Training Grant Applications Sought by Medford Altrusans

Applications for the vocational training grant recently announced by Medford Altrusa club should be completed and in the hands of the committee by Monday, Feb. 14, according to an announcement by the chairman, Mrs. Enid Rankin, this week. After that time, applicants must be interviewed personally, and aptitude tests given to winning candidates before training courses are started. The latter tests have been made available by the local office of Oregon, State Employment service which is co-operating fully with Altrusa through its director, John Patton. Mr. Patton is appearing with Altrusa members on a panel discussion of the project on TV and radio this week.

"Women go to work at any age," states an Altrusa booklet, to be found in employment offices and quoted by Alice Leopold, director of women activities in the US Labor Department. Of the 20,000,000 women now working in the United States, over half are more than 38 years of age," Mrs. Leopold says in a recent article, "However successful statistics prove older women are, age restrictions and employment difficulties are greater for women than men, and women are often considered too old at 35. The older woman can remove some of these age restrictions by securing refresher job training or new vocational training."

Lindsay Crosby Denies Romance

Hollywood — (U.P.) — Lindsay Crosby, 17-year-old son of Bing, said today little Nancy Sinatra is "a very nice girl" but insisted it's only a teenage friendship and not a budding romance.

The friendship of the youngsters was revealed yesterday when crooner Frank Sinatra said in Melbourne, Australia, that Lindsay has been visiting his 14-year-old daughter.

He quoted Bing as telling him "Lindsay is going around the house with sheep's eyes" over Nancy.

But Lindsay shyly said today "We are good friends."

His older brother, Gary, confirmed that "Linnny goes over to see Nancy once in a while." "But he also goes out with a girl from Santa Barbara, and one from Spokane, and one here," Gary grinned.

Troop Supper Girl Scout Troop 19, Roosevelt neighborhood, gave a supper for members as a requirement for the cook's badge. The menu consisted of barbecued hamburgers, potato salad, carrot sticks and cookies. Each Scout contributed an item of food for the event.

Sheila Nelder-meyer and Judy Acord made three batches of cocoa, each with a different kind of milk. The scouts decided they liked cocoa made with whole milk best. This was also a requirement of the cook's badge.
