The PRINTED MESSAGE is the one that LIVES!
It didn't matter what had become of that original piece of crude paper upon which A. Lincoln had written the message that began: "Fourscore and seven years ago..." Sensing the impermanence of spoken words, Lincoln himself declared:
"The world will little note nor long remember what we say here..." But his words were caught and preserved for all time by the newspaper presses of the nation.
Nor did it matter that the singing words of Homer, his Iliad and Odyssey, were spoken from memory, for there were scribes who wrote them down and kept them fresh and living for all mankind.

Yes, the written message, and chiefly the printed message, is the one that lives. But more than that, the written message is tangible as well as permanent. You can return again and again to it, clip it out, pass it on to others.
Without wishing to profane Lincoln's glorious words, or the ancient classics, The Mail Tribune asks you to consider the proposition that the written message is the one that lives in terms of advertising.
The printed page, rich in detail, exact in its message, can be studied by the reader... not fifteen seconds, not a minute—but for an hour if the reader so wishes... referred to the following day... week... month.
But, more importantly, from the psychological point of view, the printed advertisement is a message read willingly. When Mrs. Smith sits down with her Mail Tribune she is asking to be sold; she wants to know about the new cake mix. And Mr. Brown wants to study the features of the new cars.

THE MAIL TRIBUNE wishes to remind merchants and businessmen of the basic wisdom of building your advertising promotion around VISUAL PRINTED MEDIA. In other words, if you want your advertising message to WORK and to LAST, put it in PRINT—FIRST!
