

Dixon-Yates Contract Attack Renewed by Democrat Opponents

Washington — (U.P.) — Democrats are quietly preparing a legislative one-two punch which they hope will knock out the controversial Dixon-Yates power contract.

The renewed Democratic attack on the contract may produce the first major battle of the new session.

Their first move will be to introduce a resolution expressing the sense of Congress that the contract should be voided.

The second may be a move to withhold funds for government payments under the contract.

The resolution against Dixon-Yates is expected soon during the early lull in the Senate and House. Informal sources reported the resolution idea already has been cleared with House speaker Sam Rayburn. Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), has been advised of the plan but will be consulted further before it goes forward, they said.

The two legislative moves have been discussed at an unannounced meeting of Democrats who serve on the Congressional Atomic Energy committee.

Rep. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.), an outspoken critic of the contract, will introduce the resolution expressing the sense of the Congress that execution of the contract would be "inimical" to the nation's best interests. The resolution will state that the contract should be withdrawn before February 15 so that no cancellation charges will be incurred, he said.

"It will be clear warning to the AEC that they will have trouble on their appropriations should they persist in putting the contract into effect," Holifield said.

Would Kill Contract

Another committee member, who asked that he not be named, said refusal of the Atomic Energy commission to comply with such a resolution would, in effect, kill the contract. He conceded that the resolution, which is not signed by the President, would not have the full force of law.

But he said congress, traditionally touchy about its powers, would not vote funds to support a program which had been opposed by votes of the Senate and House.

Driver Got Excited; Cops Finally Nab Him

Houston, Tex. — (U.P.) — Patrolmen M. L. Singleton and Leroy Mouser, traveling 85 miles an hour, fired 18 shots before they halted Vastine Fenix, 21.

Fenix, arrested for running 10 red lights, eight stop signs and going 85 miles an hour in a 30-mile zone, told the officers, "I just got excited."

Terry Brereton To Visit France As YMCA Delegate

Terry Brereton, son of Arthur Brereton, 161 Ross lane, has been named a delegate to the Centennial World conference of the World Alliance of YMCAs, to be held in August at Paris, France, it was announced today.

The Medford high school student will represent the Medford, Ashland, Klamath Falls, and Roseburg YMCAs. After being selected by the southern Oregon YMCAs, his application was sent to the Pacific Northwest Area council in Seattle, which selected him from a group of applicants from Idaho, Washington, and Oregon.

Based on Leadership

Medford YMCA officials state that the choice was based on the Medford youth's "outstanding leadership ability as demonstrated in the YMCA's programs and at YMCA camp, where he acted as counselor, and on his scholastic record and high qualities of character."

Terry, who will be one of 20 boys and girls chosen to represent the Pacific northwest, is active in YMCA programs including Hi-Y and YMCA swimming instruction. He is a member of the high school band and Phi-Chem, the high school chemistry club.

10,000 To Attend

An estimated 10,000 representatives of 78 countries will attend the conference, scheduled for August 12 to 23. The Medford boy will take part in the division for older boys and girls. The World Alliance of YMCAs was formed in 1855, when a group of 89 young men representing the YMCAs of eight nations, met in Paris and set up the world wide organization.
