative program that will be "in the best interests of the people of the United States."

The tip-off on the Democratic plan came yesterday when Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas once again took over the gavel as Speaker of the House.

Expressing the views of many of his colleagues, as well as of himself Rayburn said: "I want to say, as I said on the stump last fall, that we as Democrats do not indulge in personalities; we are not an accusing kind of people; we do not have to be that way . . ."

"It matters not what the heat may be, here or out there, we are not going to indict people en masse. We are not going to say that just because we do not like somebody politically he is soft on Communism or that he believes in subversion, and no Democrat in this House in a position of responsibility nor a Democrat out there in a position of responsibility is going to act or talk like that without being frowned upon and repudiated by me."

Rayburn went on to say that the Democrats are prepared to cooperate with President Eisenhower when they think he is right. But the ultimate action will depend he said, on what "we think are in the best interests of the people of the United States."

These remarks were in effect a rerun of comments made Tuesday by Rayburn at a secret Democratic caucus.

On that first occasion Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, House Democratic leader, joined his chief in assailing campaign attacks made by some Republicans.

There also has been talk among Democrats in the Senate that one of their number would make a speech along the same lines as that of Rayburn's.

Rayburn did not say publicly which Republican statements he had in mind. But, Democrats generally took exception to the statement by Vice-President Richard Nixon that the Republicans had "driven the Communists, the fellow travelers, and the security risks out of government by the thousands."

Rayburn and other Democrats also have taken exception to the "20 years of treason" charges against the Democratic party by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, (R-Wis.)

Air Experiment for Three-Cent Mail Delivery Proves Successful

Washington — (U.P.) — The Post Office Department's experiment in hauling three-cent mail by air is saving money and speeding delivery by 24 to 48 hours.

It also is providing experience which Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield believes might prove invaluable in case an enemy attack should disrupt surface transportation in this country.

The experiment was inaugurated Oct. 6, 1953 between New York, Washington and Chicago. It has been extended gradually—first to three Florida cities, then to a "feeder" system in the Middle West, and more recently, along the Pacific Coast from Seattle to San Diego.

Summerfield said the net saving to the government has run about $154,000 a year on the New York, Washington, Chicago, Florida phase of the experiment. There are no figures for the other experimental areas.

Spot checks in all areas show speedier delivery. In many cases the elapsed time between post-marking at the sending point and delivery at the receiving end has been speeded 24 hours. A test between Los Angeles and Portland, Ore., showed delivery to be 48 hours quicker than would have been possible by rail.

One reason for swifter delivery is that mailing habits, railroad schedules and postman delivery hours don't always jibe. There also are fewer mail-carrying trains than there used to be.

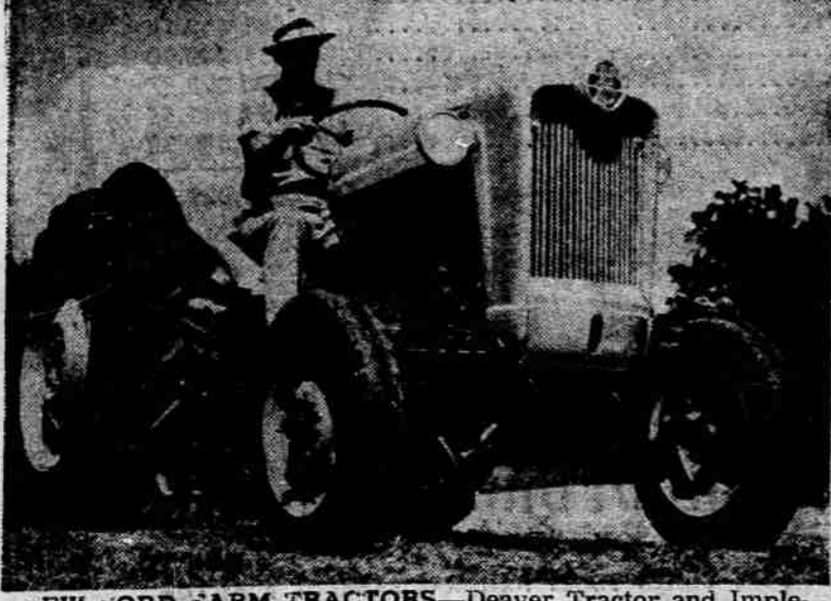

Most mail is dumped into collection boxes in the late afternoon. By the time it has been sorted, some overnight trains al-

DAV Chapter Starts Rehabilitation Project

Organization of a new project for the assistance of indigent veterans has been completed by Jackson county chapter No. 8, Disabled American Veterans.

Entitled the Veterans Rehabilitation Salvage center, the project will find ways for veterans to help themselves, by collecting discarded articles from the public and repairing them for sale. Most of the disabled veterans who will be aided are only partially disabled, it was pointed out, and will be able to do the repair work.

On North Riverside
The center has been set up at the DAV building at 1515 North Riverside ave. Lester P. Mathes, Central Point, is manager. The board of trustees which will operate the center include Chapter Commander Lester Moser, chairman, Pat Gra-

NEW FORD FARM TRACTORS—Deaver Tractor and Implement Co., 634 North Central ave., will display the new 1953 Ford farm tractors beginning tomorrow. Shown above is the 850 model, equipped with live power take-off. It and the 850 model have Ford's field-proven "Red Tiger" engines, with power 30 per cent higher than previous models, and with five-speed transmissions. Another series, the 600, is offered by Ford this year, marking the first time in almost 50 years that Ford has offered two sizes of tractor. Both series have headlights and taillights as standard equipment.

Shasta-Butte Valley Project To Be Sought

Tulelake, Calif. — (U.P.) — A bill for the establishment of a Shasta-Butte Valley irrigation project by the interior department will be sought in the January session of congress by Clair Engle, district congressman.

Engle announced his planned bill concurrently with the release of a resolution of the California Klamath river commission asking Interior Secretary Douglas McKay to "withhold approval of any power contract including the renewal of the present California-Oregon Power company contract" until the commission finishes its present study.
